BRITISH CLUB UNARMED MOB IN INDIA RIOT

Tribune Man Views Police Attacks.

A leak in the British censor's office at Bombay, India, has revealed the complete suppression of a dispatch to THE TRIBUNE giving a vivid eyewitness account of one of the largest civil disobedience demonstrations staged by Gandhi's followers.

Charles Dailey, TRIBUNE correspondent, was not informed of the censor's action on July 11 when he filed the dispatch and only learned of it when questioned by authorities concerning publication on July 26 of excerpts from it in the "Congress Bulletin," one of the numerous mimeographed circulars, which the rebels issue because all their newspapers have been closed down by the British government. Mr. Dailey was able to convince the authorities by cabling London and Chicago that the "leak" was in their own office. He then sent a copy of the dispatch to a residential address in Chicago in order to prevent further attempts at its suppression.

The dispatch is the first actual eyewitness story to reach America of how the British-led police in India are fighting the Indian rebels. It indicates that the censor has done a thorough job of editing and toning down such dispatches as were allowed to come over the cables. Here's the dispatch

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, July 11.—[Suppressed by cable censor; forwarded by secret mail.]—The police battled two hours with the nationalists this afternoon and the police, with the support of military forces, "won" when darkness fell. Hundreds of nationalists were sent to hospitals, but their determination exceeded that of June 21 while the police brutalities also exceeded the former riot.

I witnessed the battle from a pile of timbers until the last lathi charge drove off those still remaining. Never have I seen such wicked clubbing by white officers, fierce lathi [bamboo sticks] charges, cavalry dashes upon unarmed, unresisting people.

During the entire afternoon not even a stone was thrown at the police. White capped congressmen went down one by one, under the blows. They were picked up by the "war council" medical corps, members wading in time and again with stretchers carrying off the wounded.

Ambulances Kept Busy.

Where I stood eight ambulances at one time loaded the wounded, while at other regions of the wide plaza the clatter of ambulance gongs could be heard. Every ambulance in the city was utilized, together with the surgical staffs of at least twelve hospitals.

The conflict had a military backing, not because of the danger of violence by the unarmed nationalists, but because the prayers they sought to offer and the parade that was to follow were each a tribute to the Garhwali rifle soldiers, who refused to shoot unarmed men, women and children on the frontier and who since have been court martialed.

Anticipating resistance, women participants were also banned and even the carrying of umbrellas was stopped by the nationalists so that they would not be accused of even trying to resist.

Vote to Defy Authorities.

The congress announcement stated the procession was "to honor the sons' act of humanity, they having set an example to all brave men that their real strength is for the protection of the weak." The announcement also said that after prayers on the Maidan esplanade a silent procession would march 15 minutes later over a route through the fort section.

Some hours before the meeting Police Commissioner Healy notified nationalist leaders the parade was forbidden, but the independence committee voted to defy the authorities.

Both mounted and unmounted forces, some armed with rifles, some with revolvers, and all others with lathis, took their places on the esplanade early. White officers also carried clubs and rubber weapons.

Even before the time set for the parade, the police and other armed forces began their attacks.

In the first 10 minutes seven lathi charges were made. From my position close to a bronze statue of the Angel of Peace I saw white officers

CUBS BEAT GIANTS, 3 TO 2, AS TAYLOR SCORES ON STEAL

Danny Taylor's theft of home with two out in the ninth gave the Cubs a 3 to 2 victory over the Giants yesterday before 45,000 at Wrigley field. Brilliant defensive play halted New York rallies and enabled the Cubs to go five games ahead of the second place Giants. Score:

Kills Two U.S. Agents; Slain Fighting Posse

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Two United States immigration inspectors were shot and killed early today on a train at Emo, Ont., 25 miles west of here, and their assailant was shot and fatally wounded 12 hours later by a posse.

The inspectors killed were Lawrence Doton, about 30 years old, of Ranier, Minn., and Lawrence Jones, 27, of Warrod, Minn. Their assailant was Emeric Frenett, 21, of Fort Frances, who died late today from bullet wounds inflicted by the possemen.

Killed Without Warning.

The inspectors were killed without warning by Frenett, who thought they were about to arrest him, as Fort Frances police had pursued Frenett when they caught him tampering with automobiles.

Doton was shot as he awoke from a nap on the train and Jones was killed as he boarded the train at Emo, as was his duty each night. Neither inspector had been aware that Frenett was sought by local police, according to officials here. Both inspectors worked on Duluth, Winnipeg and Pacific trains, their duty being to check passengers coming into the United States from Canada.

Before Frenett escaped from the train he had robbed members of the train crew. George Ireland, train conductor, said Frenett had forced him to walk through five cars of the train. The passengers were not molested. Ireland said he first noticed Frenett hiding in a vestibule. Drawing a gun, he warned Ireland not to speak as they walked through the train. As they reached the smoking car Ireland was told to sit down on a seat and Frenett joined him. He was sitting there as Doton awoke and fired as the officer got up.

Robs Members of Crew.

Frenett rushed from the coach to the engine cab. There he ordered J. R. Russell, engineer, to "go ahead." Russell started the train, but it had gone only a short distance when the emergency brakes were set from the rear and the train stopped. Russell, the fireman and brakemen were then ordered from the cab and robbed.

No trace of the slayer was found until about 6 a. m. when word was received that he was at the farm house of H. Stockfish, just across the road. A posse set out for the Stockfish home. An exchange of shots followed. All through the morning the shooting continued.

When all other efforts to force Frenett from the house had failed, one posseman got close enough to the structure to set it on fire. The smoke finally drove Frenett out into the

SHOOT BUNGALOW OWNER TO DEATH IN CICERO ALLEY

Joseph Terravecchia, 44 years old, by occupation a butcher, according to his wife's story, was mysteriously assassinated last night in an alley in the rear of his newly built bungalow home at 3405 South 59th avenue, Cicero.

Cicero police, notified at 11:30 p. m. that a shooting had occurred in the vicinity of 34th street and 59th avenue, found Terravecchia lying face down across the alley curb. He was in his shirt sleeves.

Detecting signs of life, they took him to the near by home of Dr. Joseph Pietroski, 4926 West 39th place, Cicero. He died on the way of shotgun wounds in the back of the head and in the region of the right kidney.

The officers, claiming the widow was too hysterical for questioning, permitted her to remain at home and departed with the body for the county morgue without searching the house.

S. W. Straus, Ill 3 Weeks, Takes a Turn for Worse

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—S. W. Straus, president of the investment company that bears his name and of the Straus National Bank and Trust company, who has been ill in his suite in the Hotel Ambassador for the last three weeks, was said tonight to have taken a turn for the worse. Friends of Mr. Straus said from the time his illness reached a crisis a week ago until today he had shown steady improvement.

Back of Yards Raider Stirs Up Gold Coast

In a liquor raid late Saturday night on the Club Nagel, landmark restaurant at 1038 North State street, the East Chicago avenue police arrested not only the manager but all the patrons. They were charged with being inmates of a disorderly house.

Capt. Michael W. Delaney, who a week ago succeeded Capt. William Christensen as commander of the station, directed the raid. He said the action was in line with a policy he would pursue in a cleanup drive of the district, in which are located some of the city's centers of night life.

From Back of Yards.

"I come from back of the yards," explained the captain. "The poor people live there. I closed up their beer flats and I intend to close up the booze joints of the gold coast. If the prohibition law is to be enforced against the poor it should also be enforced against the rich."

When the police arrived at the Nagel eleven men and five women in evening clothes were sipping highballs and champagne. Capt. Delaney, Lieut. Eugene Barry, Sergt. Harry Penzin, and two women decoys took a table and ordered a round of brandy. When it was served Capt. Delaney arose and announced the place was raided.

Two patrol wagons carried away the protesting guests. They arrived at the station at 11:30 p. m. and remained until 1:40 a. m., when they were bailed out by a man who said he was Thomas Burke, a realty broker, 1150 North La Vergne avenue. They will be arraigned this morning before Municipal Judge John H. Lyle.

List Names of Those Seized.

Russell Chickering, manager, was booked as keeping a disorderly house and for violating the state prohibition laws. Those arrested gave the following names and addresses:

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crane, 20 East Delaware place, Mr. Crane saying he was an investment broker.

Charles B. Schram, business man of Fort Worth and Houston, Tex., and his wife.

John Frankenthal, contractor, 4825 Woodlawn avenue.

Advice to Motorists

Two of the five automobile routes to Curtiss airport were less congested than the other three yesterday. The Blue route from the heart of Chicago, the Red route via Sheridan road and Dempster street, and the Pink route from the north shore towns and Milwaukee were at times clogged almost to impassability. To eliminate this condition, Maj. George A. Quinlan county highway superintendent, suggests that Chicagoans living south of North avenue drive west to the Mannheim road and turn north on the Green route. Motorists living north of Fort Sheridan, he suggests, might drive west to the Milwaukee road, following the Yellow route south to the airport.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Two cross-country Derbies raced across the finish line at Curtiss airport late yesterday afternoon before a crowd of 55,000 air fans who crowded the grandstands and overflowed into nearby fields to watch a brilliant program of races and stunts in the second day of the 1930 national air races.

The colorful holiday crowds saw Charles S. [Casey] Jones, grizzled flyer of barnstorming days, stage a stirring comeback to racing fame in a triumph over a field of formidable contenders in a cabin plane race. They saw for the first time three autogyros in formation. And they rose and cheered during the final hour of the program when four members of the international flying team monopolized the air.

Al Williams Arrives.

As the spectators were straggling out of the grandstands a yellow streak flashed over the grandstands and the roar of a Wright Cyclone engine thundered down to the field. It was Al Williams, the belated headliner, bringing his Curtiss Hawk to join his troop of foreign airmen.

"I didn't make any time," Williams said, as he climbed from the cockpit of his racer. "My compass was way off and I had to stop at Middletown, Pa., and Cleveland, O., to repair it."

The arrival of Williams, former navy ace, completes the international stunt team organized by him. Motor and plane troubles of the team which have forced a curtailment of the activities of some of the members were cleared up yesterday and a complete performance is assured for today.

Lindbergh Is on Way.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is due today but when and where he will land was a matter of conjecture for all save the premier American flyer himself. Whether he will take part in the flying program was another problem. Last year at the national meet he led a team of "High Hat" flyers from the navy in a daily exhibition.

What part Lindbergh will take in the races, it was conceded, would be done without previous announcement. However, it was learned definitely

Dress Prices Show Effect of Drop in Wool

A lot of dumb animals spent a pleasant summer in the far west. At least it was pleasanter than it would have been if the ranch barbers hadn't plied their trade. Taking off wool fleece with the temperature playing around 100 isn't making goats out of sheep. We know that the shears were used extensively on many a sheep's back, because the price of wool is down 25 per cent from a year ago.

Moreover, it was a favor to more than the animals affected. For fall dresses are made of wool, and the lower woolen price is largely responsible for the lower price on dresses. During August, the prices are not only less than a year ago, but lower than they will be a little later. It's a good time to take advantage of the sheep's pleasant summer. You can save money by buying now the dress you expected to buy next month.

Armed Posses Hunt Girl, 10, and Kidnaper

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—A sheriff's posse, augmented by nearly 100 farmers, pressed a search of the highways, swamps and timberlands southeast of here tonight for a farmhand and a 10 year old girl he kidnaped last night.

The missing girl is Betty Ann Foster, daughter of Ernest Foster, Porter county farmer. The kidnaper is Claude Dellinger, 27 years old, a war veteran and for five years a hired hand on the Foster farm until he left this section last winter.

Dellinger revisited the Foster farm yesterday afternoon seeking his former job. Foster already had a man, but joined his wife in asking Dellinger to stay for supper.

Invites Girls for Ride.

After the meal and chores were finished the Fosters drove down the road to visit a neighbor. Dellinger, left alone with Betty Ann and two neighbors' daughters, invited them to ride with him to the nearby village of Malden, where, he said, he intended buying overalls.

On returning about 5:30 p. m., he dismissed the other children, but refused to allow Betty Ann out of the car. Alarmed, the other girls ran down the road to notify Mr. Foster as Dellinger drove away with the child.

The farmer roused his neighbors and the search was started, the farmers armed with shotguns, knives and scythes. At 10 a. m. today, Foster, who had been directing the search from a neighbor's car, went to get his own and found in the seat a note, indicating that Dellinger premeditated the kidnaping.

Threatens to Kill Child.

"I've got Betty Ann and I'm going away," it read. "If you set the sheriff on my trial, I'll kill her."

The farmer and his neighbors debated an hour before notifying Sheriff Burney Maxwell at Valparaiso. Sheriff Maxwell immediately assumed charge, spread the alarm to neighboring counties and set every deputy on his force, except the turnkey, on the hunt.

Dellinger, known also as Claude Collier, is described as 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighing 145 pounds. Foster had previously regarded the farm hand as a sober and industrious man.

POLICEMAN USES RED LANTERNS ON STINGING BEES

A problem of public safety confronted Patrolman Paul Allen of the Evanston police department last night.

Swarms of honey bees were buzzing all along the block in Dewey street between Lake and Grove streets and the harassed householders wouldn't venture from their homes. Allen was detailed to handle the emergency.

"I just hung some red lanterns around," he explained. "No, not on the bees' tails—on the tree branches. That'll keep folks from stepping on 'em and you know a bee won't bother you unless you bother him."

"That's right," Allen was assuring the dubious sergeant, then—"Ouch," he yelled. "I'm coming into the station. A bee just stung me on the neck."

STUDENT SLAIN AS WEALTHY MEN FIGHT 5 ROBBERS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Miller Wilkison, 23, a Princeton university senior, was shot and killed as police battled five men who attempted to hold up a party of prominent and wealthy citizens early today.

Wilkison and other male guests at the home of Ray S. Dunham, real estate operator, seized the holdup men when they appeared at the party. A free-for-all fight followed which lasted until police arrived and opened fire. Wilkison was shot in the temple during the exchange of shots and died soon afterward.

Two of the robbers were wounded and captured, while a third was taken into custody a short distance away.

REVENUE GAIN IS 100 MILLION OVER LAST YEAR

Illinois Second as Taxpayer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Internal revenue receipts for the fiscal year 1930 totaled slightly more than three billion dollars, a preliminary report published by the treasury department disclosed today.

The total receipts, including income and miscellaneous taxes, for 1930 fiscal year ending June 30 last were $3,040,145,733, an even 100 million dollars' increase over collections the previous year, amounting to $2,939,054,375.

Most of the increase was registered in income taxes, which showed a gain of $78,000,000 over the 1929 fiscal year, notwithstanding the fact that the 1 per cent tax reduction voted by congress last December affected the quarterly payments of taxes paid in March and June of the present calendar year. This increase was attributed largely to the exceptional prosperity enjoyed by corporations and individuals in the calendar year 1929, against which the taxes collected in these two quarters were assessed.

Opinion was divided in official circles regarding whether the fact that the 1 per cent reduction had not cut revenues as much as expected would have any decided effect on maintenance of the 1 per cent reduction for another year. President Hoover wants to continue the reduction, but no definite statement as to whether business conditions will make this possible has been issued from the treasury. As Republican leaders in congress are ready to support legislation continuing the reduction if it is recommended by the White House, indications are such a bill will be introduced.

Illinois retained her position in second place among the states in the amount of its citizens' income tax payments, turning a total of $223,375,181 into the federal treasury. This amount represented slightly more than 9 per cent of the total income tax collection from the 48 states, which amounted to $2,410,259,230. The income tax payment made by Illinois citizens represented an increase of $6,000,000 in round numbers over the previous year.

New York Alone Passes Illinois.

The treasury figures disclosed that of all the states only New York contributed a greater amount in income taxes than Illinois. Pennsylvania, which was displaced in the national standing by Illinois last year, remains in third place. Michigan comes fourth, Ohio, which was sixth last year, has moved up to fifth, displacing California, which is now in sixth place. Massachusetts is seventh.

In miscellaneous taxes North Carolina with its cigaret tax contribution, heads the list of states with New York second. Virginia, also a tobacco state, ranks third, and Pennsylvania fourth. Illinois, Ohio, California, Michigan, and Massachusetts are also up among the leading states.

In the total of income and miscellaneous taxes New York state with a grand total of 929 millions heads all the states. North Carolina is second, Illinois third, Pennsylvania fourth, California fifth, Ohio sixth, Michigan seventh, New Jersey eighth, and Massachusetts ninth. These nine states pay more than 75 per cent of the total internal revenue receipts turned into the United States treasury.

Seven Leading States.

Seven states, each of which turned more than 100 millions dollars in income tax receipts into the treasury, paid approximately 70 per cent of the government total income tax collections. These states together with the amount of income taxes paid by each and the percentage of increase or decrease compared with 1929 income tax receipts follow:

State.	Taxes paid, 1930.	Per cent.
1. New York	$830,165,401	11 increase
2. Illinois	223,375,181	3 increase
3. Pennsylvania	213,043,915	2 increase
4. Michigan	127,674,886	6 decrease
5. Ohio	126,149,812	4 increase
6. California	125,883,479	10 increase
7. Massachusetts	109,682,905

Income tax receipts for 1930 paid by states in the Chicago area not included in the foregoing table were Wisconsin, $34,132,678, a 9 per cent decrease; Indiana, $23,340,083, an 8 per cent decrease; and Iowa, $12,842,980, an increase of less than 1 per cent.

Four States Pay Half.

Four states—New York, North Carolina, Illinois, and Pennsylvania—paid more than half of the total internal revenue collections. New York's combined income and miscellaneous tax total was in round numbers 929 millions, that of North Carolina 274 millions, Illinois, 247,000 millions, and Pennsylvania, 230 millions.

Miscellaneous tax totals showed a gain of $22,000,000 over 1929. The figures for 1930 were $629,886,502 compared with $607,779,946 in 1929. Of this total North Carolina paid 257 millions. Illinois paid $23,762,456. Michigan's total was $9,401,313; that of Wisconsin $1,379,117; Indiana, $2,958,458, and Iowa, $525,685.

Division by Sources.

A recapitulation of internal revenue receipts by general sources shows the three billion total was paid as follows: Income, $2,410,259,230; cigars, tobacco, $450,339,000; stamp taxes, including playing cards, $77,728,669; estate, $64,769,625; admissions and dues, $16,751,759; distilled spirits and beverages, $11,695,000; excise taxes, manufacturers, $2,664,652; special taxes, $635,649, and miscellaneous taxes, $5,301,818.

A comparison of the income tax payments by quarters shows how well the totals held up in the final quarters of the fiscal year 1930 despite the one per cent reduction in normal tax rates which it was estimated would reduce the total to be received for that half of the fiscal year by $80,000,000. The receipts for 1930 include payments of the third and fourth installments of the tax on the returns of net income for 1928, and the first and second installments of the tax on the returns of net income for 1929, together with collections made for prior years.

SENATOR ALLEN, TAKEN ILL ON TRIP, IS HOME

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Senator Henry J. Allen, who was taken ill two weeks ago while guest of Dwight Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico, at the City of Mexico, arrived at his home here today accompanied by a party of friends from New York and a special physician. The senator will enter Wesley hospital here tomorrow for a physical examination.

Accompanying the senator were Clair Maxwell, New York, publisher of "Life"; Albert Ottinger, former attorney general of New York; Richard B. Scandrett, New York attorney, nephew of Ambassador Morrow, and Dr. William Talley of the City of Mexico. All except Dr. Talley continued on to New York. Dr. Talley will remain with Mr. Allen until he enters the hospital here and then will return to Mexico.

ROBS GROCER OF $136.

A shabbily dressed Negro bandit entered the grocery store of Abe Hefron, 507 East 40th street, yesterday afternoon and, after forcing Hefron into the icebox, escaped with $136. Hefron freed himself and notified the Wabash avenue police.

GERMANS FLY TO NOVA SCOTIA ON HOP TO NEW YORK

Fight Fog in Jump from Coast of Labrador.

QUEENSPORT, Nova Scotia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Four modest and weary air heroes from Germany, who dropped in on Nova Scotia this afternoon after one of the least advertised trans-Atlantic flights on record, went to bed here tonight after flying in three days from Iceland to Greenland, Labrador, and Nova Scotia.

Their Dornier-Wahl flying boat, of the type used in the polar regions by the late Roald Amundsen, came down on the harbor here from Cartwright, Labrador, at 3:45 p. m., Atlantic daylight time (1:45 p. m. Chicago daylight time), in a flight of 8 hours 45 minutes.

As there is neither radio nor telegraph at Cartwright, their departure was as unheralded as their hop yesterday from Greenland. The whole flight has been a series of surprises.

Fight Fog from Greenland.

Forced down by fog, encountered during almost the entire trip from Greenland, Capt. Wolfgante von Gronau and his three companions were in good condition and pleased with the success of their hard flight.

During today's trip they were reported over the Magdalen islands, then over St. Paul's island, north of Cape Breton, and over North Sydney, Nova Scotia.

When the weather clears, which they hope will be tomorrow, they will leave for Halifax, refuel, and then continue to New York. Supplies of gasoline and oil have been stored for them at Halifax, roughly 130 miles away.

Interviewers found the captain and his companions very modest regarding their brilliant achievement. With the exception of fog, no difficulty was encountered, said the captain.

Repair Radio in Air.

Soon after leaving Ivigtut, Greenland, they lost the radio generator. Fortunately a spare one was carried and the loss occasioned no trouble. The airmen would have been able to make Halifax had their charts been sufficiently detailed. As is was, they thought it best to land here.

The radio was chiefly useful in supplying weather reports, the captain said.

Flyer's Wife Surprised.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—"I did not have the slightest idea where my husband was going when he left me a few days ago on a supposed flight to test his radio," laughed Mrs. Elsner von Gronau, wife of Capt. von Gronau, who has just landed in Nova Scotia, when interviewed by THE TRIBUNE today.

"He did not even kiss me good-by, so I suspected nothing out of the ordinary," she said. "The children had a bit of a cold so I did not even notice what luggage he took."

Thrill Cures Colds.

The three children, Marie Louise, age 10; Hans Albrecht, age 8, and Hans Joachim, age 1, are all over their spell of a bad cold.

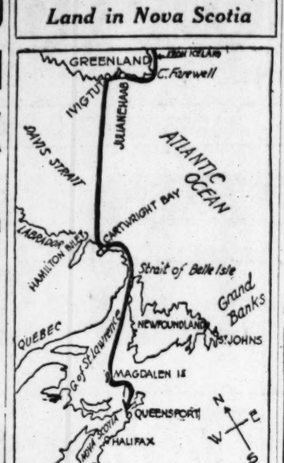
"I am sure the two older ones were cured by the thrill they received when a member of the aviation school here informed me that Daddy had landed in Greenland," said Mrs. von Gronau. "It was the first news I had about it. Marie Louise, however, seems to have had an inkling of what was planned. When she heard of the landing she said very calmly, 'I thought that was about what would happen.'

"I suppose I will not hear from my husband until he gets to Canada," she added. "I should like to join him in America, but am not expecting really to go."

SHOT WIFE, IS CHARGE.

Andrew McCoy, colored, 21 years old, shot and seriously wounded his estranged wife, Rose, 17 years old, in her home at 255 North Campbell avenue when she refused to return to him, according to the police. She was taken to the Washington Boulevard hospital. McCoy escaped.

Land in Nova Scotia



The German airmen, flying from Europe to the United States by the northern route, today reached Queensport Harbor in Nova Scotia from Cartwright, on the coast of Labrador. In a piece of skillful navigation they chose a course on which they would avoid the fogs off Newfoundland, fatal to other flyers. But after passing over the Magdalen islands they were forced down by fog about 130 miles short of Halifax, which was their objective.

FRANCE TO BUILD 70,000 TON LINER TO CARRY 5,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Aug. 24.—Louis Rollin, minister of merchant marine, who is vacationing here, today said all negotiations between the French lines and the government have been completed for the construction of a super liner and that contracts are about to be signed with the Penhoet plant at Saint-Nazaire. The ship will cost about $30,000,000, two-thirds of this being advanced by the government.

Under the agreement the new boat will be completed within four years so as to enter the service in the spring of 1934 by which time the harbor at Le Havre will be dredged deep enough to accommodate the giant craft. The liner is to accommodate 5,000 passengers.

The new liner will measure 1,000 feet in length. It will displace 65,000 or 70,000 tons, thus ranking in size with the proposed giant British liners. It will be able to attain a speed of 28 knots in order to cross between New York and Le Havre in five days. The ship is to be named La Paix—peace—but in war time will be convertible into a fast auxiliary cruiser.

The driver of the car, William Hedinger, apparently did not see the approaching train. The train was a Southern railway special freight running from Louisville to St. Louis. It was in charge of Conductor Hammond and driven by Engineer Lagrange of Princeton, Ind.

Five Killed in Florida.

Port St. Joe, Fla., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Five persons were dead today, victims of an accident late last night in which a truck struck a cow and overturned. Ten other occupants were seriously injured.

The dead, all of Kinard, Fla., were L. H. Mosley, his son, Raburn Mosley, and his son-in-law, Ellie Poole, and two Negroes, Levi Banks and Theo Morse.

Poole and the two Negroes were killed and Mosley and his son died a few hours later at Wewahitchka, Fla., near here.

Youth Shot While at Work; Names Assailants

James Blaine, 27 years old, 154 West North avenue, was shot twice and perhaps fatally wounded last night in the railroad yards of the Chicago fruit exchange at 27th and Wood streets. Blaine was at work in a refrigerator car when three men summoned him to the door. One leveled a shotgun, firing twice. The first nearly amputated his arm and the second struck him in the abdomen. At the county hospital he named his assailants as Nels Nelson, ex-policeman and until recently an employé of the fruit exchange, and Nelson's two sons. They are being sought.

PUZZLED WHEN AUTOIST DROPS IN ON HIM

FIVE CHILDREN, TWO ADULTS DIE IN AUTO MISHAPS

Seven Fatalities Make County Toll 639.

The names of five children and two adults were added to the growing list of auto fatalities in Cook county yesterday. The seven deaths raised the total for the year to 639. The victims:

Edward Murtagh, 3 years old, 846 West 50th street. While playing in the street, he was struck by a car driven by John Seiler, 19 years old, 8812 South Wallace street, and died within six hours. Seiler was locked up.

Thomas Mullen, 4 years old, 433 West Marquette road. Playing in an alley in the rear of 440 Normal parkway, he was run down and killed by a truck driven by Edward Hedberg, 7353 South Morgan street. Hedberg was held.

Celeste White, 4 years old, colored, 622 East 46th street. Died in the Provident hospital of injuries received Aug. 17 when she was struck by an automobile driven by Adam Kirby, 4758 Vincennes avenue.

Dorothy McFarland, 6 years old, colored, 734 Washburne avenue. Killed in front of 1103 West Roosevelt road when she was struck by an automobile driven by Simon Hagle, 35 years old, 2821 Osgood street.

Unidentified boy, about 12 years old, He was stealing a ride on the trailer of a Wieland Dairy company truck and lost his balance and fell to the pavement on Narragansett avenue near Fullerton avenue, the wheels of the trailer crushing him. Rowland Amend, 2638 Seminary avenue, driver of the truck, found the boy dead.

Loses Control of Car

Swerving to avoid another car, Paul Halmos, 17 years old, son of Dr. Alexander C. Halmos, 646 Fullerton avenue, yesterday lost control of his automobile and it ran onto the sidewalk and crashed through the front window of William Schenk's sweater shop at 1903 Larrabee street. No complaint was filed when young Halmos agreed to make restitution.

Cline Cable, 18 years old, 6106 Dorchester avenue. Died at Auburn Park hospital from a fractured skull received on Sunday when the automobile in which he was riding with Michael Butkus, 18 years old, of the same address collided with a street car at 61st street and Greenwood avenue when they attempted to pass on the wrong side of another street car. Butkus was seriously injured.

Thomas Hayes, 67 years old, 6541 Ellis avenue, a teamster for the south park board. Killed when thrown from his wagon at 57th street and Ellis avenue in a collision with an automobile driven by Mable Alexander, 27 years old, 5735 Woodlawn avenue, who was attempting to dodge another car.

Special Deputy Killed.

Special Deputy Sheriff Robert Smart of Lake county was killed yesterday near Antioch, his home, in a collision with a car driven by Fred Groth of 1841 Belle Plaine avenue, Chicago.

Smart, a well known cattle buyer, was driving to Channel lake on a narrow road, when Groth approached from the west. The two cars locked wheels. Smart was crushed by his steering gear. Groth escaped uninjured. He was not held, when witnesses said he was blameless.

County Highway Policeman Anthony Kirincich, 24 years old, 6124 South Marshfield avenue, received a broken left leg and internal injuries yesterday when struck by a hit and run driver, near Stickney. Kirincich, riding west in 79th street, was crossing State road when a northbound car, driven by a Negro, shot out to pass another automobile and hit his motorcycle head on. Kirincich was hurled twenty feet. He was taken to Holy Cross hospital.

Six Burn to Death in Crash.

Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Six persons were burned to death and three others were injured today when their automobile plunged into a ditch, turned over against a fence, and burst into flames.

LON CHANEY, FILM STAR, REPORTED 'MUCH IMPROVED'

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Lon Chaney, film character star, was reported "much improved" today following a third blood transfusion last night in his battle against anemia. Physicians said, however, the actor's condition still was critical.

"Mr. Chaney spent a restful night," hospital attachés said, "and was cheerful today. Barring complications his condition should continue to improve."

Weakened by an attack of pneumonia early this year, Chaney became a patient at St. Vincent's hospital here shortly after his return from New York, where he consulted with specialists. His condition became critical a few days ago, and two blood transfusions failed to rally him. He underwent a third transfusion last night to offset a sinking spell.

2 AIR DERBIES THRILL 55,000 AT RACE FIELD

"Casey" Jones Is Winner in Comeback Contest.

that he was on his way to the races and that if he does not arrive today he will be on hand Tuesday.

J. Wesley Smith, veteran air mail pilot and head of National Air transport's operations at Cleveland, dived across the finish line to victory in the men's Atlantic class "B" Derby from Hartford, Conn. Smith, with his Warner powered monocoupe won $1,250 of the $2,000 of the prize money for his triumph in the 1,170 mile race.

Henry Little Jr. of Philadelphia, flying a monospot, was second to finish, and Charles W. Meyers of Cleveland in a Great Lakes trainer was third.

Killups Wins Miami Derby.

Arthur Killups of La Grange, Ill., flying a Waco, won the men's class A Atlantic Derby from Miami when he completed the 1,500 mile race in an elapsed time of 11:53:23:.1. Close behind came Arthur Davis of East Lansing, Mich., in his Waco with an elapsed time of 11:59:40:.6. Another La Grange flyer, George Burrell in a Stearman was third.

Killups was first to flash across the finish line at the field, in a neck and neck race, followed closely by Davis. Timers struggled with the figures for an hour before finally announcing the La Grange man as the winner.

"Casey" Jones led all the way in his comeback race, the competition for cabin planes. Skidding perilously close to the pylons on the turns and speeding across the meadow with his wheels all but clipping the grass tops, the New York air man finished far ahead of the field. It was his first race victory since 1926 when he retired from speed events.

It was a grilling race for two other airmen. R. C. Skinner missed the first pylon, went to pass it on the right side and later landed in a cornfield along Waukegan road when his motor balked. Later he was forced down for the second time and finally gave it up. Jack Richards, in a Cessna cabin monoplane dropped out early in the running. Finishing second and third in the race were G. L. Hart, and H. P. Young.

Eight Guard Planes in Race.

Eight National Guard planes gave a demonstration of grass cutting with airplanes wheels in a closely contested race for Liberty engine planes. The pilots fought for position at the pylons and hugged the ground between the markers. Lieut. W. V. Newhall of Chicago finished first, only a short margin ahead of his nearest competitor, C. D. Barnhill.

The Navy and the Marine corps fighters were in the air again yesterday but the army, because of a staff order preventing Sabbath flying rested for participation in today's program.

The 18 navy "Red Rippers" took the air early in the day's program, sailed overhead in a perfect "N" formation, climbed out of sight into the scattered clouds, and rained down upon the field in a demonstration of ground attack.

Those fighting devil dogs from Quantico staged another stirring performance. They comprise a group of eight flyers under Lieut. Lawrence Sanderson.

They looped, circled, and dived singly and in formation, never losing position.

Freddie Lund of Troy, O., and Doug Davis of Atlanta, Ga., diverted the crowds with a demonstration of inverted flying. They flew about for fifteen minutes and most of that time the wheels of the Waco biplanes were pointing upward.

Jimmie Doolittle, former army ace, was on hand to uphold the American end of yesterday's international flying program.

Doolittle Does His Stunts.

Jimmie huddled in the closed cockpit of his racing Travelair, the fastest of all the stunting planes, climbed high into the blue, and let loose a dozen items from his famed bag of tricks—snap rolls, power dives, vertical climbs, and barrel rolls that left the spectators gasping.

Lieut. R. L. Atcherley, the British Schneider cup racer, went into the air for the first time in his Lincook fighter. Previously he said he had trouble with his special equipment for inverted flight, but there was nothing in his smooth performance to indicate it. His up-side-down tricks included turning the pylons as he flew on his back.

The German, Capt. Fritz Loose, who Saturday washed out his Junkers stunting plane, yesterday found an American Commandair to his liking and late in the afternoon joined his European contemporaries in a brilliant performance.

Marcel Doret, the French ace, and Marshal Pietro Columbo of the Italian army repeated their performances of yesterday. The Frenchman was again a favorite. Spectators ducked and held their hats as he streaked back and forth above their heads.

Following the screaming, roaring speed planes into the air were those strange, slow moving safety craft, the autogyros and the McDonnell "Doodlebug," another autogyro, was added to the group today and Harold F. Pitcairn of Philadelphia, who is building the gyros in this country was in its cockpit.

Invariably these "flying windmills" provoked indulgent mirth from the laymen, but many stake their faith in these machines to solve the safety problem for aviation. The three windmills hung about overhead like balloons, meandered into landings and stopped dead still where their wheels bounced to earth. It was the first time that three auto-gyros were ever seen together in the air. I. N. McDonnell, flying his safety craft, repeated his feat of landing in a 100 foot circle.

As the day's program closed, three airplanes bearing parachutists went aloft and dumped out their passengers at 2,000 feet. They floated earthward aiming at a small circle in the middle of the field, Dick Rae of East Lansing, Mich., came closest to the mark and won.

Stars on the night program were the three army stunt planes looping and spiraling through the darkness.

The Pacific "Powder Puff" Derby is due to finish up at Curtiss field today flying the last lap from Milwaukee, the final control point. The women's Derby started from Long Beach, Cal., a week ago. Due also is the men's Pacific Derby from Seattle.

RESULTS OF AIR RACE CONTESTS

Following are the results of the contests at the National Air races at Curtiss field yesterday:

Duration gliding contest.

First, W. H. Harris, in a Detroit Gull; time, 42 3-5 seconds. Second, B. C. Skeels of New York City, in a Detroit Gull; time, 32 4-5 seconds. Third, A. Bradley Jr. of Winnetka, Ill.; time, 32 3-5 seconds.

Spot landing contest.

First, J. K. O'Meara of Akron, O., in a Baker-McMillan cadet; distance from flag, 32 feet. Second, Ivan Stougton, in a Mid-Western glider; distance from flag, 83 feet. Third, E. B. Palmer of St. Joe, Mich., in a Mid-Western glider; distance from flag, 180 feet.

Civilian's balloon bursting contest.

MRS. O'DONNELL LEADS PACIFIC WOMEN FLYERS

Arrive in Chicago Today from Madison.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., leader of the Women's Pacific Air Derby to Chicago, headed the five contestants into Madison from Des Moines today, arriving at 3:42 p. m. The group is scheduled to arrive in Chicago tomorrow.

Mrs. O'Donnell's elapsed time for the leg was 1 hour 41 minutes, an average of approximately 140 miles an hour, and her total elapsed time for the tour is now slightly over thirteen hours.

Ruth Barron of Hollywood, with elapsed time of 1:50 for the leg, took second place in today's hop. Miss Barron's total time is 36 hours 1 minute. She landed almost simultaneously with Mildred Morgan of Beverly Hills, Cal., whose elapsed time today was 1:52, for third place.

Miss Morgan in Second Place.

Miss Morgan holds second place for the trip with total elapsed time of 19 hours 56 minutes. Jean la Rene of Kansas City, whose time of 1 hour 53 minutes gave her fourth place in today's lap, is in third place for the trip with total time of approximately 19 hours.

Ruth W. Stewart of St. Louis became lost en route and required 3 hours and 2 minutes for the leg, bringing her elapsed time to 25 hours 6 minutes, or fourth place.

Marjorie Doig of Danbury, Conn., sixth entrant and one of the leaders in the early stages, had been forced to drop out at Emporia, Kan., because of continuing engine trouble. Approximately 30,000 persons met the women flyers here. They will leave tomorrow morning for the final hop to Chicago.

One Dixie Flyer Drops Out.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Phoebe Omlie of Memphis flew triumphantly into her home town this afternoon, leading five women racing in the Washington-to-Chicago Dixie air Derby with a margin of two hours two minutes and eighteen seconds piled up by her little monoplane.

However, the lap to Memphis from Birmingham, where the flyers stopped on the way from Atlanta, was won by Mrs. Martie Bowman of Hempstead L. I. Mrs. Bowman stands second in the Derby with a total of 9:38:42. She arrived at 4:29:21 p. m. with an elapsed time from Birmingham of 1:55:21. Mrs. Omlie had a lap total of 3:02:47 and a Derby total of 7:36:24.

Miss Nancy Hopkins of Washington, D. C., and Garden City, L. I., landed here third. Her total for the race was 11:58:33, placing her fourth in the Derby rating.

Running third in the Derby with a total elapsed time of 11:33:25, Miss Laura Ingalls of St. Louis came into the Memphis airport fourth.

The arrival of Mrs. Charity Langdon of Norfolk, Va., fifth in the standings, at 5:33 20 p. m., wound up the list of entrants. Her total Derby time was 13:07:05.

Dogged by misfortune and forced landings, Mis Vera Dawn Walker of Los Angeles dropped out today at Birmingham.

The flyers will leave tomorrow morning for St. Louis, and are scheduled to arrive at the national air races in Chicago Tuesday.

Blum Leads Seattle Derby.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24.—(AP)—John Blum of Seattle, continued to lead the Seattle-to-Chicago Air Derby men contestants when they landed here late today for their last stop, after flights from Aberdeen, S. D., and Fargo, N. D. Nick Mamer, Spokane, was a close second.

Floyd Keadle, Portland, Ore., was third, about a minute later. Frank Mamer, Wenatchee, Wash., was next, and Bert Rouff, Seattle, the only other competitor, was last.

Blum has a lead of 22 minutes and 40 seconds in elapsed time from Seattle over his closest rival, Mamer.

The flyers leave here beginning at 9:01 a. m. tomorrow for a luncheon stop at Milwaukee before going to Chicago.

WOMEN CLAIM THEIR HONORS AT AIR RACES TODAY

Pacific Derby to Arrive at Curtiss Field.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

"Enter Madame" is today's watchword at the National Air races at Curtiss airport. America's "Ladybirds" take to their wings for the first time this afternoon in the national events, with a complimentary noon luncheon by the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs at the airport restaurant as a curtain raiser.

For two days it has been a man's show, with the women pilots merely decorative features of the scenery as the spectators gasped at the aerial Ferris wheels and similar antics of the male flyers. But this morning Amelia Earhart, only woman flyer to complete the Atlantic crossing, will arrive in her double capacity of president of the "99" club, official feminine flying organization, and an official of the air races. With her will be Louise Thaden, "99" club secretary and winner of the "Powder Puff" Derby at Cleveland last year.

Woman Derby Due Today.

Then this afternoon the woman's Pacific Coast Derby is scheduled to swoop down onto the landing field in the finish of their coast to Chicago hop. And half a dozen more of the feminine aviation celebrities will be on hand—too late for luncheon, but in plenty of time for tea in their particular quarters on the airport promenade. Miss Marjorie Vail of Pasadena and Mrs. Edward Heath of Chicago will dispense hospitality, cookies and tea each afternoon in the woman pilots' lounge.

Yesterday their duties were pleasant but not arduous, due to the delayed arrival of many of the better known aviatrices. Their guests for the Sunday afternoon function included Flaulein Antonie Strassman of Berlin, only foreign woman entrant in the competitions, who is much admired on the field and in the stands; Elinor Smith, holder of the women's altitude record, whose daring far outstrips her height; Miss Maxine Lille of Kenilworth, a student flyer at the Curtiss airport, and Miss Hannah Kirman, 18 year old girl daredevil, who is doing commercial parachute jumping to earn money to complete her student course. Miss Kirman's home is in White Plains, N. Y.

Betty Lund Not Nervous.

Betty Lund, wife of Fred Lund, and as attractive a stunt pilot as ever put her fate in a safety belt, scurried about the field in a smart costume of Henna serge jacket and breeches, with a blue linen blouse and leather helmet. She will be one of the entrants in the dead stick landings today and the women's races on Thursday. Small, blonde and bobbed, with warm brown eyes, she nonchalantly watched her husband swooping and spiraling about the sky at a tremendous altitude, without a quaver.

"Nervous? No!" she declared. "There's no danger. Why, the first time I soloed, in Miami, I broke the women's record for the barrel roll—68 times in 28 minutes—and I'd only flown by myself for twenty minutes when I did it. Fred had taught me before, and after I did the first one, I wasn't a bit afraid."

Mrs. Hoot Gibson Happy.

Two months ago Sally Eilers was one of Hollywood's brides. Yesterday she and her bridegroom, Hoot Gibson, who makes cowboy films when he isn't soaring about the skies in one of his two planes, were among the most rapt of the thousands attending. Sally's brown orbs sparkled prettily against the background of her lemon yellow jersey and breeches, with a tiny brown suede toque to top it off. She has taken up flying, but hasn't given up acting, she told interviewers.

Lorraine Defren, French aviatrix, was reported registered at the Sherman hotel, but had not yet arrived at the airport last night. And Fraulein Strassman, who tried out her Bird plane yesterday morning for an hour, was spokesman for the women for the day when she was called before the microphone to wish her flying colleagues "happy landings."

It was rumored last night that Thea Rasche, German aviatrix, would arrive for the races today, although her departure from Germany had not been announced.

Spotlights on Aces and Other Notables

Lieut. Rupert Preston, here from England with Flight Lieutenant R. L. R. Atcherly, had a hard time getting past a gateman at the Curtiss airport yesterday.

"You can't pass here," the gateman said.

"O, I say, I'm with the British team here," Lieut. Preston said.

"O, yeah," said the gateman. "And my name's Lindbergh." Finally he let him through.

"Where's the army?" asked Rear Admiral Moffett of his aide, Lieut. Commander George Price.

"The army's not going up today, sir," replied Lieut. Commander Price, "religious scruples against flying on Sunday, I understand."

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball czar, was among the spectators yesterday. His son, Reed Landis, is directing publicity for the races.

John H. Livingston, who Saturday won the Brownsville Derby, yesterday won the dead stick and balloon bursting contests. Livingston was born in Cedar Falls, Ia. A motorcycle racer in his 'teens, he later became an airplane mechanic, and saved enough to buy a rickety old plane he used for barnstorming. He went to Monmouth and worked his way up from the bottom with the Midwest Airways corporation, which he now heads.

Vladimir Rigan, mechanic, was found scrubbing and shining the all metal surface of Lieut. Marcel Doret's plane. "He is awfully particular about it," said Rigan, "doesn't like to see a spot on it."

Capt. Fritz Loose put one over on the radio public yesterday. The captain has been learning the English language for exactly one week. He wrote his speech in German, which was then translated into irreproachable English by a German-American journalist. Capt. Loose read the English. Afterwards he said: "I hope I say what I meant."

Lieut. T. W. Tomlinson, one of the expert navy stunters is one of the original three Sea Hawks. He also won the Curtiss-Marine trophy race at Anacosta Air station in Washington in May, 1928. He is a bachelor. A group of women in navy box yesterday asked to meet him. He was too shy to face them, and begged off.

It was at the six o'clock flag lowering ceremony. All eyes were on the cannon near the speaker's stand, awaiting its boom, as the crowds stood at attention. With a flourish, a national guardsman pulled the lanyard. No sound came. He pulled a second time. "Defective," said another soldier. With every one standing at attention, they finally got the bad shell out and another in. It did boom. Then the band played "America." The last note was reached, at which the flags were to be lowered. But they didn't come. The band kept sounding the note. It was a painful moment. At last the flags descended, the bugler caught his breath and the bass hornist, his face purple, subsided gratefully.

Flight Lieut. Atcherley, the daring young Britisher whose flying yesterday thrilled the crowds, met an old friend at the field. It was Flight Lieut. Trevor Cripp, who won the distinguished flying cross in France with a bomb squadron in 1918. Lieut. Cripp says he is here looking for a job. There are too many pilots, in his opinion, and no jobs in England or Canada.

3 RECORDS SET BY BOY FLYER CROSSING NATION

Schneider to Attend Air Races in Chicago.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Eighteen year old Eddie Schneider of Jersey City, N. J., landed here from Columbus, O., at 3:03 p. m. (E. S. T.) today with three junior transcontinental records in his possession. He will fly to Chicago tomorrow for the air races.

Beating the three records set by the late Frank Goldsborough, who was killed recently in a crash, he chalked up the following marks: East-west, 29 hours and 41 minutes; west-east, 27 hours and 19 minutes; round trip, 57 hours.

The Goldsborough records were: East-West, 34 hours, 3 minutes; west-east, 28 hours, 55 minutes, and round trip, 62 hours, 58 minutes.

Youth Battles Storm.

Battling a storm part of the way, the smiling junior flyer came from Columbus to Roosevelt field in one hop today, slicing one hour and 36 minutes from Goldsborough's mark for the coast to coast crossing. Starting from Los Angeles Thursday, he made three overnight stops, at Albuquerque, Wichita and Columbus. He had crossed the continent westward several days ago.

Greeted by his admiring father, Emil A. Schneider, and a large crowd of other relatives and friends, he modestly told of his flight. Two "tough spots," he said, were over the Pennsylvania mountains, when he had to contend with a storm, and a stretch between Albuquerque and Wichita, when all the liquid ran out of his compass and he had to fly by dead reckoning.

Has Letters to Deliver.

He took his plane, the Kangaroo, to a hangar and ministered personally to its wants, announcing that he would fly it to the Chicago air show tomorrow. First, however, he must deliver letters from the mayor of Los Angeles to Mayor James J. Walker of New York and Frank Hague of Jersey City. He also carried a letter from the Los Angeles Elks to the Jersey City Elks.

SHOT TO DEATH DURING QUARREL.

Irving Bigsbee, 30 years old, colored, 2830 Calumet avenue, was shot and killed yesterday by James Hudson, 30 years old, 3205 Wentworth avenue, during a quarrel which arose when the latter refused to drive Bigsbee home in his car.

WALGREEN AIRPLANE CARRIES PASSENGERS AT NEW DIXON FIELD

Dixon, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Charles R. Walgreen, Chicago drug store magnate, who made possible Dixon's new airport, today donated the use of his new Sikorsky amphibion plane for a day of passenger carrying trips over Dixon. Hundreds of persons took advantage of the offer and several hundred dollars was realized by the Dixon chamber of commerce in charge. The new airport will be dedicated on Sept. 24 in a three day celebration and air meet. A new bridge across Rock river and the Lincoln monument erected on the site of the old block house fort on the north bank of the river will also be dedicated on Sept. 22 and 23.

Pana's Water Supply Cut Off as Water Main Breaks

Pana, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Pana experienced a water famine last night, when a water main broke in the heart of the business section. Half a block of brick street paving was undermined by the water.

VOICE of DESTINY

"LOWER prices!" "Lower prices!" That is what the merchant hears. "Lower prices!" That is what he knows conditions require.

But how—if one has a quarter-century record of quality? Not for I. Miller to destroy the result of a lifetime's effort. Not for I. Miller to use a poor leather in a creation of loveliness. Then what to do—to answer the cry for lower prices?

Bold was the solution that presented itself. Widespread would be the comment. Bankers as well as housewives would watch with excitement. Bold, indeed, but—with a good-will such as has been bestowed upon I. Miller—the plan might work, might win.

If "overhead" could be decreased—if volume could be increased—if many more shoes could be made in the same factories or sold in the same stores without increased rent or light or power or those many other inelastic expenses that raise costs... if, said I. Miller, this could be done, then WITH THE SAME QUALITY prices could come down!

Naturally, such a bold experiment is for the merchant to make—counting on a just clientele to respond.

So, I. Miller makes the most important announcement of his career:

> In shoes, hosiery, bags and in everything else in the I. Miller Shops, Prices Have Been Lowered by a material percentage—even a dangerous percentage, were we not confident that, in a single season, our shops and factories will be half again as busy as they are.

With this radical step we expect astonished glances in the Shops as the lower prices are learned; we expect general public commendation; we expect a swift and large increase in volume; and we expect a warmer good-will than ever.

We will not be alone in watching the results of this experiment which will be, we believe, an economic example of ultimate advantage to American industry.

The voice of the people is powerful. Its demands must be met. Sound business alone requires that the farseeing merchant listen to this voice... attentively.

200,000 TO RIDE PLANES IN 1930, HOOVER IS TOLD

100,000 Miles Are Flown Daily by Lines.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Phenomenal growth by the commercial aviation industry in the United States in the last eighteen months was recorded in a report submitted to President Hoover by Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary for aeronautics in the department of commerce, and made public at the White House today.

A prediction that at least 200,000 passengers will be carried on scheduled air transport lines this year was one of the features of the report, which stated that approximately 150,000 passengers patronized the lines in 1929.

"The present importance of air transportation is made apparent by the fact that 100,000 miles of scheduled service are being flown in the United States every 24 hours," Maj. Young informed the President. "And this does not include the millions of miles flown actually by aircraft engaged in miscellaneous operations, such as aerial sight seeing, student instruction, and industrial operations, or the 18,000 daily scheduled miles which American air transport organizations accomplish between the United States, Canada, Mexico, and the West Indies and Central and South America."

Made After Conference.

Maj. Young's report, completed before he departed for the Chicago air races, was requested by the President after the aviation conference at his Rapidan camp a week ago. Maj. Young, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and others prominent in aviation were present.

The President, it was said, expressed satisfaction especially over the development in passenger transportation and agreed that the government should continue to extend all possible aid to the commercial air industry of the country.

Eighteen months ago, Maj. Young reported, 35 companies were operating 59 scheduled air lines, flying a total of 69,000 miles every 24 hours, while now there are 45 such companies, flying 120,000 miles a day and operating 137 mail, passenger, and express routes, both domestic and foreign.

6,786 Licensed Planes.

"Of the 6,786 licensed airplanes in the United States today, about 650 are employed in scheduled air transportation," the report continued. "It is estimated that of the remainder approximately 20 per cent are used for pleasure flying and 80 per cent for miscellaneous commercial activities.

"About two years ago a substantial portion of the large number of manufacturers of airplanes were small local companies. Undoubtedly they were hastily formed to supply a demand for conventional type aircraft which then seemed apparent. Presumably, they gave secondary thought to the economic phase of design, production, and distribution, which, together with the slight preparations and limited financial background, made it obvious that they would not weather any unfavorable change in conditions or circumstances.

"This is proving to be the case, but it is resulting in the manufacturing phase of the industry contracting itself into a smaller but highly specialized group, surrounded by the very best engineering, production, and marketing personnel that is obtainable today."

Mail Act Held Aid.

The report stated that the Watres air mail act has been a distinct contribution to aviation progress in that it will not only extend the air mail service but assist in establishing passenger service throughout the nation by placing air mail carriers in the passenger transportation business.

Another phase of the report dealt with the present temporary depression in the aircraft industry, Maj. Young explaining that only 1,325 planes were produced in the first six months of this year. He added, however, that 6,000 were produced last year and that the output could easily be brought to 7,000 or more when now unemployed workmen are taken back.

"At present," he said, "the manufacturers are paying strict attention to the needs and desires of an intelligent and discriminating aircraft market. They are making every effort to design and produce aircraft which their experience and studies have indicated are required by such a market. At the same time they are projecting plans on new developments, new designs, and new features in an effort to keep in the van of public desire.

Industry Needs Encouragement.

"While commercial type aircraft has been in existence since the war, the greatest progress in design and construction has been made within the last four years. This progress, the result of a large investment in engineering data and experience gained in manufacturing and production, represents the very foundation from which our future commercial aircraft must come. Obviously in four years such a foundation could not be laid and prove profitable. Therefore it needs to be preserved and encouraged if the full value of air transportation is to be realized."

Discussing the measures taken by the government to aid flying, Maj. Young pointed out that $8,500,000 has been spent on airways construction in the last four years, with 25,000 miles of lighted airways in contemplation.

Approximately 15,000 miles of airways are now equipped for night flying, the report stated. In the last eighteen months 4,465 miles of airways were lighted, 95 intermediate landing fields established, 500 beacons installed, 5,500 miles of airways equipped with telegraph typewriter circuits, and 33 radio stations installed.

There are now 1,650 landing fields in the country, according to the report, while 13,86" licensed pilots and 8,960 licensed mechanics are on the records of the department of commerce.

ZUTA'S RECORDS REVEAL KALB AS GAMING PARTNER

Worked Together in the Northwest Sections.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Some of the results of Chief Investigator Pat Roche's study of the contents of the secret strong boxes of Jack Zuta, slain gangster, as disclosed yesterday, appeared to link Matt Kalb, northwest side beer baron, with Zuta's operations.

For a week Roche's aids have been seeking an explanation of the item in Zuta's accounts: "M. K. Dividends, $80,693.60," under the head of "disbursements." Conclusions drawn from the week's inquiry and related yesterday were the following:

Matt Kalb had an active partnership with Zuta's associates, George [Bugs] Moran and Joe Aiello, in gambling houses and slot machines from which enormous profits were extracted. Kalb boasted of his influence with former Sheriff Charles E. Graydon, for whom he once worked in Graydon's ice business, and he took advantage of that acquaintance to use Graydon's name in forcing roadhouse keepers to buy his beer and install his slot machines.

Zuta Figures in Gambling.

In the beer business Kalb and his gang, known as the Cowboys, were supreme in their territory, according to Roche, but with the gambling they had to do business with Zuta. Zuta and his fellow racketeers had the city and county divided into districts —some of which were the domains of other gangs—and a duly accredited agent was in charge of each Zuta territory.

Kalb had been a modest west side saloonkeeper until he acquired an interest in a few secreted breweries and went into the beer business on a large scale. He had a few strong political connections, but it was not until he began using Graydon's name that he was rated as a "big shot."

When the money began rolling in he notified the sporting gentry that he was the distinguished proprietor of the White House, an establishment at Irving Park boulevard and River road, where the sky was the limit as the little balls rolled around the roulette wheels.

In Zuta's accounts on a balance sheet headed "Period ending Nov. 12," one item was as follows: "White House, receipts, $54,552.25; disbursements, $30,469.55; profits, $25,367.55"—somewhat inaccurate but rather enlightening. When Roche heard that one player had lost $18,000 at the White House in a night's play he wasn't skeptical.

The White House account was considered an illustration of why Zuta and Kalb were making money. Zuta's books also showed receipts of thousands of dollars from other road houses of the northwestern portion of the county—the Lincoln Tavern, the Dells, the Lighthouse, owned by Dan Cohen, the Villa Venice, owned by Albert Bouche, and other places.

For the beer it is believed by Roche Kalb divided only with his own gang and not with Zuta. Zuta, the records showed, had some interest in Bill Johnson's gambling halls in the city, 4750 Kedzie avenue, 4822 Broadway, and 3939 Milwaukee avenue. "California and North avenues," an account on Zuta's books, was presumed to be a gaming establishment presided over by Bennie Feldman, and in Kalb's neighborhood.

Capone Drives Out Rivals.

Kalb's outfit of cowboys had two or three city districts for beer and several districts in the county until Scarface Alphonse Capone's gangsters took them over. Capone, since his release from a Philadelphia penitentiary, has obliterated all district lines in the county. Reliable reports were that Capone now has five hundred "gorillas" in his gang and there are no other gangs in the "racket."—Capone has everything in beer, booze, gambling, vice and all other illicit enterprises. Capone alone is entitled to be called a gang chief—all others have been driven out of the county or out of business by the gorillas and their machine guns.

Kalb's only current activity, a gambling joint near Morton Grove, was raided two weeks ago by Roche's men and closed. But Roche, since the discovery of Zuta's papers in loop safety deposit vaults, is more interested in Kalb's past relations with Zuta and others.

Kalb the Payoff Man.

"Kalb was the payoff man," investigators reported to Roche. "His former employment by Graydon gave him a lever that he used in extracting money and he spread the word all over the northwest territory that he was 'in' and others had to 'kick in.' We haven't learned yet where all the money went or just how he and Zuta split profits."

In Zuta's papers there was some evidence of his business methods. Four names of men, apparently his collectors, headed lists of resorts in certain sections of the country towns and it was presumed they acted in unison for Zuta and Kalb, handling slot machine money for Zuta and Kalb and beer money for Kalb and the Cowboys. The four collectors were Charles Klaproth, Slim Hale, Dick Slater, and Tom Skelly.

It was understood in Roche's office that at all of the locations given, Zuta had placed one or more slot machines and Hale, Slater, Skelly and Klaproth called on the customers.

Roche's men have been unable to locate Kalb, they reported, and he no longer is the owner of the White House. Roche reported that the gambling days are over, too, and the operations listed in Zuta's accounts concerned the palmy days under preceding administrations.

ROBBER GETS $18 IN HOLDUP.

John La Salle, 2345 West Ohio street, attendant in a filling station at Carpenter street and Washington boulevard, was robbed of $18 by a lone bandit yesterday morning.

GANGSTERS' ARSENAL FOUND BY DETECTIVES IN FLAT IN BROOKLYN

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—An arsenal of gangsters' weapons unprecedented in the history of the police department was found by detectives today in a flat in 61st street, Brooklyn, where they had trailed a sedan belonging to the wife of Jack "Legs" Diamond, notorious gangster.

The array of underworld war material ranged from bombs powerful enough to destroy a large building to what looked like harmless fountain pens, but were actually pistols discharging .22 caliber bullets, the police said. Hand grenades, steel vests, and tear gas offered mute testimony in support of an impending war over the liquor "racket."

Three men were arrested, charged with the possession of the weapons. They were Frederick Witcher, 31 years old, a steamship loader, who occupied the flat with his wife and 7 year old son; Harry Klein, 26, of Brooklyn, and James Dalton, 30, of Acra, N. Y., who admitted to the detectives that he was employed by Diamond as a chauffeur.

Diamond himself, who has been arrested twenty-three times, five of them for murder, and has served only one short reformatory sentence, sailed for Europe on Saturday on the Baltic, the detectives learned from Dalton. They declined to say whether the Irish police will be asked to take him into custody when the ship reaches port.

Too, the new fur fashions are far more appealing. Unlike the past years, fur coats this year are long, fitted, flared—truly smart in their fabric-like manipulation. A combination of rich beauty, fashion and economy that will bring hundreds of women to Stevens' Fur Salon today—and all this week.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BANDITS IN ARMY UNIFORMS LOOT AND BURN TOWN

Pretend They're on Hunt for a Deserter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Aug. 24.—Clad in stolen uniforms of the 47th infantry and armed with bayoneted rifles, also stolen, seven bandits led by one of their own number in a sergeant's uniform, invaded the village of Durakowce, Moravia, and boldly pillaged it on the pretense they were searching for an army deserter.

Marching up the main street behind their sergeant, they headed for the mayor's house. Arriving there they stood at attention while the sergeant called on the mayor. He announced he and his men had come to capture a military deserter, accusing the village of harboring the refugee. He announced further that if the "deserter" was not produced within an hour he would require 5,000 Czech crowns from the village as penalty.

Steal as They Go.

Without waiting for the "deserter" to appear, the bandit leader and his squad then began a search of the few houses in the village. They also proceeded to collect the fine as they went, bullying the occupants of each home into giving up their ready cash and valuables and overcoming the resistance of the more courageous spirits with their rifle butts.

When they had finished ransacking the village the bandits had procured more than 20,000 Czech crowns in cash and valuables.

In the meantime, the mayor, recovering from his astonishment, sent word to the gendarmerie in the nearest large town. The troops hopped into automobiles and descended on the pillaging pseudo military force, capturing two of them.

Burn Mayor's Home.

The other five escaped, but as soon as the gendarmes had moved off with the two captives, they returned to the village and set fire to the mayor's house as revenge. They remained in the middle of the village half an hour, keeping off would be volunteer firemen with rifle fire until the blaze spread to adjoining buildings.

FIRE ROUTS FOUR FAMILIES.

Fire, breaking out yesterday in a vacant store at 6215 Wentworth avenue, caused $200 damage and routed four families from the second and third floors.

WRITER BARES RASKOB "PLOT" AGAINST HOOVER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Representative Wood of Indiana today said "the plot" of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to "bring about a systematic and malicious misrepresentation" of President Hoover was disclosed by Frank Kent, a political writer, in the current issue of a magazine.

In a statement through the Republican congressional committee of which he is chairman Wood said that from Kent's article it appeared a Washington writer "was employed at a large salary by Mr. Raskob to develop these misrepresentations of the President in every quarter of the United States, in an attempt systematically to undermine his influence to do service."

The attacks, he said, were prepared by the writer and issued in the names of various persons "who have shown themselves willing to be pawns in such practices."

Reporter Kills a Negro Who Shoots Policeman

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Trapped by detectives tonight in an apartment on the second floor of 32 Hillside place, Newark, after he had shot his wife through the arm and killed a Negro who was visiting her, Smith Bray, 30, a Negro, shot and slightly wounded a detective and was fatally wounded himself by a newspaper reporter who was assisting the police. The reporter, Edward Leary of the Newark Star Eagle, who had a permit to carry a pistol, had gone to the house with a detective when word was received that a pistol battle was in progress in Hillside place.

3 Daylight Burglars Raid Dress Shop; Flee in Auto

Three daylight burglars broke into the rear of the Jacobson Dress shop, 812 West 79th street, yesterday afternoon, loaded frocks worth $200 into a sedan, and escaped through an alley. Neighbors, who observed the theft, notified Gresham police.

Fenders Brush, Negro Trails Driver and Fight Follows

Unaware that he was pursued, John Hammond, 918 Winona avenue, Chicago representative of the Lorraine Light company, stopped his car for a traffic signal at Kenmore and Wilson avenues last night and was waiting for the lights to change when Ernest Turner, 23 years old, a Negro of 2314 Brown avenue, Evanston, jumped from his own car and struck Hammond. Their cars had brushed fenders at Oak street and the outer drive. In the ensuing fist fight the Negro, worsted, took refuge in his own car and was cowering behind locked doors in fear of the taunts of a crowd of 100 persons when two flivver squads from Town Hall police station rescued him. He was booked for disorderly conduct.

Glider Champion Breaks Own Mark; Goes 100 Miles

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GERSFELD, Germany, Aug. 24.—Robert Kronfeld, world champion glider, piled up another world record this afternoon by gliding 100 miles. This is seven miles longer than his own record, set a week ago. The start was made at Wasserkuppe and the finish at Fichtelberg, near the Bavarian-Czecho-Slovakian border.

Hunt Motive for Bombing of Glass Company Office

Police are seeking the motive for the throwing of a black powder bomb early yesterday at the front entrance of the Triplex Safety Auto Glass company, 2313 Indiana avenue. The bomb splintered the door and shattered windows. Damage was estimated at $500. The owner said he knew of no reason for the bombing.

Textile Strikers Vote Not to Go Back Today

Bessemer City, N. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Seven hundred striking employés of the American mills, No. 1 and No. 2 at a massmeeting tonight voted unanimously not to return to work tomorrow morning in accordance with an agreement reached with mill officials yesterday, strike leaders announced.

ACID THROWER BLINDS BROTHER, INJURES MOTHER

Ansonia, Conn., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Four persons were severely burned, one so badly that he will be permanently blind in both eyes, by acid hurled today by a chemistry student during an altercation with his brother.

The acid, police charge, was thrown by Frederick Soudier, 16, at his brother, Nicholas, 22, who, physicians said, will be blind permanently. Some of it fell on the youth's mother, Mrs. Mary Soudier, their 7 year old sister, Dorothy, and on Frederick, inflicting severe burns.

Frederick, a chemistry student, kept the acid in the house for experimental purposes, police said.

A notable display of Feudal Oak furniture portrays the interest of this type of furnishing shown in the new designs for Fall.

Proud in their power and wealth, with ancestral backgrounds of great armorial achievements, the knights of Old England showed in their furnishings of rare beauty the devices of the friends and kindred of the builders, the arms, the crests, the cross of St. George, Tudor roses and Fleur-de-Lis.

An outstanding example of this sturdy type of furniture we show in the "Yorkshire," the original of which is found in Agecroft Hall in Lancashire, built in the time of Henry VII.

All of this furniture is offered at Sale prices during our Semi-Annual Sale.

PRAISES LINGER AS SONG FEAST ECHOES DIE OUT

Happy Contestants Return to Their Homes.

Across the hills and plains of Chicago land the evanescent strains of THE TRIBUNE'S great music festival had faded yesterday, but an echo stirred through the aisles of the Chicago Temple and inspired the Rev. John Thompson, pastor, to pay tribute to the spectacle as "a little bit of heaven down on earth."

Dr. Thompson, during his Sunday morning sermon, praised the splendor of song and music which drew 150,000 persons to Soldiers' field and said it came midst all the sordidness of corruption "like a little bit of heaven let down to earth as a breeze from the hills on high. Those pearly drops of music from the Celestial City were most refreshing in such days as these."

Calls Whole Idea Unique.

The pastor described the festival as an expression of spiritual ideals and said it was eloquent testimony that Chicago was not entirely a material city. "The whole idea was unique," Dr. Thompson said, "and should make an impression on world news."

Nearly all of the thousands from throughout the five states of Chicagoland who took part in the festival were homeward bound yesterday, and among the happiest were the members of the Cedar Falls, Ia., band, which had won first prize in the band contests.

The Cedar Falls band, as an organization, has been in existence for thirty-seven years and all of the people of Iowa were proud to welcome the musicians home after their greatest achievement. George Shaw, editor of the Waterloo, Ia., Tribune, which sponsored the festival in its district and sent the band to Chicago, said the victory had been acclaimed as the band's outstanding accomplishment since it was organized in 1893.

Given Reception at Home.

Five members of the band have been playing with it for twenty years. Instead of visiting in Chicago over Sunday, as had been planned, the band hurried to the railway station and left for home as soon as the festival ended, both Cedar Falls and Waterloo urging them to hurry for a great reception had been planned.

Another one of the happiest who took part in the festival was the 91 year old civil war veteran and drummer, W. T. Kimsey of Douglas, Mich., whose drum which rumbled at Shiloh was heard again Saturday night. The veteran's eyes sparkled when told he was to broadcast over the national network "for my wife back home in Douglas said she would be listening in."

Noble Cain was in charge as the general choral director, assisted by a staff of four experienced song leaders. These were Rollin Pease, oratorio singer and former director of the Northwestern university male glee club on its European tour; Carl Craven, Chicago, voice teacher in the Fine Arts building; Leroy Wetzel, formerly conductor of the Paulist choir; and Glenn Cliffe Bainum, Northwestern university director of band and chorus. Edward T. Clissold, conductor of the Euterpean male chorus and president of the Mendelssohn club, and Franklin Earle Hathaway assisted the staff.

All the Choruses Good.

Mr. Pease, Mr. Clissold, Mr. Hathaway, Mr. Wetzel, Charles Lagourge, Harry Detweiler of Aurora, and Albert Borroff, Chicago voice teacher, were the judges in the finals of the choral contest in the Great Northern the after preceding the festival. The sixteen choruses in the finals, including 11 from out of town, spent the afternoon in community singing and listening to the Cubs ball game while the judges were busy with their difficult task of selecting the winners. The jury of experts said the competing choruses, each of which had triumphed in its district, were so consistently good that it was extremely difficult to name the winners.

Mr. Cain, the choral director, praised the work of Don Malin, who was in charge of the system of amplifiers and conducted the festival program's announcements.

The festival had no sooner ended when all of the Chicagoland newspapers which had cooperated with THE TRIBUNE in sponsoring the festival sought eagerly to begin plans for a second annual spectacle next year. Many other newspapers not included this year have written in with requests for inclusion next year.

List of Winners.

The list of winners in the various festival contests follows:

Junior Drum and Bugle corps—Boy Scout troop 15, Racine.
Mixed chorus — The Ukranian National chorus.
Women's chorus — Calumet ladies' chorus.
Men's chorus — Illinois Central, Chicago.

The various newspapers in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa which were associated with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in creating the premiere festival were:

Illinois—The Illinois State Journal Springfield; Journal-Standard, Freeport; Daily News, Kankakee; Evening Telegraph, Dixon; Chronicle, De Kalb; News-Sun, Waukegan, Daily Republic, Rockford; Review, Decatur; Journal-Transcript, Peoria.

Indiana—News-Times, South Bend; News, Michigan City; Herald-Argus, Laporte; Truth, Elkhart; Courier-Journal, Evansville; Post-Tribune, Gary; Evening World, Spencer.

Iowa—Hawk-Eye, Burlington; Tribune, Waterloo; News-Advertiser, Creston.

Michigan—Tribune, South Haven.

Another cooperating newspaper was the Chicago Defender, which sponsored the Negro chorus of 1,000 voices, an outstanding feature of the great festival.

PRESS PROSECUTION OF VIOLATORS WHO IGNORE RAGWEED

Vigorous prosecution of persons who fail to heed the ordinance directing the destruction of ragweed, which causes hay fever, was promised yesterday by Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas. The judge was recently forced to leave the bench during the campaign against ragweed when he was attacked with hay fever. Chief Justice Olson has ordered that special attention be given to the enforcement of the ordinance. Health Commissioner Kegel has instructed his inspectors to report all violations.

VIRGINIA PLANS HOOVER ROAD TO NATIONAL PARK

Project Is Suggested by President's Wife.

Orange, Va., Aug. 24.—(AP)—At the instance of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the Virginia conservation commission has staked out a twenty mile stretch of scenic Blue Ridge mountain country near the Hoover camp as the first link in the main highway to traverse the Shenandoah National park.

Work on the road, to be known as the Hoover highway, probably will start in the fall, and commission officials expect it to be ready for tourist travel by next summer. Eventually the main highway will be continued up and down the great mountain ridges, and probably will reach from Front Royal on the north to Staunton on the south.

First Link to Skirt Camp.

The first link to be staked out skirts the President's Rapidan river lodge, crosses the marine guard camp a mile away, and continues to Hawksbill peak, the highest in the Blue Ridge range in Virginia.

Although he spent Saturday night conferring with Secretary Hurley and army engineers on inland water way affairs, the President made no announcement of the progress. Today he arose early and with Mrs. Hoover and their guests drove to the marine camp a mile down Fork mountain and attended church services at a little pine community hall. The services were initiated by Mr. Hoover, and today's were the first held.

Chaplain Preaches.

Lieut. Com. C. A. Neyman, navy chaplain of Washington, D. C., delivered a short sermon and a United States marine played a small organ brought down by truck from the national capital last week.

After dinner the President and his party devoted the remainder of the day to short hikes and horseback riding over the mountain trails.

The party will leave early tomorrow for Washington.

Sharp Earthquake Felt in Portugal; Villagers in Panic

SOBREIRA, Portugal, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Sharp earthquake shocks early today caused a panic among the people of this village. They fled to the fields. The village suffered little damage.

BRITISH CLUB UNARMED MOB IN BOMBAY RIOT

Stretcher Bearers on Hand.

Red Cross stretcher bearers were a stone's throw away, while dozens of other first aid men were at intersecting thoroughfares. The first police charge was against a crowd on the opposite side of the street from the square. The lathi-armed police, massed in a solid line, plunged into the crowd, unable to escape the blows because of the throng behind. Mounted troops cleared the streets.

It required some time to clear streets of fallen victims, but paraders came from various directions. Dozens were carried to the ambulances. At the outset there were insufficient stretchers, but soon further ambulances came, including those of the municipality as well as hastily converted motor cars, while two trucks brought more stretchers and carriers. Now and then a police van charged up to carry arrested leaders to the police station.

Once the square was cleared, attention was turned to the esplanade before Victoria railway station, where the paraders were attempting to form. From 5 to 7 o'clock the police made not fewer than 30 charges, each with its proportionate number of victims. At one time twelve ambulances clanged towards the hospitals loaded with bleeding or unconscious victims.

Darkness Ends "War."

At 6:15 a general charge was ordered against the nationalists again trying to form in the esplanade. The cracks of police clubs as they fell upon the heads of the congressmen resounded. Many who had witnessed the attacks made an effort to escape across the square. A captain of cavalry with his adjutant and an orderly entered the esplanade, taking position in the center, when another heavy lathi charge was made.

As a result of a later charge, eleven ambulances were simultaneously loaded with prostrate forms. At least fifteen ambulances were used, each making from three to five trips to hospitals and each carrying from three to six victims.

Seven o'clock came, and with darkness falling fast, the last lathi charge was made while the mounted forces on the outskirts prevented the approach of other nationalists. The police "won" after more than two hours of "fighting" without even a stone hurled against them.

BANDIT IS SLAIN, BYSTANDER SHOT IN PISTOL BATTLE

A Negro bandit was killed and a customer wounded in a gun battle in a barbecue stand at 610 East 49th street yesterday morning. When three bandits entered the stand the cook, D. Fleetwood, and the dishwasher, Clayton Means, both colored, opened fire through a wicket in the kitchen. The bandits returned the fire.

A customer, Dudley Charleston, 29 years old, colored, 152 Broadway, Harvey, was wounded in the abdomen when he was caught in the cross fire. When one of the bandits dropped the others fled. The dead bandit was identified as William Love, 25 years old, 426 East 43rd street.

MILITARY REVOLT SPREADS IN PERU; DIVISION JOINS

Entire South Seized by Rebels; Capital Quiet.

BULLETIN.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Official announcement was made tonight that the cabinet of President Augusto B. Leguia had resigned. The cabinet in Peru is appointed by the president and holds office during his pleasure.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Dispatches from Arequipa, Peru, today reported that the entire south of Peru, including seven departments, was in the hands of the insurgents led by Col. Sanchez Cerro.

The fourth army division, in Puno, is reported to have gone over to the revolutionary cause. As a consequence, the insurgents control the departments of Arequipa, Puno, Cuzco, Madre de Dios, Apurimac, Moquegua, and Tacna.

The fourth division reinforces the Arequipa troops by five regiments and a field battery. It includes the 13th infantry, commanded by Maj. Barrioneuvo; 15th infantry, Maj. Navarrete, fourth artillery; Maj. Lagos, Fourth Sappers, Capt. Sologuren, third cavalry and the field battery.

Rebels Establish Own Rule.

Dispatches from Arica, Chile, report that a local government has already been established by the insurgents in Arequipa. It is under the direction of Guillermo Lira, who is said to be supported by reliable elements representing all social classes.

A group of insurgent officers who went to the port of Mollendo was said to have been received everywhere with ovations. The department is quiet and there has been no bloodshed. Col. Tosso, acting commander of the fourth division, resigned his command when his troops joined the revolution, it is reported.

Col. Eduardo del Aguila, division commander, who was in Lima on leave of absence, is reported to have arrived by airplane in Tacna, Peru, and to have left for La Paz, Bolivia, presumably to direct operations against the insurgents from the Bolivian frontier. He was accompanied by three army officers.

Order Rules in Capital.

LIMA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Complete order ruled in the Peruvian capital today, while far to the south Arequipa, one of the country's largest cities, lay under the rule of an insurgent movement led by Col. Sanchez Cerro.

As on any ordinary Sunday, President Augusto de Leguia, against whose eleven year old regime the movement is directed, watched the races this afternoon at Santa Beatriz hippodrome.

The war ministry received telegrams of loyalty to the government from half a dozen garrison commanders, including those at Lamabayeque, headquarters of the First division, Trujillo, and Sullana.

CHIANG PUSHES DRIVE ON FAST WILTING REBELS

Orders Army to Move on Tientsin.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—Due to the imminence of what is expected to be an early collapse of the northern rebel coalition against the Nationalist government, a report from Nanking today said that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, president of China, has changed his plans and is making preparation for an immediate drive toward Tientsin.

The report was based on Gen. Chiang's air trip to Tsinan, capital of Shantung, Friday, when he held a military conference. He received reports from the front, which said the resistance of the Shansi rebel forces was completely broken, making it necessary for him to send a force toward Tientsin immediately in order to prevent a chaotic situation in that area in the event of the withdrawal of Yen Hsi-shan's forces to Shansi.

Families of Officers Flee.

Reports from Tientsin stated that the families of the Shansi officers are departing from the city.

Wang Chiat-seng, vice minister of foreign affairs, a Mukden appointee, has arrived here from Mukden and announced he had informed the Nationalist government that the Manchurian government was determined to maintain its present position and not to assist the northern rebels.

An unconfirmed Japanese report said that Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang is secretly withdrawing his troops as well as stores of food and munitions from the Honan front in the direction of Shensi province, apparently indicating he has the intention of withdrawing to his old base and await another opportunity to test his strength against Gen. Chiang.

Amnesty for Rebel Officers.

The Nationalist government today, upon the instructions of Gen. Chiang, issued an order granting amnesty to all officers of the northern coalition, excepting Gens. Yen and Feng, in the event they professed allegiance to the central government and would renounce their connections with the rebel leaders of the north. Otherwise the government threatens punishment similar to that which is intended for Feng and Yen should they be captured.

PROHIBITION AND THE REPUBLICAN STATE PARTY.

The Republican state platform binds the party to adhere to the vote on the three prohibition questions of public policy in the November election. These questions are to be submitted as requested under the public policy law by petitions filed under the direction of the Republican organization in Cook county. They seek an expression from the voters on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the modification of the Volstead act and the repeal of the Illinois search and seizure act.

If the vote is against prohibition, federal and state, the party is pledged to follow the majority. Individual Republicans in the legislature and in congress may or may not follow their party. It is probable that most of them will. Mrs. Ruth McCormick, candidate for the United States senate, says that she will be bound by the vote on the eighteenth amendment. Her vote on the modification of the Volstead act would depend on the constitutionality of the modification proposed. So long as the eighteenth amendment remains in the constitution, Mrs. McCormick said, changes in the Volstead act would have to be consistent with it.

The Democratic state party has taken a position of unqualified opposition to prohibition, thus advocating repeal and taking leadership for it. The Republicans will await popular instructions and follow them. The opposition to prohibition in the party had to compromise with the dry rural element, but it is a compromise which is a decided success against dry coercion in Republican councils. This is the first party decision on prohibition which has not been dictated by the Anti-Saloon league and wholly acceptable to it. The state party is partly out of that clutch.

The decision to abide by the referendum puts consequence in the submission of the three questions. Drys have said that other votes had no meaning and hence the friends of prohibition took no interest in them and did not participate. If Illinois goes against prohibition this time, both major parties will be committed for repeal and nothing but an act of bad faith can prevent the repeal of the Illinois prohibition law by the next legislature.

THE HIGH COST OF TRACTION QUIBBLING.

Nearly two months have passed since the traction ordinance was approved by the voters of Chicago, but next to nothing has been accomplished meanwhile toward the modernizing of Chicago's transportation. No agreement has been reached on the consolidation of the companies. The planning of the subway has been impeded by legal quibbling.

So far as the subway is concerned, the first crisis came over the question of paying the engineers who had been retained. No one objected to their employment, but the nice question was raised that they must be paid either by the city council or by the board of local improvements. The fact that the council and the board were in accord in the matter was overlooked. It is impossible to escape the suspicion that the point was raised to serve the purpose of delay and confusion.

Now another point of the same order has been brought up. Is the subway to be built in part from special assessment? Of course it is. The benefits of the subway to owners of property adjoining it are certain to be substantial. The property owners can well afford to pay, and pay handsomely, for the subway and many of them through their associations have already indicated a willingness to do so. The last session of the legislature enacted a measure authorizing the city to levy special assessments for subways. Whatever questions may arise over the matter of assessments provide no justification for delaying the drawing of plans.

The subway quibbling seems to be synchronized with the delays encountered in the consolidation of the companies. This is a matter which directly concerns only the holders of securities in the various surface and elevated lines. The problem was clearly defined more than a year ago when the legislature passed the traction enabling acts, but progress to date has been insignificant.

The inaction has been disappointing to the people of Chicago. They acted in good faith when they gave nearly a 6 to 1 vote in favor of the ordinance and they expected good faith would be shown by the companies in meeting the conditions for acceptance of the ordinance. The companies had a rare opportunity to keep the good will of the public. They have lost much of it already and will lose what remains if they do not act promptly and decisively. They will be rewarded for disappointing the public with a return of popular distrust and suspicion. And they will have only themselves to blame.

RESULTS IN THE GANG MURDER INVESTIGATION.

For the first time in the record of American gang murders justice in pursuit of crime is getting somewhere. The killing of Alfred Lingle has had consequences. One of them was the murder of Jack Zuta. Zuta, silent enough while he was alive, was no sooner buried than he began to "talk." If Lingle had not been killed there would not have been a special assignment out of the state's attorney's office. Without the special assignment of Roche, Mr. Swanson's chief investigator, and the appointment of Rathbun and McShane as special assistant state's attorneys for this case, gangland would be just as ominously silent and confident as it was before.

The ability and persistence of the investigators have been rewarded with rich hauls of evidence. The gun with which Lingle was killed was traced, in spite of filed off numbers, to its purchaser, Foster, who was indicted, found in California and brought back. He is in jail charged with murder and waiting trial, although two attempts have been made to release him.

This in itself represented more headway than had been possible in the investigation of any other gang murder in Chicago or elsewhere in American cities where the order of the community has been wrecked by killers. The investigators were ready to take advantage of any misstep the gangsters made and the gangsters, their nerve shaken, made one. They killed Zuta presumably because they thought he might talk, and in killing him set him "talking."

This hideous little vice monger and gang captain was, fortunately, methodical in his accounts. He may have thought that there was security in the records he preserved with their evidence of his association with judges, police officers, public men, politicians, racketeers, newspaper men, and his ruffian associates. Anyway, he kept his accounts and preserved the incriminating documents. If he had been allowed to live they might have remained under cover in his safety deposit boxes, but when they had been traced, after his death, they could be seized. That was one killing when gangland let its fears get the better of its judgment. Such an event was expectable. The point was to be ready for it and in this case the investigators were ready.

The disclosures already have given the public more reliable, authentic information regarding the methods and connections of the gangsters than ever before had been available. Things which might have been guessed at are now in evidence. The pattern of crime procedure is being traced. The contacts of the gangsters are revealed. Zuta's records show the take of money and the distribution, how the criminals made their connections with law and the police, with men in government and with newspapers.

The full results to be obtained from the discovery of this evidence will be seen in the future. It is the hottest trail picked up in this country so far. For the first time a fear of law has been thrown into the heart of crime and evidence of that is shown in the fact that the big hoodlums have scampered away from a town which had become too hot for them.

What has been done in this case has been done in the only way in which a successful fight will be made against these criminals here or in any other city. Chicago, which had the worst reputation for crime, may acquire the best reputation for retributive justice. New York, Detroit, and other cities which have been equally outraged by gang murder will have to adopt equally intelligent and persistent efforts before they can get rid of their criminal gangs. Crime is interwoven from city to city and a concentrated effort will be required to get the upper hand of it.

OLE MAN RIVER IN PERSPECTIVE.

The New York Sun, the other day, printed an editorial on "Low Water." It had to do with the Mississippi river, a thousand miles away. The river is always low in August, the editorial said, but shallow draft steamers in other years have been able to navigate below St. Louis. This year steamboats are stranded and the government barge line has been obliged to refuse the offer of a million bushels of wheat for export. Then a paragraph about the passing of the steamboat era on the Mississippi. Then this paragraph by way of climax and conclusion:

"The present low water cannot but be temporary. In another year Ole Man River will be rolling along as grandly as ever."

That, of course, is a comforting thought that might otherwise have escaped attention. It will encourage those who desire to use the Mississippi for transportation to keep a stiff upper lip. Unquestionably Maj. Gen. Ashburn, who runs the government barge line, has already expressed his thanks for the timely and helpful sentiment.

If New York's water supply should fail some hot summer, as it occasionally threatens to do, we promise to offer the same kind of comfort. "The present low water cannot but be temporary. Next year there will be plenty for drinking and bathing." Meanwhile we may observe that New York state is itself in no small measure responsible for the interruption of navigation in the Mississippi. New York was one of the parties to the suit which resulted in reducing the diversion of water from the great lakes, which are overflowing, to the Mississippi, which is at the lowest point recorded in years. Incidentally, the reasoning followed by New York's allies in the case may prove embarrassing one of these days. It was alleged that water may not be diverted from one watershed to another. If so, where will New York find a water supply for the added millions expected in the metropolitan area?

Editorial of the Day

RUMBLES FROM THE SOUTH.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

The strike of 500 workers in the textile mills at Bessemer City, N. C., recalls again the troublous situation in the newly industrialized south. For it was in the North Carolina textile belt that the savage outbursts occurred a year ago, with pitched battles and death in both camps. The latest walkout, however, seems to have been unorganized. It was a spontaneous rebellion against a cut of from 20 to 30 per cent in wages already considered too low.

The whole textile labor situation in the south is a result of too rapid industrialization of a people unaccustomed to such work. Operators moved mills into the south from New England to use mountain white labor that would cost less than the unskilled immigrants on the North Atlantic seaboard. When the southern laborers began to realize conditions, trouble started. Cutthroat competition in textiles added fuel to the fire by enforcing starvation wages.

"Bloody September" last year was the first general uprising, with at least nine killings. Is this to be an annual event, or will the operators some day realize that cheap labor is not an unmixed blessing?

MAPLE SUGAR JAGS.

THOSE readers who, about November, live in a maple sugar country should know of something that happened two years ago in upper New York state. Two children died with symptoms of poisoning in a rural community. The physician searching for a cause could hear of nothing out of the ordinary except that they had got hold of an old maple sugar can.

In the bottom they saw considerable sugar "sand." They poured water into the can, put the sugar sand into solution, and had a maple syrup spree. Presently they developed diarrhea and other symptoms of poisoning due to an irritant.

The physician grew up on a maple sugar farm. He remembered that he had once had a similar, but milder attack, which had resulted from drinking "niter," the name by which the sugar sand and its solutions is known among the hands on a sugar farm. He learned at that time, if he had not heard it before, that among maple sugar farmers niter is regarded as a poison.

In the boiling of maple syrup to make sugar the temperature of the boil sometimes goes higher than 248 degrees. When it does, niter is deposited. This is an insoluble substance, an undesirable waste product, are evidence of improper cooking known to some workers as sugar sand, but called niter by most of them.

Analysis shows it to be a mixture of several ingredients, the most prominent of which is calcium malate. Malic acid is one of the acids found in many fruits and some vegetables.

In their investigation the New York state health department found that several years ago some research workers discovered that magnesium lactate given to dogs in large doses caused poisoning, with the same symptoms as maple sugar farmers ascribed to niter.

The small dogs given doses of ninety grains had these symptoms. The dose necessary to cause the symptoms in man was never less than one hundred and forty grains. They found no record of experiments with calcium malate, but this salt should be more than half as toxic as the magnesium salt. It appears that a person eating a little niter would feel no ill effects but if he takes an abundance of it he may expect trouble.

BEWARE OF SOME FOLKS.

Mrs. F. P. writes: I have been invited to visit in a home where the children have had chicken pox recently. The cases were not reported and there was no quarantine. When will it be safe to take my children there?

REPLY.

Ordinarily it is safe to take children into a home where chicken pox has been five weeks after the onset of the last case. When people have shown a disregard of others greater precautions should be taken. There may be a case under cover in that home. You can't trust some folks.

FIGHTING HAY FEVER.

Miss A. T. writes: Will you find a small space in your column to insert this little relief for the sufferers from hay fever?

Inhaling aromatic spirits of ammonia will soothe the stinging in the nose and many have found it the best relief they have known.

CANCER OF THE BREAST.

E. E. B. writes:

Please tell how to detect cancer in the breast.

Can one detect it before it develops to a far degree?

REPLY.

The presence of a tumor in the breast should cause one to suspect cancer. The diagnosis is based on rate of growth, movability, feel, age of the woman, and sensitiveness. Pain and involvement of lymph glands are late symptoms. A good physician should be able to diagnose cancer before there is pain.

LOCAL EARTHQUAKES.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—I wonder if a depression in the street on Central avenue just north of Addison street can be fixed? When heavy trucks or cars pass over it we nearly lose our minds with the terrific noise it makes. Also it shakes our building here until sometimes I think it will loosen all the brick and come tumbling down. MRS. A. W.

Report is made that temporary repairs will be made to correct condition complained of. Report also states that bids have been awarded for the paving of the center roadway of Central avenue this fall.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER.
Superintendent of Streets.

ADMINISTRATION OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was verbally appointed administrator of my father's estate by brothers and sisters concerned. We agreed, also verbally, to allow one brother to collect the insurance check, and the remaining money to be held in reserve for taxes and repairs on building. Now this brother refuses to turn over remaining money, claiming my father died in his home and thereby he can keep same and be within the law. Also there are two cemetery lots in his possession belonging to the estate it was agreed I should have also. H. A. K.

An administrator should be appointed by the court on application of an heir. Assets should be turned over to such administrator and claims should be filed with him. The brother is not entitled to hold the money on the facts stated.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A STUDIO BARGAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A solicitor representing a studio sold me a coupon for fifty cents which entitled me to have a picture made of one child. The coupon stated only one minor of each family was eligible for the rate and must be accompanied by the parent. The child's mother can't get there and they refuse to accept the coupon from me. They gave me a false address for the solicitor who sold me the coupon. What can we do? Mrs. E. P.

The amount involved is not sufficient to make court proceedings worth while. If you are not entitled to the money according to the wording of the agreement, as appears to be the case, then you will have no remedy even though the amount were large.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Z.

Z is a letter, the alphabet's last,
Its praises I once used to sing;
But now it just gives me a pain in the neck,
I can't tell how I hate the damn thing!

Z is for Zanzibar; well, there is a Z
To which my tortured soul cleaves;
For this Zanzibar place they say is far off.
I wonder when the train leaves?

Z is for Zebra, and that is a Z
That's among the most dreaded types;
One look at a Zebra and I'm ready to faint;
He wears a full suit of stripes.

Z is for Zigzag, the way I walk now,
I go dodging around and can't stop;
I zigzag from every guy that I see,
For fear he may be a cop.

Z is for Zodiac up in the sky,
I'd like to be there mighty soon;
Walking idly around on a planet or star,
Or playing golf on the moon.

Z is for Zuta, and now you know why
A Z gives me such a bad scare;
More scandals they dig from his box every day;
Oh gosh, is my name written there?

THE CURRENT New Yorker's prize story is about a Connecticut friend, whose Norwegian maid of all work has her difficulties with telephone calls. She has been told again and again how important it is for her to listen carefully when taking telephone calls and to make an immediate notation afterwards. The other day her master, on returning to the house from the golf links, looked at the telephone pad and found this: "Pussymeister kalup."

Pretty good. And it was even better (not that we would boast) three or four years ago when a Wisconsin friend of ours had a Norwegian maid of all work who, etc., etc., etc. The note the maid left and we published was as follows:

That Hardy Old Perennial—
The Linebook.

And just as we're getting ready to parade the family hack and Tommy Sealyham Atkins through Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, the Tidewater, and up the Shenandoah Valley, out jumps the Linebook for 1930. Doggone, we wanted to leave without any ghost chasing us, but the Linebook for 1930 will not down. Anyhow, here's the idea: while we're gadding around seeing America At Last, you'll have plenty of time to think what you want in the new Linebook and write a letter about it. Dig out your particular favorites, or the names of 'em, or a description of 'em, and shoot 'em in. We'll be gone, but Hank will get all our letters and keep them safely hidden under a loose plank in the mailing room. The minute we get back, he'll dig up his treasures, we'll read your letters, and then yolcks and away—the Linebook for 1930 will be off!

DETACHMENT.

Languid lady, do you mind
The time we dined?
Do you recall the waterfall,
In soft refrain like cadent rain?
We didn't mean it for a screen:
Our talk, in fact, remained abstract;
Reflective, we Subjectively,
Gave love a break
We thought it best to manifest
A studied pride that we could ride
Without a fall the horse we call:
Detachment.

We were so sure we could endure;
But night can weave a web to leave
Where two may go and never know
The citadel we build so well
Surrenders when
We kiss, and then,
How quite absurd
Is that prim word:
Detachment!

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

15 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 25, 1914.

LONDON.—The allied armies along the line from Mons to Moselle have suffered a severe reverse, according to an official statement from Paris, which says that the English and French, after fighting both east and west of the Meuse in Belgium, fell back to the "covering positions" on the order of Gen. Joffre. It is admitted that the theater of action for the next few days will be in French territory. The statement adds that the casualties of the allies are great.

LONDON.—Namur has fallen before the German onslaught, the war office announced. Military experts are amazed at the tidings that this strongly fortified place has been reduced. It was hoped it would hold out as long as Liege.

BRUSSELS.—[By James O'Donnell Bennett.]—Maj. Gen. Thaddeus gave me this statement in denial of stories of German outrages and asked that it be transmitted by THE TRIBUNE to Germans in America: "I give you my word of honor that the defenseless villages have not been fired upon by German troops. On the contrary, when our troops entered villages to the east of Louvain we would find them apparently deserted. Suddenly, we would be fired upon from the interior of houses by civilians or apparent civilians. In all villages we were compelled to reduce we were fired upon first."

BERLIN. — [By Wireless from Nauen, Germany, to Sayville, L. I.]—Official announcement was made here that the German army, commanded by Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm, Prince Rupert of Bavaria, and Grand Duke Albert of Wuertemburg, has defeated a French army at Neufchateau.

TOKIO. — The bombardment of Tsing-Tau, the fortified seaport of Kiauchau, the German possession in China, has begun.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 25, 1900.

NEW YORK. — Bob Fitzsimmons, the shrewd old ring general, with fast, hard and well directed blows knocked out Tom Sharkey in the second round of the scheduled 25 round bout at Coney Island Athletic club. It was a terrible fight while it lasted. The crowd of 4,000 was not large enough by $3,000 to pay the purse of $25,000, which was divided equally between the fighters.

LONDON.—Lieut. Cordua, the Boer officer convicted by court martial as one of the ringleaders in the conspiracy to abduct Lord Roberts and to kill British officers, was executed by shooting at Pretoria. The verdict of the court was approved by Lord Roberts and execution followed within a few hours.

CHICAGO.—It is expected the 50,000 veterans of the civil war and 250,000 other visitors will be in the city by day after tomorrow evening when the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic officially begins.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 25, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—The military court trying Capt. Henry Wirz, former commandant of the rebel prison for Union soldiers at Andersonville, Ga., overruled pleas against its jurisdiction and began the hearing of witnesses. O. S. Baker volunteered to assist as attorney for the defendant, and was so enrolled. Dr. John C. Bates, ex-rebel, who was a physician at Andersonville, gave a long account of the shameful treatment to which prisoners were subjected and stated that in his opinion with proper care the lives of 75 per cent of those who died might have been saved. H. C. Gibbs testified that he was assigned to command at the prison and described conditions there. He said that Wirz had exclusive control of the institution.

BALTIMORE.—The Fredericksburg, Va., Ledger publishes a letter from Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, the former rebel commander, giving sensible views on the future course for the south. He says in part: "We of the south referred the issue between us and the United States to the arbitrament of the sword. The decision has been made and it is against us. We must acquiesce in that decision, accept it as final, and recognize the fact that Virginia is again one of the United States. Our duties and interests coincide."

SWITCH ENGINES.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Your efforts towards electrification of the railroads coming into Chicago is praiseworthy. I hope you will be successful and that we will see the work finished very shortly. However, will this eliminate the switch engine nuisance?

I live near the Chicago and North Western tracks, and of late years the noise the switch engines make is unceasing and terrific. It seems that these engines are run in from the yards at Proviso and paraded up and down the tracks here in town. They do not seem to have any special duty to perform but to run up and down the tracks (sometimes standing in one place fifteen to thirty minutes), meanwhile blowing off excess steam, blowing their whistles, and ringing their bells. Why all this noise on an elevated track is beyond my comprehension. EMILIE LANGE,

VALUES DEPRESSED.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—I wish to express my sentiments over your recent action towards forcing the railroads entering Chicago to electrify their lines. This action is in line with the progressive spirit displayed by your paper on all important civic matters and will certainly be a boon to the many residents affected. The neighborhood in which we live is entered by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, and between the noise and smoke confusion reigns supreme. Also property does not receive its proper valuation, as no one will buy around a smoky railroad track.

Right now, with so many men unemployed, it would certainly be an investment in good will that cannot be appraised, besides being a shrewd business move. Business men in Chicago's many communities should rally around your standard and lend every possible assistance, as results will only be achieved by concerted effort. A. SUTKER.

WHISTLES.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Why not extend the whistle blowing agitation on the river during the day to the sleep and nerve destroying night whistling of the railway switch locomotives, which is kept up from 10 p. m. to 5 a. m. nightly, especially on the Milwaukee and St. Paul switch yards just east of the river and north of Center street. There does not seem to be any reason for it unless the engineer has a grouch on or has no consideration for people who must sleep at night. M. MERKLE.

GOLDENROD.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 20.—Now that the hay fever season is on I wish that those who are not botnered with it would please not bring goldenrod into the city. I had to do some shopping on Milwaukee avenue this morning and stopping in at the bank I ran into a woman carrying a large bouquet of goldenrod and every place I went after that I kept running into this same bouquet. I finally had to come home. I couldnt finish my shopping. I was sneezing so terribly. I know a great many other patients would appreciate it if people would leave the late blooming flowers in their gardens and not carry them on the trains, street cars, buses, etc. H. S.

THE TAX ON GASOLINE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Did it ever occur to any of the framers of the gasoline tax that paying 3 cent tax per gallon on 15 cent gas is a tax of 20 per cent. Off hand I do not recall of ever having heard of paying 20 per cent taxes in this country. This in itself ought to be enough to render the tax unconstitutional as it is confiscatory. Can you inform the writer if any progress is being made toward the repeal of this tax law?

My recollection is that the outcry against Len Small was the fact that he put into effect the 2 cent gas tax. I believe one of the greatest points made for electing Emmerson was that there would be no gas tax. As soon as he got in his office he made it a 3 cent tax instead of a 2 cent.

EDWARD BUKES.

GOOD MORNING, NEIGHBOR!

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 17.—"And what is so rare as a day in June?" Why these last few days in August? Why not comment about it? You make so much of heat spells and cold snaps. Be optimistic and praise the 100 per cent days so that the thousands who read their paper at breakfast may start their day's routine in the spirit of joy.

NORMA R. ROBINSON.

WEEDS.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—In his much advertised campaign against weeds why does not Dr. Kegel go after the big politicians? Among the worst offenders are the gentlemen of the south park board and the officials of the I. C. They are left unmolested with hundreds of acres of tall weeds growing and blossoming all along the outer drive while Dr. Kegel is harassing a few poor owners of two by four vacant lots. L. SOLTAN.

STERLING BEATS MA FERGUSON BY 100,000 IN TEXAS

Total Vote Largest in History.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Aroused by a spirited campaign of personalities, the greatest number of Texas voters ever to visit the polls yesterday denied Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson another opportunity to serve the state as governor.

Late unofficial returns compiled by the Texas election bureau from all but one county indicated Ross S. Sterling, millionaire Houston publisher, had received the Democratic runoff primary nomination by approximately 100,000 votes. All of the voting was not included in the tabulation, but counted a total of 826,352 ballots.

Equivalent to Election.

Sterling was shown to have received 464,696 votes; Mrs. Ferguson, 371,654. The largest previous vote was 834,442 votes, cast in the first primary this year.

Democratic nomination for the governorship always has proved equivalent to election. Sterling will be opposed in the November election by Dr. George C. Butte of Austin, nominated by the Republicans in the July primary.

Yesterday's Democratic runoff contested only six state offices and one congressional post. The Republicans did not hold a second primary. By state law a runoff is held when no candidate for any office receives a majority of the votes cast. The two high candidates are voted upon again.

Blow for Ferguson Family.

Numerous Texas newspapers tonight hailed Mrs. Ferguson's defeat as the end of "Fergusonism" and the political demise of "Ma" and her husband, James E. "Farmer Jim" Ferguson.

"Ma" Ferguson, who was elected governor previously when the courts refused to allow "Farmer Jim's" name on the ballot because of his impeachment in 1917, when he was governor, entered the political lists this year following similar court action. "Farmer Jim" did most of the campaigning, promising "two governors for the price of one."

Despite the newspaper comment tonight, Freguson has issued no statement and revealed no plans for the future.

BLEASE CRIES 'TO HELL WITH CONSTITUTION!' IN RACE FOR SENATE

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—South Carolina Democrats Tuesday will choose nominees for governor for a four year term, United States senator, seven members of the national house of representatives, all state officers, dozens of county officers, an entire new house of representatives and half the members of the state senate.

Cole Blease, candidate for reelection to the United States senate, has been subjected to unceasing attack by Leon W. Harris, young attorney, six feet four inches tall. At Union, where a lynching recently had occurred, Senator Blease shouted "to hell with the constitution" in speaking on lynch law and attacks on women. Mr. Harris promptly declared that Mr. Blease, while governor, had shown clemency to seventy-seven persons who had been convicted of attacks on or attempts to attack women.

Mr. Harris has also charged the senator with placing the names of relatives on the pay roll at Washington, although they have not spent more than thirty-six hours in Washington during all the time they drew their pay. Senator Blease, for the most part, has ignored Mr. Harris' charges entirely.

DRY DRIVE FINDS 166 STILLS NEAR CAPITAL OF U. S.

Agents Try Hard to Obey Hoover's Order.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Stronger concentration of efforts by federal prohibition agents to dry up the sources of liquor supplying the thirsty citizens and officials of the capital were seen today in the record of dry activities in the Washington area during the first seven months of 1930.

One hundred and sixty-six illicit stills were destroyed during the seven months in and around the District of Columbia with 1,300 arrests, a record indicating that the prohibition unit is determined to carry out President Hoover's demand that Washington be made a "model of law enforcement" despite denials that there has been any special campaign in this direction.

Woodcock Stirs More Activity.

Even greater activity has characterized local enforcement activities since Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock assumed charge of the dry unit.

Within two weeks after Mr. Woodcock took office the capital enforcement unit destroyed twenty-one stills, making eleven arrests and destroying 84,684 gallons of mash. In only one month this year has so much liquor making apparatus been detected as in July. In March 36 stills were destroyed, in April 25, in May 15, in June 28, and in July 25.

The reorganization that followed transfer of the prohibition unit to the justice department resulted in Virginia being added to the district which includes Washington, but the federal agents here do not concern themselves with Virginia except when their assistance is required.

Maryland Chief Liquor Source.

Ninety per cent of the capital's liquor supply, not manufactured locally, is said to come from nearby places in Maryland and it is in this area that the enforcement drive is being made.

The administration of the Washington enforcement district has been transferred to Richmond, Va., from Baltimore and R. Q. Merrick, who was made administrator in charge, has indicated that the coöperation offered by Virginia is efficient.

TRAYLOR COMMITTEE MEETS TODAY; WILL MAP DROUGHT RELIEF

Members of Gov. Emmerson's drought relief commission are to meet with Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank and chairman of the commission, in his offices this morning to outline a program for aiding the stricken farmers in the downstate counties worst hit by the dry spell.

Mr. Traylor returned yesterday from Wisconsin and did not attend the commission's session in Springfield Saturday, at which it organized by naming him chairman, John M. Crebs of Carmi, vice chairman, and Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, as secretary. At that time, the committee expressed a desire to make a further survey of conditions in the drought area supplemental to the inquiries of the department of agriculture.

Mr. Traylor will depart for Washington Tuesday to confer with President Hoover, who desires to advise with the banking members of the various drought relief committees regarding methods of extending relief.

The Ford Truck offers a value far above its price

FOR almost every business enterprise where there is hauling to be done, the Ford 1½-ton truck offers able performance for the work, reliable strength, long life, low first cost, and economy of operation. Not in a few fields, but in many, the Ford truck has found a place. In all of these, it is serving faithfully and well.

Closely related to your satisfaction with the Ford truck are features of its construction which reduce the cost of maintenance. Forty different kinds of steel are used in the chassis. Each of these is especially designed to resist strain, wear, or fatigue in the part for which it is employed.

The crankshaft and camshaft, for example, are of Ford carbon manganese steel. Valves are of chrome silicon alloy. The front axle is a chrome-alloy steel forging. These and many other special steels prolong the life of the truck, increase its ability to do hard work, and reduce the necessity for adjustments or repair.

New features of the truck are the spiral bevel gear rear axle, which has a straddle-mounted pinion; the two gear-ratios optional; the larger brakes; heavier front axle and spring; 4-speed transmission; provision for power take-off mounting; and the dual rear wheels, available at small additional cost.

Standard bodies, which are the stake, platform, and panel types, are mounted on the chassis with 131½-inch wheelbase. A chassis with 157-inch wheelbase is available for carrying light but bulky loads.

Go to your Ford dealer and see this truck. The closer your inspection of its chassis and bodies, the more you will appreciate that it is a value far in excess of the cost.

=GREAT AUGUST= FURNITURE SALE

Home Furnishing Costs Least Since War

Newlyweds, will-be-weds and women generally will be pleased to learn of the results of a survey made in Chicago by the United States Bureau of Labor. The government found that as a result of recent reductions put into effect at Chicago retail stores a home may be furnished for less than at any time in twelve years. Not since early 1918 has it been possible to buy at prices as low as at present the tables, chairs, draperies, rugs, and beds with which a woman is able to make a home out of a house or apartment.

The all-around purchasing power of the consumer's dollar is now $1.27, assuming that it was an even dollar in 1920. But at the furniture stores a dollar has the influence that $1.64 had back ten years ago.

That Chicagoans who buy furniture at the present low prices will save a huge sum of money is indicated by a report of the Census Bureau that Chicago's annual furniture purchases amount to $82,707,500.

ESTHONIA ADOPTS ROLE OF SENTRY ON BALTIC SEA

Eyes Russia as Menace; Welds Nearby States.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLINN, Esthonia, Aug. 24.—Esthonia, the smallest of the three Baltic states, is the most realistic, probably because she has suffered most at the hands of soviet Russia and has obtained the least benefit in the shape of trade concessions and transit from Russia to the outside world.

Another factor is her possession of the port and fortress of Tallinn, which under the old name of Reval for centuries commanded the entrance to the Finnish gulf and the approaches to Leningrad. She realizes that Russia looks with envious eyes to her position and would like to reabsorb her if she dared.

Favor Defensive Alliance.

For these reasons the Esthonians are taking the lead in the formation of a Baltic bloc. They have completed an entente with Poland and by lining up with Latvia in the north and Rumania in the south, hope to complete a solid barrier between the soviets and western civilization.

I have just had a long talk with Prof. A. A. Piip, the first foreign minister of Esthonia and now, although out of office, an elder statesman. He is going to Geneva to represent Esthonia at the league of nations. He said he was very pleased to see the policy of Baltic coöperation he had inaugurated 12 years ago being carried to fruition in the shape of a definite defensive treaty with Latvia and an entente with Poland. Although there is no formal agreement with Finland, it is perfectly understood on both sides of the Baltic that if one state is attacked the other must go to her aid. Prof. Piip explained this simply as a matter of strategic geography.

Keep Baltic Neutral.

Helsingfors is a fortress which is indefensible and if Tallinn were to fall in the hands of the enemy Finland knows full well that she would be the next to go. Stronger, however, than the Baltic bloc, Prof. Piip believes, is the interest of all of the powers of keeping the soviets bottled up in the Baltic. The Baltic is now truly a neutral sea, free to the commerce of all nations. No one nation dominates, but if Finland and Esthonia were to be swallowed by Russia this whole balance of power would be upset and the Baltic again would become a Russian sea.

Esthonia now feels safe and stable, and is devoting herself to hard work and internal reforms. Owing to the fact that she is more industrialized than other Baltic states and part of her former markets in Russia are now closed to her she is suffering more from the economic crisis than her southern neighbors.

Plan Road Improvements.

At the present Esthonia has about 2,000 unemployed and expects this to rise to about 6,000 this winter. The jobless are all taken care of, however, by various social services and the danger of communism is nil. Russia is too close to Esthonia for communism to appear attractive to her workers.

Most of the unemployed will be taken care of by a big road scheme on which will be spent 10,000,000 kroni —about $3,000,000—yearly for ten years. The present roads are bad and need to be improved as the motor traffic is continually growing.

RIVER LOWEST IN HALF CENTURY AT ST. LOUIS, MO.

Traffic at Standstill on Mississippi.

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The Mississippi reached the lowest mark of the season today when the stages here registered one and three-tenths feet above lo water mark.

The St. Louis to Quincy packet was stuck on a sand bar off Hamburg during the last week, but managed to clear itself without aid and with its own power. The St. Louis to St. Paul line of passenger boats exclusively has abandoned trips this year owing to the low stage of the river and will start next April when the river season opens.

Team of Mules Ford River.

This week a team of mules forded the river over to Long Island. The team was driven through, the water being scarcely knee deep any part of the way, an event unprecedented.

At St. Louis the river is the lowest it has been for fifty years and old timers declare they do not recall a time when the river has been as low above Rock Island and to the Twin Cities as it is now. The river at Quincy has been lower at different intervals, but never has been so low for so long a period and the river forecast is it will continue to fall.

Present Stage of Rivers.

The present stage of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers are as follows:

MISSISSIPPI.

St. Paul	1.4	Hannibal	1.9

Pair Carrying Wounded Pal Threaten Physician

Three men entered the offices of Dr. R. J. Moses at 1101 Townsend street, yesterday afternoon. Two of them were supporting the third, who was suffering from a shotgun wound in his side. Dr. Moses informed the men he would have to report to the police before he could dress the wound. The men protested and then threatened the physician, forcing him to attend to the patient. After they departed Dr. Moses notified the Chicago avenue police.

3 CABINET MEN TO TAKE STUMP IN VOTE BATTLE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Three members of the cabinet as well as Vice President Curtis and a host of senators and representatives will be on the firing line when the Republican congressional campaign speakers go into action later this fall.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, regarded by the Republican high command as an effective speaker, is one of the cabinet members slated to be heard on the political rostrum. Another is Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, who will be depended upon to aid administration senators in states where opposition to the President's farm program has developed.

As a candidate for the senate himself, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will do most of his speaking in Pennsylvania. His campaign, already under way, was given momentum Saturday when Vice President Curtis spoke at Sharon, Mr. Davis' home town.

Just what part President Hoover will play in the campaign probably will not be known until late in the autumn. White House officials have thrown cold water on reports that the President will make at least one campaign speech over the radio, and it now appears doubtful whether Mr. Hoover will make any political speeches.

JURY REPORTED 9 TO 3 AGAINST MRS. OESTERREICH

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 24.—[Special.] — Apparently hopelessly deadlocked, the jury of six men and six women late today reported itself as unable to arrive at a verdict in the case of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, accused of murdering her husband here eight years ago. Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy ordered the jurors to suspend further deliberations and sent them to their hotel. They will resume tomorrow morning.

Reports are that the ballots stand 9 to 3 for conviction of the garment manufacturer's widow. Angry voices have been heard through the jury room door, indicating heated arguments.

The strain told on Mrs. Oesterreich as she sat in the courtroom beside her attorneys awaiting a verdict, and she lapsed into frequent fits of weeping.

Fred Oesterreich was found murdered, with three bullet holes in his body, in his Los Angeles residence on the night of Aug. 22, 1922. Mrs. Oesterreich was discovered after the crime locked in a closet in her upstairs bedroom. Later it developed that she maintained a lover, Otto Sanhuber, in garrets of her homes, and in her trial she charged Sanhuber with shooting her husband. Sanhuber was convicted of manslaughter, but won his freedom through a technicality.

CHARLES O. GOSS, VETERAN REALTY DEALER, IS DEAD

Charles Oliver Goss, pioneer Chicago real estate man, died Saturday in his home at 5144 Cornell avenue after a long illness. He was 79 years old. Mr. Goss was born on the site of the McVicker's theater Dec. 28, 1851.

Mr. Goss was proprietor of a grocery store in what is now the loop from 1870 to 1873. Later he was associated with the Old Fidelity Savings bank. In 1877 he joined the real estate firm of E. A. Cummings & Co. On the retirement of Edmund A. Cummings in 1922 Mr. Goss became the senior partner of the succeeding firm, Goss, Judd & Sherman.

Mr. Goss was a member of the National Real Estate board, the Chicago Real Estate board, and the Chicago Association of Commerce. He was a charter member of the South Shore Country club, a director of the Chicago Athletic association and a former president of the Flossmoor Country club.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Stanley Goss, and a son, Stanley Goss of New Britain, Conn. Funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

50 HURT AS 50,000 RIOT AT FLEMISH WAR DEAD RITES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Aug. 24.—Fifty persons were hurt today in a riot when Belgian mounted police attacked a crowd of 50,000 Flemish men, women and children gathered at Dixmude in honor of Flemish war dead. Three airplanes, flying low, dropped handbills on the throng, accusing the Flemish ex-service men of cowardice.

The crowd tore up the handbills and then seized the Belgian flag flying from a flagpole and tore it to pieces. The police thereupon charged the crowd.

A second skirmish took place later at Ostend, when nearly 10,000 Flemish manifestants parade through the city singing their hymn "The Flemish Lion." They demanded tourists standing in front of the Royal Automobile club to take off their hats. A riot followed. Five were hurt and 100 arrested as police drew their revolvers. French speaking Belgians interpreted the Flemish demonstrations as directed against Belgian unity.

FARMER TO GET 90% COTTON LOAN ON MARKET VALUE

New Orleans, La., Aug. 24.—(AP)—In response to a request from Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, that the federal farm board advance the cotton farmer a minimum of 10 cents per pound on his cotton in view of the drought, Carl Williams, cotton member of the board, today informer Senator Ransdell by telegraph that an arrangement had been perfected by the farm board and the American Cotton Coöperative association to advance the farmers 90 per cent of the market value of their cotton.

Mr. Williams' telegram said in part: "Arrangements perfected between board and association whereby new sliding scale of percentage advances will be immediately adopted by American Cotton Coöperative association and its member state organizations.

"Under this new arrangement advance to members cotton coöperatives on basis present market will be 90 per cent of value of cotton where located. Both board and American Cotton Coöperative association feel that fixed advance in cents per pound unwise as it tends to create opinion that such advance reflects actual value of cotton."

a marvelous selection at lower prices

Fur coat styles and prices are both unusually attractive this season. The long flare body with its flattering lines looks well on practically any figure. And prices are so low that they compare favorably with cloth coats. We are showing the smart and desirable model coats in a variety of furs. Each coat is well made throughout and pelts are beautifully matched. See these garments; try them on. They represent the knowledge and skill gained through years of experience.

SCHEDULE G. O. P. STATE CAMPAIGN OF TWO WEEKS

Rally at Carbondale to Start It Sept. 2.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The opening guns of a fall Republican campaign tour in Illinois will be fired here Tuesday, Sept. 2, "with the heaviest artillery the party has" and with a vigorous offensive which will be carried into every congressional district in the state, according to an announcement of the itinerary today by Cornelius J. Doyle, chairman of the state committee.

Headed by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, candidate for United States senator, the meeting here will be a rally for the twenty-fifth district.

May Draw Many Leaders.

Among other leaders who may be here are Gov. L. L. Emmerson, U. S. Senator Otis F. Glenn, former Senator L. Y. Sherman, Gen. Milton J. Foreman, Richard Yates and Frank L. Smith, candidates for congressman at large; Clarence F. Buck, candidate for treasurer; Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, Secretary of State W. J. Stratton, State Treasurer Omer N. Custer, State Auditor Oscar Nelson and Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis G. Blair.

It is also expected that Republican committee men, committee women, county and legislative officers and candidates, will be on hand.

In charge of local arrangements for the meeting here are Warden James, White county chairman, and Col. T. B. F. Smith, member of the state committee. It is expected that district and county organizations for the fall campaign will be perfected during the meeting here.

The Carbondale rally is scheduled in the teachers college auditorium, beginning at 1:30 p. m. When it is concluded the caravan of candidates and others will go to Harrisburg for a meeting in the twenty-fourth district opening at 7:30 that night.

Itinerary for Two Weeks.

Following the Carbondale and Harrisburg meetings the itinerary of the G. O. P. tour is as follows:

Wednesday, Sept. 3.—At Mount Vernon, 1:30 p. m., for the Twenty-third district; at East St. Louis, 7:30, for the Twenty-second district.

Thursday, Sept. 4. — Jacksonville, 1:30, for the Twentieth district; at Springfield, 7:30, for the Twenty-first district.

Friday, Sept. 5.—Decatur, at 1:30, for Nineteenth district; at Danville, 7:30, for Eighteenth district.

Tuesday, Sept. 9—Bloomington, at 1:30, for Seventeenth district; Peoria, 7:30, for Sixteenth district.

Wednesday, Sept. 10—Galesburg, at 1:30, for Fifteenth district; at Monmouth, 7:30, for Fourteenth district.

Thursday, Sept. 11.—Dixon, at 1:30, for Thirteenth district; De Kalb, at 7:30, for the Twelfth district.

Friday, Sept. 12. — Mooseheart, at 1:30, for Eleventh district; at Waukegan, 7:30 p. m., for Tenth district.

SIX PRISONERS SAW BARS, BEAT JAILER, ESCAPE

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Six prisoners of the Pulaski county jail early today sawed their way from their cell, knocked Jailer John Branning unconscious with an iron bar, and escaped. The men are Robert Barnett, Ira Oliver, Arliss Wagner, alias Jimmy Wilson; Lawrence Turley, Therman Elder, and Gene Morgan, alias West.

Three of the men were charged with daring daylight robberies here. Posses were searching throughout the county late today in an effort to overtake them.

Tiffany Shakes Hands with 23,556 Persons at Picnic

Chief of Police Lester T. Tiffany of Lake Forest, Republican candidate for sheriff of Lake county, shook hands with 23,556 persons yesterday. The occasion was a picnic at Mundelein given by his friends, the chairman being Daniel Hentges. The picnickers consumed 4,000 pounds of barbecued beef. There were athletic contests and dancing, but no speechmaking.

BUSINESS "NOT SO BAD," HOOVER TELLS FRENCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Considerable comment has been aroused in official circles here by a lengthy interview with President Hoover appearing on the front page of Le Journal this morning. The writer of the interview, George London, says that President Hoover, after a warm expression of sympathy for the French people, discussed at some length the American economic crisis—the real purpose of the interview—for the French are keenly interested in what they believe is the collapse of American industry.

M. London expressed surprise to find the President highly optimistic about the fact and said he almost equals "smiling Andy Mellon." The interview ends by saying that President Hoover declared the unemployment problem was greatly exaggerated and that the actual number of unemployed did not exceed 1,500,000.

This statement aroused particular interest here because the morning papers carried dispatches from Washington quoting the census bureau figures showing that at the end of April there were 2,500,851 unemployed.

GROUND SERVICE TO THE DERBY OF THE AIR

THIS week the aviation spotlight is turned on Curtiss-Reynolds Field. The International Harvester Company, a Chicago institution with world-wide wings of service, joins in welcome to the veteran birdmen, to the fledgling fliers whose pinfeathers are sprouting and itching for the take-off, and to the incoming public with necks craned skyward. Airworthy ships are busy making air-minded men. Tomorrow we may all be taking to the skies, embracing the third-dimensional transportation of which Lindbergh speaks.

At Curtiss-Reynolds Field you will see a fleet of beautiful new International Speed Trucks, scarlet red, and patterned with a checker-board of vivid black and yellow for the eyes of the pilot. They bear the name of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service and they carry Standard Oil aviation products. Equipped with every device of the moment for contacting, refueling, and safeguarding the planes, they render the vigilant ground service that must underlie the Derby of the Air.

LINCOLN FIELDS OPENS 30 DAY RACE MEETING

Juveniles Feature Today's Program.

BY FRENCH LANE.

For the first time in nearly a year Chicagoans will go to the races at Lincoln Fields this afternoon. This was the first of the big tracks to spring up in Chicago during the recent racing revival and it always has been popular with the racegoers.

A stake race is missing from the opening program, but the $25,000 added Lincoln handicap and a half dozen other stakes have been scheduled for later in the 30 day season. Col. M. J. Winn, president of the American Turf association and executive director of the Lincoln Fields course, looks for an opening day crowd of more than 20,000. The south siders haven't been offered any racing at their very back door since the Washington Park season closed late in June.

Juveniles in Feature.

The Thornton purse, a 2 year old race at 5½ furlongs will feature the opening program. It engages a band of formidable juveniles in Pittsburgher, Doris Jean, Elysium, Fair Missie, Voltagreen, Polinos, Cousin Jo, Plutarch, and Scales. Pittsburgher will race in the silks of Theo Mueller of Kentucky and while he has been a disappointment in many of his races here this year it is expected he will go to the post the favorite.

The second best race on the program brings together such good route runners as Jack Haskell, Eleven Sixty Roy Gibson, Herendeen Pretty Pose Master Ace, and several others. It is a claiming event but some very high class platers go to the post in it.

There are five other well filled races on the program and the first one, a dash at six furlongs, brings some of the best plater sprinters here into action in Sis Agnes, Dr. Parrish, Naughty Eye, Lee Cooper, Blushing Maiden, and Reckless Lizzy.

500 At Washington Park.

At Lincoln Fields it won't be a case of the same old horses racing against each other every day. Some four hundred thoroughbreds that have performed at Latonia and other points are on the grounds ready for action. They will be mixed up with about 600 horses moved over from Hawthorne and with a couple of hundred others that have come in from Canada, New York, and other racing centers, it should make better sport. At least it will make the task of picking the winners a little more difficult and will provide better prices when one of the strangers trim an old time Chicago favorite.

Every stall was occupied at Lincoln Fields last night. About five hundred other horses were quartered at Washington Park and they will be vanned over to Lincoln Fields to fill their engagements.

Numerous improvements have been made at Lincoln Fields since last year. There is a deep cushion on the track which may make the time slightly slower but it will be safe for the horses which run over it.

Post time for the first race each afternoon will be 2:15 o'clock, and crowds coming in after the last race each day will reach the loop shortly after 6 o'clock it has been promised.

Sande Drops In.

Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Lincoln Fields Jockey club, who has been ill for several weeks, is near complete recovery and he was expected to be present for today's opening program. The horses shipped to Springfield to take part in the Governor's day program returned to Lincoln Fields yesterday.

Jockey Earl Sande was in Chicago for a short time yesterday but left during the day for Saratoga where he will resume riding this afternoon. Sande came out from the east to ride Reveille Boy in the Governor's Derby. "I never saw such a crowd on any race track as the one at Springfield when the Derby was run," Sande said yesterday. 'I wanted to win that race the worst sort of way but either Reveille Boy or myself was a trifle off form."

Breaking Par Casual Feat in Western Open

BY HOWARD BARRY.

With the dust of battle settled and a new western open champion crowned, golfers are seeking explanations for so many low scores over the Indianwood course which at first sight seemed exceedingly difficult to play.

Sarazen's winning total of 278 has been beaten only once before in the history of western open competition. Wild Bill Mehlhorn set a course record of 65, and Christian Brinke, an amateur of little more than local prominence, had a 67. Although par for the course is 72, no round passed without some one—and some times several—shooting in the sixties.

Despite dips and gullies, knolls and valleys which made for difficult downhill lies and called for shots at invisible pins, the contenders seemed to encounter few difficulties between tee and green. Almost every one who failed conspicuously did so through inability to knock down putts.

Armour's Putting Game Off.

Tommy Armour, defending champion, who is one of the handiest men in the game when it comes to using an iron, was laying his approaches on the green pretty consistently. But time and again he missed the cup.

On the day when Harry Hampton surrendered the lead he was driving straight down the center of the fairways and was reaching the greens in the requisite number of strokes, but he three-putted four times.

Johnny Farrell's putting is usually his strongest point, but in this tournament it was his weakest. Only once did he get into serious trouble in a trap and seldom if at all did he sacrifice a shot in the rough. On the greens he failed repeatedly.

After a slow start Horton Smith was unable to catch up because of inability to sink eight and nine foot putts, which turn the tide in so many tournaments.

Could Gain on Fairways.

There were four par five holes on the course—the first, twelfth, fifteenth, and eighteenth. Throughout the tournament Laurie Ayton of Evanston was the only player to slam a brassie shot to this last green, and the fifteenth was also a tough one, normally calling for a drive, a brassie and a mashie niblick. But the first could be birdied with a drive and a midiron, and the topnotchers were reaching the twelfth repeatedly with a drive and a brassie.

So with comparatively easy birdies on two of these par five holes it can be seen that a player in top form could pick up a couple of strokes along the fairways. Moreover, there were several short par four holes where an approach could be dropped beside the pin, and if, added to this the player's putting touch was at its best, a par shattering round might be expected.

WHITE SOX LOSE TO RED, 2-0; THEN WIN IN 11TH, 5-4

Caraway Holds Boston to 7 Hits in Nightcap.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 24.—Before saying their season's farewell to the east today the White Sox were able to add one more victory to their collection. They did this by capturing the second portion of a doubleheader after having been defeated in the first half by the last place Boston hose. The scores were 2 to 0 in one hour and nine minutes and 5 to 4 in eleven innings.

Adding these results to previous happenings of the journey gives the Sox a record of four wins and twelve defeats since quitting their own fireside.

The speed with which the opening game was disposed of can be accounted for by the fact that both Milton Gaston and Red Faber were in no mood to give hits.

Caraway Wins Anyway.

Then Pat Caraway was selected as the man who might bring about an even break for the day. He did it, but was successful only after his mates had displayed intentions of throwing the game away by weird fielding. All of the four runs scored against him were due to blunders.

The second game didn't settle down into a duel between Caraway and Durham until the sixth inning, at which point Boston was handed a run that created a 4 to 4 tie. After that Caraway allowed only two hits.

The eleventh opened with Bill Cissell leading off. Between games he had been moved from third to short to permit the return of Willie Kamm. Kamm celebrated by singling to left. Reynolds' perfect bunt moved him to second, whereupon Jolley lined safely through second to score Cissell.

No Support for Faber.

Under ordinary circumstances Faber's pitching effort in the first battle would have resulted in a winning achievement. The trouble was that the attack behind the veteran was so meek as to provide him with no encouragement. His mates got only three hits against Gaston.

For quite a stretch Faber maintained the same pace set by his less aged opponent. Old Red let the home hose have only three hits and no passes in six innings. That exhausted his effectiveness. In the seventh, with one out, Oliver singled and went to third on Regan's double. Webb was passed purposely and when Mulleavy fumbled Miller's grounder, Oliver scored. A double play cut the rally short. The other Boston run seeped over the plate in the eighth on a single by Berry and Gaston's double.

When the second game opened, the White Sox were in a different frame of mind. There was no Gaston to worry them. They landed on Durham for two runs in the first. Cissell walked after one was out. Reynolds forced him. Reynolds scored on a triple by Jolley and the latter came home on a passed ball. The Red Sox retrieved one of these runs in the second inning. Miller slashed one of Caraway's offerings into right for a triple and continued to the plate when Cissell messed up Jolley's throw.

Sox Take 3-1 Lead.

Bush's performers made it 3 to 1 in their favor for a few minutes by registering once in the third. Cissell caromed a two bagger off the pitcher's shin and scored on Reynold's single. The Boston variety of hose tied it immediately at 3 to 3 by scoring twice when an error gave them the chance. Reynolds muffed Oliver's fly which with doubles by Regan and Webb accounted for the two runs.

The White Sox resumed the lead with a run in the fourth. Kamm singled and dashed to third on a hit by Crouse. Caraway scratched a safety toward third and Kamm registered. This slim lead lasted only until the sixth. Boston's half of this session began with Barnes letting Regan's fly fall through his paws. Kamm muffed a pop foul off Webb's bat, after which the ex-Cub produced an infield out on which Regan went to second. Miller singled, Regan scored and the count was tied at 4 to 4. It remained that way until Cissell and Jolley untied it in the 11th.

Name U. S., British Track Squads for Chicago Meet

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Sixty-six athletes were chosen yesterday at Pittsburgh, Pa., for the 54 places on the American track and field team which will meet the stars of the British empire at Soldiers' field Wednesday night. It will be the fourth of the series of international meets and the first held in the United States.

At Hamilton, Ont., the coaches of the Empire squad yesterday chose 58 men from England and 10 dominions for the Chicago trip. Percy Williams, Canadian winner of the 1928 Olympic 100 yard dash, who pulled a tendon in Saturday's race, will make the trip, although unable to compete. His absence will not handicap the Empire as much as was thought at first for Leigh Miller and Fitzpatrick of Canada, Page of England, and Legg of South Africa form a squad of exceptional sprinters.

Special trains bringing the teams to Chicago, will arrive tomorrow morning.

The American team was chosen entirely on the performances Saturday in the National A. A. U. meet. As a result of poor showings, Ed Hamm of Georgia Tech, Olympic broad jump champion, and Ed Gordon, national collegiate titleholder from Iowa, with a mark of 25 feet, failed to make the American team. Pete Bowen, national collegiate quarter mile champion, and Morgan Taylor of the I. A. C., Olympic hurdles winner, who attempted a comeback in the quarter mile, were placed as alternates in their events.

A comparison of the records compiled by the two groups of athletes does not change the prediction that America should win the six field events, but probably will lose an equal number of running races. The other two track events, the 400 yard relay and the 480 yard shuttle hurdle relay should be the margin by which the Yankees will maintain their supremacy over the empire.

Will Parade in Loop.

Extensive plans have been made for the welcome and entertainment to be extended the visiting athletes. The American contingent will detrain at the Grand Central station at 10 o'clock tomorrow. A half hour later the British delegation will arrive at the Twelfth street station.

A civic committee will greet both teams. A fleet of buses and limousines has been assigned to the use of the teams during their stay in Chicago. The buses will take the American team from the railroad station over to greet the British and then both groups will parade through the loop on the way to their quarters. The British will put up at the Medinah Athletic club and the Americans will stop at the Illinois Athletic club and the Chicago Athletic association.

An official welcome will be tendered both teams Tuesday noon at the Hotel Sherman by the Rotary club of Chicago. Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, will be the principal speaker. Other guests of honor at the speakers' table will include Gov. Emmerson, Gen. John V. Clinnin, A. A. Stagg, K. L. Wilson, Judge Walter Steffen, George Getz, Samuel Insull, Baron Baillet-Latour, president of the International Athletic federation, Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U.; Sir Arnold Lindsey, British ambassador to the United States, and the Hon. Godfrey Haggard, British consul general in Chicago.

Both teams will have the afternoon on Tuesday for workouts at Soldiers field. In the evening the teams will be the guests at a dinner and reception to be given by the Medinah Athletic club. The athletic committee of the club has arranged a number of boxing bouts to be given by eight British boxers who competed in the empire games and eight Chicago boxers.

Castle to Address Crowd.

All the pageantry and color of the Olympic games will be reproduced Wednesday night. From the highest point of the colonnades towering on the sides of the stadium two trumpeteers will announce the opening of the games at 8:15. Prior to this signal William R. Castle Jr., assistant secretary of state of the United States, who will represent President Hoover at the games, will address the crowd. His subject will be "International Athletics and World Peace."

The 400 yard relay, the first event of the program, will start promptly at 8:30. The concluding contest will start at 10:26.

GAYETY ATTENDS LOSS OF TENNIS TITLE TO BRITON

Betty Nuthall Wins from Mrs. Harper, 6-1, 6-4.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—In the absence of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, the United States women's tennis championship went to Miss Betty Nuthall, the English girl, at the end of a rather perfunctory final match at Forest Hills this afternoon.

The tragedy of the loss of the challenge cup to an alien athlete for the first time in the 43 years of its existence was borne with surprising gayety by the 4,000 patrons who struggled through the perils and vexations of the Sunday afternoon traffic on the Long Island roads and then sat on the open banks of the concrete arena exposed to occasional sprays of rain from a gloomy sky.

Miss Nuthall won from Mrs. Laurence Harper of San Francisco, formerly Miss Anna McCune, 6-1, 6-4.

New Champion Robust Blonde.

The new champion, who might be termed an interim champion, is a pink, robust blonde of the sort usually pictured on English Christmas cards and insurance calendars as the typical English girl. Mrs. Harper is a small, slight, dark haired athlete and a left hander. She set up some resistance in the second set, but hers was a feminine game and the tennis championships are won by an adjustment of skill, endurance and Amazonian muscle.

The crowd cheered both girls without discrimination, and when the match finally ended and the championship left the country for the first time, on a placement shot past Mrs. Harper's backhand, the blow to the national prestige was accepted with a crackle of hand clapping and a brief shrill of pleasure.

The fact that Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory won the championship seven times does not seem to count against the consistency of the American defense, although Mrs. Mallory was born in Norway and came to this country as a young woman and a star player. The justification of this idea leads off into international law and the naturalization regulations, but anyway when Miss Bjurstedt married an American citizen, her citizenship was deemed to be retroactive as to her achievements in tennis.

Rebuke to British Officials.

Betty Nuthall came to the United States on her own responsibility, though with the sanction of the British lawn tennis officials, and her victory may give her a secret satisfaction above and beyond the normal delight of a young woman who has just won the championship of the world in her chosen game. Last spring she was not selected to play on the English Wightman cup team, and her victory today could be interpreted as a gentle rebuke to the judgment that passed her by in that instance.

It was no fault of hers, of course, that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody decided to withdraw from the tournament this year and devote herself to domestic life in California or that Miss Helen Jacobs also retired temporarily to recover her health. However, in view of these withdrawals, the championship necessarily was marked down to about the same degree that the heavyweight championship in prize fighting was marked down when Jack Dempsey grew old and Gene Tunney resigned.

Could Have Been Postponed.

The final match, postponed from yesterday owing to the rain, could have been postponed again on the same account by the weather standards of major league baseball, but the crowd was game and the players willing. So the girls took the court and went to work, finishing before the real downpour of the afternoon began. The people in the stands brought umbrellas, and those little transparent raincoats which fold away to nothing like a magician's handkerchief, and they sat it out through several small showers to be driven to cover by a serious rain when the match was over.

Betty Nuthall proceeded to her championship in a firm, resolute way, apparently realizing that she had only

45,000 GO WILD AS DARING PLAY DEFEATS GIANTS

Brilliant Defense Halts New York.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Danny Taylor stole home with two out in the ninth and two strikes on Guy Bush, the batter, and gave the Cubs a 3 to 2 victory over the Giants yesterday. Danny's glorious dash made it three straight over the fellows who came to town four days ago talking about how they would go away with the league lead. And the Giants did leave last night, five games back of the Cubs.

A more exciting climax for the series could not have been framed and rehearsed. The finish brought the wildest enthusiasm imaginable to the crowd of 45,000 which flooded Wrigley field, for Danny's theft of home and victory not only accomplished the immediate purpose of the Cubs, but obviously stunned their worst pennant enemies. The feeling was everywhere that the windup yesterday will crush the championship aspirations of the New Yorkers.

That Intense Finish.

Here's the scene of that intense finish:

The Giants had scored the tying run in the ninth, and the Cubs' fourth double play had checked them from breaking up the contest. The Cubs were mighty fortunate to have the score 2 to 2 going into the last of the ninth.

Hack Wilson was first up in the Cubs' ninth. Of course, it would have been dramatic if Hack could have broken the National league home run record and won the game with his 44th homer, but Pitcher Joe Heving had other plans for Hack. Hack popped to Critz for the first out. Taylor came up and singled to left. He waited on first while George Kelly took two strikes. Then he started for second. Kelly fanned, but Danny stole second, and when O'Farrell's throw hit him and bounded into center field Danny whizzed on to third. Hartnett and Bell were given intentional passes, filling the bases.

Danny Hikes to Plate.

The Giants didn't become the least suspicious when Joe McCarthy sent Bush up to bat. Guy took two strikes with his typical baton waving technique, and Heving reared back to throw the third strike past Guy. And as he reared he saw Danny beating it for the plate.

Maybe a calmer man would have realized that a third strike past Bush would have ended the inning. But Heving didn't think of that. Tell with the strike. His idea was to get the ball to O'Farrell. But Danny slid under Waukegan Bob, well ahead of the pitch. It was a ball as far as Bush was concerned and the ball game as far as the baseball world was concerned.

More Taylor Heroics.

As you contemplate Mr. Taylor's heroics in the final inning, however, pray do not get the idea that those things were all he did in the interests of victory. His double in the fourth was a big factor in the Cubs' first two runs and in the eighth he blasted a Giant rally by throwing out Andy Reese, who attempted to score from second on Leach's single.

In the fifth inning Wilson singled after Cuyler had fanned and went to third on Danny's double. Kelly flied out. Then Hartnett singled to center, scoring Hack and Danny.

In the eighth inning Reese batted for Fitzsimmons and walked. He moved to second on Critz's bunt. Then Leach singled to left and Reese was thrown out at home. Instead of having the score tied with one out, Mr. Taylor had fixed it so the Cubs still were leading 2 to 1 when the inning ended on English's spectacular stop of Lindstrom's grounder over second.

Cuyler Adds His Bit.

There were other stars besides Taylor, Cuyler heading the list, with English a close second and Blair in about the same ranking. Clarence did nothing spectacular, but figured in three of the Cubs' four game saving double plays, two of which he started.

Cuyler executed two of the finest circus catches of the year, both of which kept Bush in the contest. Once

Red Poloists Battle Whites to Tie, 13-13

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Tommy Hitchcock Jr. and his bumping, slashing hard hitting teammates almost lost a polo game this afternoon at Sands Point field, and when the Hitchcock four almost loses that means some one else is mighty good. The Hitchcock Whites and the rival Reds fought a 13 to 13 tie on a turf still slippery from yesterday's rain before a Long Island crowd of 15,000. It was the tenth and last of the American international polo test matches.

It was a case of almost being too generous. The Hitchcock team continued its practice of granting seven goals to a side that called for five on handicap, and the Reds got away in front. Coming from behind in the last period the Whites slammed through two goals and caught the Reds at 13. Both sides held and the scoring stopped right there.

Hopping, Boeseke Star.

There was nothing lacking in the White attack on defense. It was just that the Reds were good, too. Young Earl Hopping and Elmer Boreseke Jr. were riding as if they were a part of their ponies at number two and back for the opposition, and their teammates, Rube Williams, the Texan, and Peter Bostwick, were right on top of the ball at number three and number one.

Cecil Smith, another Texan and rival of Williams for number two on the international team, got a chance today and continued the sound, clean hitting polo which he has shown in every game. Hitchcock's other two players were the regulars, Eric Pedley and Winston Guest. Pedley was a three ring show in himself today, smashing the ball through for eight goals.

Will Name Best Combination.

Capt. Hitchcock has followed faithfully his promise to pick the best coordinated combination for the international games. The last test match has been played and the first tilt with England is only two weeks away. The most versatile group of young players the United States ever has had has been developed, and sectional and social barriers of the past have been lowered tactfully with a foresight for victory.

Right now, with the pony vans cluttering Long Island traffic as they shift the mounts from stables to practice fields, three berths on the American team are virtually in the bag. Hitchcock will be at No. 3, Winston Guest will play back and Eric Pedley, the sharpshooting Californian, will ride forward at No. 1. The two Texas cowboys, Rube Williams and Cecil Smith, both built on generous lines and both daredevil riders, are fighting it out for No. 2.

Pedley Clinches No. 1.

In the beginning there seemed to be some uncertainty in regard to the position of No. 1 for an international team. First one player was tried with Hitchcock's team and then another. Until Pedley's game was so outstanding this summer, the No. 1 man always was the fourth best man on the team. Pedley is a natural No. 2 and

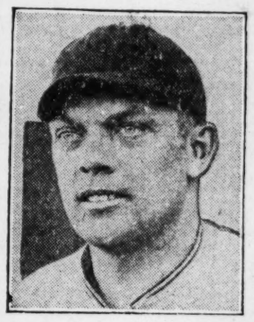
GETS AROUND



The crowd of 45,000 received one thrill after another at the Cubs' game yesterday, but Danny Taylor supplied the biggest of the day by stealing home with the winning run. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

WHITES HELD TO TIE BY REDS IN FINAL POLO TEST

Pedley's Play Makes No. 1 Paramount Position.

is considered by many followers to be a better man in that position than Williams, Smith or Hopping, but at the same time he is an uncannily brilliant No. 1. He shoots goals like a crack shot pool player, rides well out in front on the speedy mounts his sponsor, Charles B. Wrightsman of Los Angeles, has shipped east for him, and has developed into the most proficient scoring machine Long Island ever has seen. By his machine like precision in converting into goals the long hit-ups of Hitchcock and Guest, Pedley has elevated the No. 1 position to one of major importance.

Style of Game Changes.

In the early days of the game No. 2 and No. 3 positions were considered paramount, with No. 3 most important of all and No. 1 least in importance. But polo, oldest of the stick and ball games, has come a long way in recent years. It now is a wide open game with players who hit the ball with the force and timing of Babe Ruth and his baseball, ride thoroughbreds for speed, which has grown increasingly important, and pass the bamboo root with their mallets as an all-American player does a football.

One has only to watch the Hitchcock organization thunder down the field as it did today to get a comfortable feeling that the Waterbury cup is well defended. Pedley is riding out in the clear where he can make the most of his trained coördination, developed in the boxing ring and on the rifle range, as well as on the turf.

"Leave It to Me."

Guest wallops the ball from under the feet of a rival pony. Hitchcock shouts to Smith, or whoever is playing No. 2: "Leave it to me."

He dribbles the ball under the feet of his pony as deftly as a billiard player stroking a shot and then "socko" and the bamboo is on its way. Pedley is right on top of it as certain as death. His own No. 2 comes tearing along at his heels ready for a bit of rough riding against interfering rivals and a moment later up goes the goalkeeper's flag.

Today's lineup:

WHITES [13].		REDS [13].
Eric Pedley	No. 1	Pete Bostwick
Cecil Smith	No. 2	Earl Hopping
T. Hitchcock Jr.	No. 3	Rube Williams
Winston Guest	No. 4	E. Boesche Jr.

Score by periods:

Whites	3	2	1	2—13
Reds	2	0	0	3—13

Substitutions: Sanford for Bostwick. Goals—Whites, Pedley, 8; Guest, 3; Hitchcock, 2. Reds, Sanford, 2; Hopping, 2; Bostwick, 1; Boesche, 1.

GAYETY ATTENDS LOSS OF TENNIS TITLE TO BRITON

Betty Nuthall Wins from Mrs. Harper, 6-1, 6-4.

to keep her poise and avoid careless errors to pile up a winning score. Her power kept Mrs. Harper in the distant offing most of the time, raking the ball with a backhand of comparative delicacy, and when the American girl tried to diminish the speed of the game, Betty straightened out the ball and either smashed it past her or sent it back so hot that Mrs. Harper reached it only to increase her score of errors.

Mrs. Harper's Only Challenge.

The only challenge to Betty's progress occurred in the second set when for a while she seemed to lose her judgment of distance. Mrs. Harper won a long fourth game, to tie the set at 2 all, and Miss Nuthall lost the next two games by a series of errors.

For a few minutes it looked as if the English girl had blown up, for she couldn't keep her speed under control and the linemen, sitting like bailiffs at the door of a jury room, barked the bailiffs' cry of "out." Then she steadied, and Mrs. Harper lost her lead and the match and the title, batting the ball into the net or wildly outside in a futile stand against a stronger game.

When the last placement escaped Mrs. Harper's despairing backhand sweep along the ground, the pair of them ran to the net in a demonstration of sporting manners more friendly than some such little scenes enacted on the same spot in other seasons, and the girls stood patiently before the firing squad of photographers for fully ten minutes.

Gasps Phrases Into "Mike."

Walter Merrill Hall, president of West Side Tennis club, placed the big permanent cup in Miss Nuthall's arms and she, breathless from her exertions and the excitement of winning, gasped a few phrases into the portable miprophone of the talking newsreels. Then Hall jammed a bunch of American beauties into Mrs. Harper's trophy, a smaller cup, and after one more stand before the photographers, the two walked off together.

Betty Nuthall may not be the best player in the world, but she will do well as champion until the champion comes back.

Incidentally, and not that gate receipts ever matter in the tennis business, the show drew $14,000 this year. [Copyright; 1930; By The Chicago Tribune.]

OLD GOLD

BETTER TOBACCOS . . . "NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD"

LITTLE STORIES OF FAST SUCCESSES

ROBERT L. RIPLEY

Believe it or not . . . Rip's own success story is even more amazing than the astonishing facts he puts in his famous cartoons. But just as true. Three years ago . . . unknown. Today . . . 20,000,000 readers look for his drawings in 291 newspapers in 33 different countries.

Ripley clipped all time records in his quick rise to overwhelming popularity . . . because he gave a new thrill. And that's OLD GOLD'S story too.

When OLD GOLD first said "Not a cough in a carload," the skeptics scoffed. But coughers and scoffers alike have been converted. Like Ripley himself, OLD GOLD proved its facts. Better tobaccos. Therefore better taste. Mellower tobaccos. Therefore throat-ease.

Believe it or not . . . OLD GOLD will win you . . . just as Ripley did.

BOTTLES FLY AS SENATORS TRIM ATHLETICS, 7-3

Macks Still Lead Race by 7½ Games.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Washington trounced Philadelphia, 7 to 3, today. The Athletics still lead the American league race by 7½ games. A triple by Sammy West off the center field fence with two men on base in the sixth inning broke a tie and settled the game.

Both Walberg and Crowder were hit freely, but the latter scattered the hits. Pop bottles were thrown onto the field as the Washington team and crowd protested that Simmons had interfered with Cronin in an attempt to complete a double play. Score:

Taylor Steals Home in Ninth; Gives Cubs 3 to 2 Victory

he had to assault a policeman to catch what seemed a certain double and another time he caught the ball in short right with one hand while actually sliding on the seat of his bloomers.

Bush, too, had his moments, though there were a half dozen times when anything but phenomenal support would have spoiled his afternoon. This is indicated by the fact the Giants made 11 hits for 13 bases.

Defensive Work Necessary.

In the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth innings the first man up reached first base, yet only one of these, Terry in the ninth, managed to get around. In the second the Giants made a double and two singles, yet these, with a wild pitch and a walk, netted them only one run. In the ninth they made one run from a double, two singles and a walk, which indicates a red hot defense, don't you think?

The game concluded the eastern invasion, which opened with the Cubs 3½ games behind the Robins, then in first place. They now are 6½ games ahead of the Robins.

The Cubs won 13 out of 17 games from the eastern invaders and, strangely enough, the tail end Phillies gave them the toughest fight and were the only club to win more than one game in a series. The Phillies, you'll remember, won two out of five and battled to one 11 inning and one 16 inning tie for a total of 72 innings during their visit.

Boys Were Only Fooling.

Only one bad game was played against the easterners, the 13 to 6 opener lost to the Giants. And now it turns out that the boys were only kidding some of the eastern authors so's they would write long pieces to their papers telling how the Cubs had "cracked wide open" and conceding the pennant to the Giants.

Of course, the Cubs haven't really won the pennant, but they're five games in front with only 32 to play They owe nothing to the law of averages in the matter of slumps, having had theirs three or four times and, all in all, prospects are rosy.

Manager McCarthy, who should share with Taylor, the credit for yesterday's ninth inning coup, had his plans well in hand, what with Kelly going great guns, at least four pitchers in good shape, Jesse Petty coming on to supply some steady left handed relief work, and the club rampant with enthusiasm as a result of the outcome of the New York series.

Business Office Happy.

And the business office, too, is in world series mood. The 45,000th ticket was sold at 1:30 o'clock, and then the sale stopped on orders of President Veeck. These 45,000 paid admissions, with 2,000 passes, brought the actual attendance to 47,000 and the series total to 163,000, a new record. The seventeen games with eastern clubs drew 484,000, a new record for a similar sectional series.

But getting back to yesterday's triumph. There were three doubles in the first two innings, one by the Giants which resulted in a run, and two by the Cubs which accomplished nothing. The wasted doubles were by Cuyler and Kelly.

After Terry had struck out to start the New York second inning, Ott doubled into the crowd in left center and scored on Hogan's single to left. Jackson also singled, Hogan stopping at second. The runners moved up on a wild pitch, then Roettger was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Fitzsimmons hit into a double play, English to Blair to Kelly.

Kelly Out at Plate.

Kelly led off the Cubs' second with his double and went to third while Fitzsimmons was throwing out Hartnett. Hogan let one of Fitzsimmons' pitches get past him, and Kelly attempted to score. Hogan recovered the ball and threw to Fitzsimmons, who tagged Kelly at the plate.

In the fourth, the Cubs took the lead, 2 to 1. Cuyler gave the inning a modest start by fanning, but Wilson singled off Critz's shins and went to third on D. Taylor's double to the right field crowd. Kelly flied to Ott in short right, and the runners held their bases. Then Hartnett shot a single into center, scoring Hack and Danny. Bell struck out for the second time.

A double play halted the Giants again in the fifth. Jackson pushed off with his second hit, a single to center, and stopped at second when Roettger singled off English's glove. Fitzsimmons was out trying to bunt the third strike. Then Critz hit into the double play, Blair to English to Kelly.

Cuyler Bowls Over Policeman.

It was in the seventh that Cuyler put on his act with the policeman. Leach led off with a single to center. Lindstrom sent a liner straight for the right field crowd, but Cuyler made a magnificent leaping catch. A policeman was walking beat on the field side of the retaining lines at the time, and Ki, in his recovery, found it necessary to pitch the policeman, feet and all, some four yards to foul territory. He then made a beautiful return throw to the infield.

The only thing we haven't mentioned in detail, it seems, is the Giants' ninth. Terry opened the inning with a single to left, his first hit of the game. Ott singled along the right foul line, putting Terry on third. O'Farrell hit into a double play, Blair to Kelly, Terry scoring the tying run. Jackson doubled, his third hit of the game, and Roettger was given an intentional pass. Heving then fouled to Bell and the Giant offense was through for the day.

This afternoon the Cubs will enjoy a day of rest for the two game Pittsburgh series which opens tomorrow afternoon.

GEORGE JENNINGS RETAINS PUBLIC PARK NET TITLE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—George Jennings of Chicago, defending national public parks tennis champion, today retained his singles title by defeating Dooly Mitchell of Washington in straight sets, 6-4, 7-5, 6-1. It was the concluding match of the tournament.

Mitchell started off impressively by taking the first three games of the first set but Jennings uncorked all his brilliant tennis when games were four all to run out the two final games.

The Washington boy led 5-2 in the second set and thereafter was at set point five different times only to lose by his own misplays. The champion won largely on Mitchell's series of shots into the net. His retrieves, driving forehand and strategic placements carried him through. He took the third set without trouble.

Jennings also shared the doubles title, having paired with Jack Delara, Los Angeles, yesterday to beat Tom Markey, Indianapolis, and Ed Yeomans, Washington, in straight sets.

WHOLESALE AREA TRADE LAGS IN 'DOG DAYS' CALM

Dealers Expect Better Business in Fall.

BY HOWARD CARSWELL.

Trade in the Chicago wholesale district continued to more or less mark time last week during these "dog days" of late August. Business perked up belatedly in a few isolated lines, notably in gifts and artwares, according to reports, but business in general droned along at a languishing pace waiting for "that upturn" during the approaching weeks of September.

General Sentiment.

It now appears to be the general sentiment that any widespread effects of the recent drought have been exaggerated—at least in some sections of the central west. The cautious hand to mouth buying of retail merchants in past weeks is being attributed more to the general depression of business, which in the wholesale mercantile lines has been further aggravated by the usual relaxation of late summer. Since the annual summer market held during the first week of the month business has been going along unchanged in aspect.

Look to Autumn.

The feeling appears universal, however, that better times are coming. This optimism is primarily based on the fact that merchants must restock their depleted shelves with merchandise as a matter of necessity. Advices from salesmen in the several territories further reinforce these hopes. Another reason is likewise obvious. It is that business has been so poor during recent months that the probability of its remaining so lax is remote.

Butler Brothers reported a good pickup in mail orders following the issuance of their new catalogue and listed prices as of Aug. 1.

LOW FREIGHT RATES HELP CUT SHIP PROFITS

Under the adverse influence of the lowest freight rates experienced in the last several years, and the comparatively small volume of freight tonnage available, profits of ship operators are undergoing marked reduction from the 1929 level, says a current survey of the Standard Statistics company of New York. The survey continues in part:

"These conditions are found on all the principal trade routes, as well as in the domestic coastal and intercoastal field. Slight gains have been recorded in North Atlantic passenger traffic, but since such increases have been the result of expanded travel in tourist third cabin, revenues from this source do not generally compare favorably with those of a year ago. All in all, operating returns for the full year for the majority of domestic and foreign owners will not equal those of 1929.

"Longer term prospects for American shipping are favored by the expectation of continued governmental aid. Expansion of domestic shipping enterprises under private ownership during the next year or so, nevertheless, may be at least restricted by the failure of the government to clarify its policy in regard to the award of mail contracts and the disposal of shipping board tonnage, as well as by the possibility of a thorough investigation of shipping activities."

ATLAS UTILITIES ACQUIRES 80 PCT. OF EXIDE STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The Atlas Utilities corporation announces that it has acquired more than 80 per cent of the capital stock of the Exide Securities corporation and has elected to exercise options granted it by agreements for exchange of stock. Holders of deposit receipts are directed to deposit them with the Chase National bank in exchange for Atlas Utilities stock certificates.

Exide stockholders were offered for each of their capital shares either nine-twentieths of a share of Atlas $3 series A preference stock or two and one-quarter Atlas common shares. Atlas stock has sold this year between $8 and $14.75. The balance sheet of the Atlas Utilities corporation and the Atlas Utilities and Investors company, Ltd., reported on July 15 assets with market value of $17,000,000.

The Exide organization is an investment trust formed in 1929, stock of which was distributed to Electric Storage Battery company stockholders. The trust has assets of $6,000,000.

EASTERN PUBLIC SERVICE FIRM EARNINGS ARE UP

Gross earnings of subsidiaries of New England Public Service company for the three months ended June 30 1930, aggregated $5,517,664, as compared with $5,038,549 for the second quarter of 1929. After operating expenses, taxes, and other charges, the net income available for retirement and dividends on stocks of the company was $1,160,425, as against $1,054,286 in 1929.

For the twelve months ended June 30, 1930, the subsidiaries' gross earnings totaled $22,713,708, compared with $20,238,866. Net for retirement and stocks after operating expenses, taxes, and other charges aggregated $4,836,953, as against $4,666,781.

Union Tank Car Company Has $1,239,674 Earnings

Net earnings of Union Tank Car company for the first six months ended June 30, 1930, after all charges including estimated federal income taxes were $1,239,674, equal to 99 cents a share on the no-par common stock outstanding. The earnings for the corresponding period of 1929 [prior to the split up of stock 4 to 1] amounted to $5.08 per share on the $100 par value shares of common stock outstanding, which is equivalent to $1.27 a share as compared with the earnings per share for the first six months of 1930.

OPERATORS ON WHEAT MARKET MOVE WARILY

Huge Supply Curbs Speculation.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The world's wheat situation is full of more than the usual complications, which are making traders more cautious in their operations. With sup- plies in North America around 800,- 000,000 bu in all positions, combined with short crops in France and Italy and good yields in Rumania and Rus- sia, the trade sees ample supplies for all world requirements.

Prices in Chicago are around 40 cents lower than last year, with the visible supply piling up at a good rate and it is expected that it will reach its maximum within the next few months. The visible supply of 174,- 000,000 bu in the United States at the present rate of increase, might easily reach the 200,000,000 bu mark

Last Years' Increase.

Last year the visible increased gradually, reaching its maximum, 194,- 231,000 bu, on Nov. 2.

A review of the visible supply fig- ures for ten years on Sept. 1 shows 30,440,000 bu for last year, which was a record, and indications are that this year will about equal it on the same period. The largest previous visi- ble in the ten-year period, aside from 1929, was 87,914,000 bu in 1928, while the smallest was 19,354,000 bu in 1920. There have been only five years out of the ten when the visible at that time exceeded 60,000,000 bu at that period.

Going into the world's supplies, for the season, they are a little more than 4,120,000,000 bu, compared with 4,000,000,000 bu last year, and 4,366,- 000,000 bu two years ago. In 1924-25 it was 3,500,000,000 bu and a disap- pearance of 3,200,000 bushels. Last year the latter was 3,512,000,000 bu. The largest disappearance in the 8- year period was 3,773,000,000 bu in 1928-29.

Wheat Position Healthier.

With the wheat market in a health- ier condition than in many months, there is a disposition to go slower on the selling side on breaks, while on sharp recessions bring in better support. With large supplies, how- ever, it is considered a good business proposition to keep values down to a level where foreigners will take our surplus and enable United States and Canada to get on a more sound basis. Whether the trade will be able to get away from the carrying charges is a problem that is causing a good deal of discussion. With big supplies a large volume of speculative trade is believed necessary to carry the load on any advance.

Spring wheat is moving faster in the northwest than last year, due to a dry, early harvest, with quality bet- ter than last year, although aggre- gate yields are small.

Minneapolis and Duluth received 1,300 cars last week, compared with 1,731 cars the previous week and 4,658 cars last year. Winnipeg received 1,811 cars, against 2,705 cars the previous week, and 626 cars last year. Harvesting in the American north- west is about completed with thresh- ing returns irregular. In western Can- ada yields are disappointing in many sections and the harvesting there is also 50 per cent completed on an aver- age.

France, Italy Short.

France and Italy are materially short in their production. Germany, Russia, and Rumania have larger crops and prospects in Argentina and Australia are said to be good. Rus sia is offering wheat freely and, with Rumania, is a disturbing factor in the world wheat situation, as they are likely to undersell all other countries.

Speculative trading in wheat de- creased 104,000,000 bu from the pre- vious week, with an aggregate in Chi cago of 203,541,000 bu, compared with 434,634,000 bu last year. Open interest at the last was 145,650,000 bu, against 242,838,000 last year. Prices moved within a range of 6 cents and closed with net losses of ⅛@⅝c compared

Rail Demand Feature of Bond Market

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Demand for seasoned railroad obligations con- tinued as the feature of the listed bond market last week. The rise of carrier bonds to the best levels since 1928 imparted strength to the entire market, which established a new 1930 high in the averages for the third successive week, despite a comparative small volume of business.

The advance of railroad bonds was uninterrupted throughout the week, with a group attaining new highs in each session as saving banks, insur- ance companies, and other institu- tions with huge funds seeking invest- ment, continued to accumulate these issues. The strength of the rail list brought out highly rated, but inactive issues, many of which sold at an ad- vance of a point or more.

Two Strongest Factors.

Low interest rates and absence of competition from new financing have been the two strongest factors in the current advance. The dearth of new offerings this month has virtually com- pelled institutions desiring to add to their bond portfolios to turn to sea- soned issues.

Earlier in the year failure of the bond market to respond to extremely low credit rates was attributed to the weight of new offerings. That condi- tion no longer exists, as the quietitude in the new financing has enabled syn- dicates to move new bonds from their shelves.

New Financing Decreases.

New financing has shown a decrease each week during August and last week totaled only $28,539,500, against $30,767,000 and was even under a like week a year ago when bond financing was discouraged by the public appe- tite for stocks. Several large issues, it is understood, are being groomed for marketing within a week or two, probably after Labor day. Bankers are cautious, watching signs of a broadened demand, to assure a good reception for contemplated new offer- ings.

The market profited somewhat from the stimulus lent bond buying by the reduction of call loan rates to 2 per cent in midweek. The weekly state- ment of the federal reserve showed virtually no change in the holdings of United States governments and bills which were extensively purchased the previous week to offset gold exports. The steps taken from time to time by the federal reserve to keep credit ex- tremely easy has proven reassuring to bond buyers who now find fixed in- come securities attractive because of the spread between yields and money rates.

Erie Railway Purchases Show Faith in Future

New York, Aug. 24.—Substantial purchases of new equipment this year, with a maintenance condition that is the best in the history of the road, is pointed to as "evidence of our con- fidence in the future" by President C. E. Denney of the Erie railroad in a statement appearing in the Septem- ber issue of the Erie Magazine.

NEW YORK STATE TAKES STOCK OF ITS INSURANCE POSITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The first vol- ume of the seventy-first report of the New York state insurance department, dealing with fire and marine insurance and summarizing the statements of these companies, has been sent to press by Thomas F. Behan, acting superintendent of insurance.

It reveals that the 318 joint stock companies and 74 mutual fire and ma- rine companies authorized in this state had on Dec. 31 last total assets of $2,- 880,648,913, an increase of $226,152,701 in 1929. Liabilities were $1,335,310,050, an increase of $42,429,353. Capital was $411,202,278, an increase of $62,638,258. While surplus increased $121,085,091.

Fire premium income amounted to $793,058,305, an increase of $23,188,641. Total income amounted to $1,423,271,- 154, an increase of $87,293,240. Total insurance in force at the end of the year was $240,800,699,663, an increase of $12,724,842,886 over the end of 1928.

In addition to the foregoing list, 17 Lloyds inter-insurers showed assets of $24,234,904, liabilities of $7,656,992, premium income of $8,470,837 and losses paid of $2,839,611. Ocean ma- rine premiums received by joint stock and mutual companies in this state amounted to $30,420,765, while losses were $16,531,116.

All premiums other than fire and ocean companies received by joint stock and mutual companies in this state in 1929, including motor vehicle, aircraft, inland navigation, tornado, windstorm, hail, sprinkler leakage, earthquake and others, amounted to $42,830,972, while losses incurred were $20,098,837.

STEEL OUTPUT IN PITTSBURGH IS NOT UP TO HOPES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 24.—Expecta- tions entertained with some confidence in the first half of July that there would be the familiar seasonal upturn this month in the demand for steel have not been borne out. The decline appears to have been arrested, but there is no increase in buying fore- shadowing an early upturn in produc- tion.

Producers did not predict an upturn for this month, but many predicted it for September, and while these pre- dictions have not had a test, the prece- dents all are that an autumn up- turn begins with increased production in August, and this has not occurred.

Sanitary District Offers $1,395,000 Bond Issue

Offering is being made of $1,395,000 Chicago Sanitary district 4½ per cent bonds, maturing from 1931 to 1950, inclusive, at prices to yield 3 per cent to 4.05 per cent, according to maturity.

TOO MUCH RAIN MAY DIMINISH GERMAN HARVEST

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

HAMBURG, Aug. 24.—Too much rain rather than too little has upset German harvest calculations. Heavy and continued rains during most of July and throughout the first half of August, coupled with severe storms and floods in the northwestern section of the country last week, which caused widespread damage to that part of the crop which had been cut but not yet gathered in, have materially altered the forecasts.

Whereas a month ago indications pointed strongly to an ample rye and normal wheat yield, although it had been already clear that the quality would be below normal, reports com- ing in now indicate that more than the usual amount of wheat will have to be imported, and it is even likely that Germany's old standby, rye, will prove insufficient for domestic needs this year.

Official crop estimates on Aug. 1 set the wheat yield at 3,500,000 tons, as against 3,800,000 tons, the estimate for July. The rye estimates were 7,600,000 and 8,500,000 tons. The 1929 wheat crop yielded about 9 million tons.

INSULL UTILITY SEEKS NEW FIELD IN MANITOBA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24.—Interests headed by Samuel Insull of Chicago have entered Manitoba and are seek- ing to extend their holdings.

Under the name of National Utili- ties, Ltd., the Insull interests have ac- quired the municipal services of Del- oraine, Swan River, and Hamiota. To- morrow a vote is being taken in Grandview on the question of grant- ing a 20 year franchise to the same group. As an alternative, the pro- vincial power commission is offering to extend hydro service to the munici- pality.

Attempts have been made by Na- tional Utilities to acquire other local services within the province, but un- successfully.

National Utilities was until quite re- cently a subsidiary of Canadian Term- inal Systems, Ltd. This spring Na- tional Utilities was bought by the In- sull interests, organized as the Middle West Utilities Company of Canada, which in turn is controlled by Messrs. Insull, Son & Co. of Canada, Montreal.

$28,335,575 in Municipal Bonds Will Be Awarded

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—New mu- nicipal bond issues scheduled for award this week total $28,335,575 and represent financing for eight commu- nities. The largest single issue is $7,520,000 Allegheny county, Pa., 4¼ per cent road and bridge bonds to be placed on Tuesday.

Week's Developments Fail to Show Business Change

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The last week's developments again failed to reveal any definite change in the trend of business. Steel operations showed an increase, but so slight a gain that it would have been consid- ered negligible had it not represented the first interruption of a downward trend pursued for weeks. There was a further small increase in automo- bile production, but it was insufficient to lift the level of activity in the in- dustry to the point where it was prior to the mid-summer shutdown.

Apart from these slight signs of betterment, the accepted indices were generally lower. Electric production failed to hold the gains of the previ- ous week; car loadings, for the week ended Aug. 9, dropped 14,178 from the total of the preceding week, coming to 904,157 cars, compared with 1,090,- 616 in the corresponding week of last year; building contracts showed a further slackening; and bank clearings continued smaller, being down 33⅓ per cent from the figures for a year ago.

Disturbing Reports.

There have been disturbing reports of a further curtailment of operations on the part of one important light car manufacturer, presumably Ford, and activity on the part of other makers in this class is said to be reduced preparatory to change of models. These conditions have the effect of beclouding the steel outlook. How- ever, scattered advances in scrap steel prices during the last week may mark the approach of a pickup in opera- tions.

The commodity price level showed some improvement, mainly as a result of sharp advances in the price of live stock and meats. The Annalist index of wholesale commodity prices showed a gain of 1.3 points.

The week's record of failures also improved. A total of 436 defaults re- ported to R. G. Dun & Co., compared with 441 the previous week and 452 two weeks ago. The current total is still substantially higher than figures for a year ago, however. In the cor- responding week of last year Dun's reported 399 failures.

Stock Market.

The stock market showed a moder- ately rising trend, with trading activ- ity reduced to low levels. Following the sharp advance of a week from last Friday, brought about by the overcrowding of the short position. Wall street has appeared content to wait for more definite indications from business as to which way it should go.

Among leading bankers and business men there is a continued reluctance to estimate the future course of the cur- rent business depression. It is gener- ally felt that there cannot fail to be an improvement in the fall, but how far this improvement will be carried is still considered problematical. Im- portant economists hold the view that consumption is gradually overtaking production and that before long manu- facturing operations will have to be speeded up to meet the normal de- mand.

Reports by telegraph display a somewhat more cheerful tone. Under the stimulus of wet weather, which has broken the drought, and the ap- proach of the fall season, there has been some improvement in retail buy- ing and here and there an expan- sion of manufacturing activity is re- ported.

Middle West Extends Stock Purchase Warrants

Middle West Utilities company has extended the period during which out- standing common stock purchase war- rants series A 1930 and series B 1931 may be exercised. Enjoins Sale of Stock in Even-Heat Burner Corp.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Further sale of the stock of the Even-Heat Oil Burn- er corporation has been enjoined by Supreme Court Justice Leander B. Faber, the bureau of securities of the attorney general's office announced to- day. The order was signed by Justice Faber in Brooklyn Saturday. The Even-Heat Oil Burner corporation, as a company, and John H. Kimball, its treasurer, were the defendants named in the injunction order.

GOLD OUTFLOW FROM U. S. WILL CONTINUE, SAYS N. Y. BANKER

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The recent outflow of gold from the United States is likely to be continued, in the opinion of John E. Rovensky, vice chairman of the Bank of America, N. A., who states that a process of re- distribution of the world's gold sup- ply must eventually take place.

At present, according to Mr. Roven- sky, this country has far more than its normal share of the world's gold supply, as a result of war operations.

Total gold holdings of central banks and governments of forty-four prin- cipal countries of the world were esti- mated last May as $10,610,000,000, he says, of which the United States held about 39 per cent and France about 16 per cent. England, whose gold re- serves ranked next in importance to those of France, had only about 7 per cent.

The strength of French exchange in terms of practically all foreign cur- rencies is attributed by Mr. Roven- sky to the repatriation of large French balances which have been held abroad and to large French holdings of for- eign bills. The responsibility for the movement of gold to France from London, New York, and other markets does not rest with the Bank of France he says, but is due rather to the re- call of their foreign assets by French commerical banks and the return to France of private funds held abroad.

MEXICO AROUSED BY GOLD FLIGHT ACROSS BORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24. — The American dollar is worth $2.26 in sil- ver today and in the smaller exchange houses $2.30, the highest rate of ex- change in years. This condition has alarmed the government and news- papers and business houses are de- manding executive action to prevent the flight of Mexican gold over the Rio Grande.

El Grafico declares that the decline of silver coinage obeyed only specu- lative motives and hinted that certain officials who should be protecting Mex- ican currency are involved in specula- tion ruinous to the country.

EXPERTS UPSET IN THEORIES BY STOCK DEBACLE

Nation Too Gloomy in Its Attitude.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—To one aspect of the present financial situation less attention has been given than it de- serves. This is the amazing reversal of ideas regarding possible economic vicissitudes, from those which were all but universally entertained a year ago. It is not only the stock market to which such altered inferences apply. The collapse of a highly inflated specu- lative bubble has usually created, even in recent years, a season of discourage- ment, but the ideas which have begun to prevail in many quarters concerning the industrial future are of a kind whose recurrence would have been de- clared impossible in 1928 or the first eight months of 1929.

What has actually happened thus far in 1930 was then regarded as something which could never again occur. To realize how strongly this opinion was intrenched it is only necessary to recall the manner in which the crisis of 1921 and the older "after panic trade reactions" were discussed. Finance and industry had not only entered an era of new and changed conditions but, for reasons that were deemed conclusive, the old fashioned "cycle" with its prolonged

Gentlemen:-

Sheaffer's success in the Chicago city territory and throughout the entire seventh zone is the Tribune's success, and you are entitled to the facts and to make use of them as you see fit.

With the same number of salesmen covering Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin last year compared with 1927, Sheaffer reports increase of 37% in sales and approximately 13% in distribution in this territory.

The city of Chicago and its suburbs netted Sheaffer 150% greater volume increase than the average metropolitan market.

Such a record leaves no doubt in our mind as to the value of our schedule of full pages, full colors run consistently for more than two years in the Sunday Tribune Roto section.

This progress, a great part of which has been possible through the splendid Tribune service co-operating with our own excellent territory managers, should indeed be gratifying to the entire Tribune organization.

Yours very truly,

W. A. SHEAFFER PEN COMPANY

W. A. SHEAFFER PEN COMPANY

SEVENTEEN years ago a jeweler of Fort Madison, Iowa, perfected a fountain pen that filled by pulling a lever in its side. The pen worked and he sold it. In the back room of his store he made other pens and sold them. As the business grew, he built a pen factory and sent out salesmen. Then he started advertising. Today the Sheaffer Pen Company employs more than 1,000 people, and sales last year exceeded by nearly a million and a quarter the company's best previous year.

SINCE 1918, the W. A. Sheaffer Pen Company have advertised continuously in the Chicago Tribune. Starting with 1,980 lines in that year, this company increased their use of Tribune space to a point where, in 1927, it totaled 17,135 lines.

From 1918 to 1927 the advertising ran in black and white. Results from these campaigns were gratifying. Sheaffer Pen sales in the Chicago territory grew much faster than in the country as a whole. But Sheaffer had a color product. Color has proved to be a tremendous factor in stimulating fountain pen sales. Why not use Chicago Tribune color to sell color—and add new sales power to a medium that already had proved its ability as a sales producer?

Color Campaign Begins

So on June 17, 1928, the Chicago Tribune carried the first Sheaffer pen advertisement in colors. A month later another appeared. To date Sheaffer's campaign has included 21 color rotogravure pages in the Chicago Sunday Tribune. And Mr. Sheaffer says:

"Sheaffer's success in the Chicago city territory and throughout the entire seventh zone is the Tribune's success, and you are entitled to the facts and to make use of them as you see fit.

"With the same number of salesmen covering Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin, last year compared with 1927, Sheaffer reports increases of 37% in sales and approximately 13% in distribution.

Chicago and Suburbs Up 104%

"In Chicago and suburbs our increases have been 104% in sales and 2% in dealers.

"The city of Chicago and its suburbs netted Sheaffer 150% greater volume than the average metropolitan market.

"Such a record leaves no doubt in our minds as to the value of our schedule of full pages, full colors run consistently for more than two years in the Sunday Tribune Roto section.

"This progress, a great part of which has been possible through the splendid Tribune service co-operating with our own excellent territory managers, should indeed be gratifying to the entire Tribune organization."

Thus another advertiser testifies: to sell color, use color in dominating Sunday Tribune pages.

Manufacturers who seek to achieve similar successes are invited to get the complete facts from a Chicago Tribune advertising man.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement, vicar of a country village in England, at luncheon tells his wife, Griselda, and young nephew Dennis, who lives with them, that any one who murdered Col. Protheroe would be doing the world at large a service. The colonel enjoys making life miserable for his daughter Lettice, and his second wife, and fusses about the running of the parish. He suspects that there are defalcations in the church accounts and is coming over the next evening to go over them with the vicar. Griselda, nearly twenty years younger than her husband, refuses to take anything, including the parish, seriously. The vicar, returning from parish visits, stops in at the studio on the vicarage grounds, occupied by Lawrence Redding, an artist, for whom Griselda is sitting, and is shocked to discover the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in a passionate embrace. He retreats to his study, followed by Mrs. Protheroe, who tells him of her desperate love for the artist. The vicar begs Lawrence to leave the village.

The next day started out badly for the vicar.

INSTALLMENT VII.

THE COLONEL'S DEATH.

I had a hurried lunch and went out to do some visits. Griselda had gone to London by the cheap Thursday train.

I came in about a quarter to four with the intention of sketching the outline of my Sunday sermon, but Mary told me that Mr. Redding was waiting for me in the study.

I found him pacing up and down with a worried face. He looked white and haggard.

He turned abruptly at my entrance.

"Look here, sir. I've been thinking over what you said yesterday. I've had a sleepless night thinking about it. You're right. I've got to cut and run."

"My dear boy," I said.

"You were right in what you said about Anne. I'll only bring trouble on her by staying here. She's—she's too good for anything else. I see I've got to go. I've made things hard enough for her as it is, heaven help me."

"I think you have made the only decision possible," I said. "I know that it is a hard one, but believe me it will be for the best in the end."

I could see that he thought that that was the kind of thing easily said by some one who didn't know what he was talking about.

"You'll look after Anne? She needs a friend."

"You can rest assured that I will do everything in my power."

"Thank you, sir." He wrung my hand. "You're a good sort, padre. I shall see her to say good-by this evening, and I shall probably pack up and go tomorrow. No good prolonging the agony. Thanks for letting me have the shed to paint in. I'm sorry not to have finished Mrs. Clement's portrait."

Col. Protheroe was lying sprawled across my writing table in a horrible, unnatural position.

"Don't worry about that, my dear boy. Good-by, and God bless you."

When he had gone I tried to settle down to my sermon, but with very poor success. I kept thinking of Lawrence and Anne Protheroe.

I had rather an unpalatable cup of tea, cold and black, and at half-past five the telephone rang. I was informed that Mr. Abbott of Lower Farm was dying and would I please come at once.

I rang up Old Hall immediately, for Lower Farm was nearly two miles away and I could not possibly get back by six-fifteen. I have never succeeded in learning to ride a bicycle.

I was told, however, that Col. Protheroe had just started out in the car, so I departed, leaving word with Mary that I had been called away but would try to be back by six-thirty or soon after.

It was nearer seven than half-past six when I approached the vicarage gate on my return. Before I reached it, it swung open and Lawrence Redding came out. He stopped dead on seeing me and I was immediately struck by his appearance. He looked like a man who was on the point of going mad. His eyes stared in a peculiar manner, he was deathly white, and he was shaking and twitching all over.

I wondered for a moment whether he could have been drinking, but repudiated the idea immediately.

"Hullo," I said, "have you been to see me again? Sorry I was out. Come back now. I've got to see Protheroe about some accounts, but I daresay we shan't be long."

"Protheroe," he said. He began to laugh. "Protheroe? You're going to see Protheroe? O, you'll see Protheroe all right. O, my God, yes!"

I stared. Instinctively I stretched out a hand towards him. He drew sharply aside.

"No," he almost cried out. "I've got to get away—to think. I've got to think. I must think."

He broke into a run and vanished rapidly down the road towards the village, leaving me staring after him, my first idea of drunkenness recurring.

Finally I shook my head and went on to the vicarage. The front door is always left open, but nevertheless I rang the bell. Mary came, wiping her hands on her apron.

"So you're back at last," she observed.

"Is Col. Protheroe here?" I asked.

"In the study. Been here since a quarter past six."

"And Mr. Redding's been here?"

"Come a few minutes ago. Asked for you. I told him you'd be back any minute and that Col. Protheroe was waiting in the study, and he said he'd wait too and went there. He's there now."

"No, he isn't," I said. "I've just met him going down the road."

"Well, I didn't hear him leave. He can't have stayed more than a couple of minutes. The mistress isn't back from town yet."

I nodded absentmindedly. Mary beat a retreat to the kitchen quarters and I went down the passage and opened the study door.

After the dusk of the passage the evening sunshine that was pouring into the room made my eyes blink. I took a step or two across the floor and then stopped dead.

For a moment I could hardly take in the meaning of the scene before me. Col. Protheroe was lying sprawled across my writing table in a horrible, unnatural position. There was a pool of some dark fluid on the desk by his head and it was slowly dripping on to the floor with a horrible drip, drip, drip.

I pulled myself together and went across to him. His skin was cold to the touch. The hand that I raised fell back lifeless. The man was dead—shot through the head.

I went to the door and called Mary. When she came I ordered her to run as fast as she could and fetch Dr. Haydock, who lives just at the corner of the road. I told her there had been an accident.

Then I went back and closed the door to await the doctor's coming.

Fortunately Mary found him at home. Haydock is a good fellow, a big, fine, strapping fellow with an honest, rugged face.

His eyebrows went up when I pointed silently across the room. But like a true doctor he showed no signs of emotion. He bent over the dead man, examining him rapidly. Then he straightened himself and looked across at me.

"Well?" I asked.

"He's dead, right enough—been dead half an hour, I should say."

"Suicide?"

"Out of the question, man. Look at the position of the wound. Besides, if he shot himself, where's the weapon?"

True enough, there was no sign of any such thing.

"We'd better not mess around with anything," said Haydock. "I'd better ring up the police."

The doctor picked up the receiver and spoke into it. He gave the facts as curtly as possible, and then replaced the telephone and came across to where I was sitting.

"Is—is it murder?" I asked rather faintly.

"Looks like it. Mean to say—what else can it be? Extraordinary business. Wonder who had a down on the poor old fellow. Of course, I know he wasn't popular, but one isn't often murdered for that reason—worse luck."

"There's one rather curious thing," I said. "I was telephoned for this afternoon to go to a dying parishioner. When I got there every one was very surprised to see me. The sick man was very much better than he had been for some days, and his wife flatly denied telephoning for me at all."

Haydock drew his brows together.

"That's suggestive—very. You were being got out of the way. Where's your wife?"

"Gone up to London for the day."

"And the maid?"

"In the kitchen—right at the other side of the house."

"Where she wouldn't be likely to hear anything that went on in here. It's a nasty business. Who knew that Protheroe was coming here this evening?"

"He referred to the fact this morning in the village street at the top of his voice, as usual."

"Meaning that the whole village knew it! Which they always do in any case. Know of any one who had a grudge against him?"

Good Morning!

Let's call this a home sweet home bootlegging drama. BECAUSE——

While it starts out in the night club of that notorious king of hijackers known as Mac and spends considerable time there with him, his handy men, and the crooning singer, whose man he once was but isn't any more; while it has plenty of scenes depicting ruthlessness, recklessness, and hard boiled gentlemen talking out of the sides of their mouths, there comes a time when the scene is changed.

Witness Joan, the new singer, a young lady casually fished out of the East river on a dark, foggy night by Mac, who becomes crazy for her, speeding away with a high minded young newspaper reporter to spend an old fashioned Christmas down on the farm with Aunt Maggie and Uncle Joe! Enter, snow, sleigh, and sleigh bells, roast turkey, and all the fixin's! O, this part is guaranteed to make anybody who ever had a predilection for the so-called simple things lick his chops and hanker for a hankie.

The story is interesting and rather unusual. Milton Sills, recovered from a long illness, has, in Mac, a rôle tailored for him. Somewhat inclined toward postures, he plays a man greatly given to gestures and he puts over the characterization in great shape. Dorothy Mackaill and Mr. McKenna do sincere and pleasing work and other impersonations are sympathetically given. Sets, scenery, and photography are great and most of the dialogue is good.

Here's a film that would make a splendid Christmas number—but that does well now and should be welcome at any time.

See you tomorrow.

G. A. R. RALLIES AGAIN; REUNION IS OPENED IN CINCINNATI, OHIO

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The general public had its first opportunity to participate in the latest national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Eden Park here today, where trees and a flag pole were dedicated, and the United States marine band gave a concert.

Trees were dedicated by the women's relief corps to the memory of William C. Johnson, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. 20 years ago, who died two months after his election; Clara Barton, head of the Red Cross and famous civil war nurse, and the present commander-in-chief, Edwin J. Foster of Massachusetts. The third tree was accepted by Mr. Foster in person, who delivered a short address.

The memorial flag staff in the park was dedicated by the Daughters of Union Veterans. Special services were held in all Cincinnati churches this morning in honor of the visting veterans and their friends.

J. W. Willett, Iowa, judge advocate and past commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, speaking before the national organization of federated patriotic societies today, said, "You must stand ever ready to combat the baleful influence of that other group of women, the Daughters of the Southern Confederacy.

"I have had ample opportunity," he continued, "to see the workings of this influence, and it is one that we must guard against. There are still those who believe the stars and bars stood for something pure and noble."

Vets of Civil War Here En Route to Encampment

Civil war veterans, en route to the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Cincinnati this week, arrived in Chicago yesterday. A vanguard of 150 arrived on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad. Of this number 75 were representing organizations in Minnesota and North Dakota. A party of 50 came from Milwaukee and 25 from Oregon and Washington.

Duchess, Baby Arouse British Labor Factions

Some of Labor Party Cite Poverty's Lot.

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Continued favorable progress of the duchess of York and her infant daughter was reported in the bulletin issued today from Glamis castle, where the child was born last week.

"The duchess of York continues to make a normal convalescence," said the bulletin. "Her royal highness has had another excellent night's sleep, and so has the infant princess."

Sir Henry Simson, the obstetrician attending the duchess, issued a statement from the castle denying that "twilight sleep" had been used for the birth.

"My attention has been drawn to certain statements in the press with regard to the confinement of her royal highness, the duchess of York, particularly one that twilight sleep was induced," said the physician.

"This statement is without any foundation, and I desire to emphasize the fact, which has been stated in the bulletins—namely: that everything was and continues to be absolutely normal."

The duchess of York's baby has stirred some of labor's left wing members to comparisons between the lot of royal infants and that of their poverty stricken infant subjects.

At the annual Keir Hardie memorial demonstration on Saturday at Cumnock, Ayrshire, barely a hundred miles from Glamis, Miss Mary Sherman, Laborite, said the royal baby "would never have to face the question of living on 5, 3, or 2 shillings a week."

John R. Clynes, home secretary, who was present officially to attest the birth, came in for some scorching criticism by the Labor party's left wing members.

Miss Shernan said lots of babies could have been substituted before Clynes saw the child, but she wasn't concerned with that kind of substitution.

"What I want to emphasize is that the needs of the royal baby are just the same as those of any other baby in the country—fresh air, proper food and sunlight."

John McGovern, recently elected Labor M. P. for Shettleston, made a direct attack on Clynes. He said it was "a mockery and a shame to see the Labor home secretary sitting for three weeks on the doorstep of royalty as a kind of Labor midwife while the working classes were enduring the long night of martyrdom and despair."

Swedish Music Has Its Day on Program Given at Ravinia

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Swedish National Society of Chicago devoted itself to the charms of persuasive music at Ravinia yesterday afternoon and the Ravinia organization responded by dedicating its program to that society. The Chicago Symphony orchestra played a symphony by Kurt Atterberg and other works of Grieg and Alfven; John Weicher, principal violinist of the orchestra, played a group of solos; Mme. Julia Claussen sang an aria from Andreas Hallens opera, "Waldemarssatten"; songs by Sjögren and Jarnefelt, and encores.

This was the occasion in brief form, but failing to indicate how much enjoyment there was in two brief hours. The symphony showed that its composer knows a good tune when he confronts it, even if he cannot always claim exclusive rights on the recognition. Mr. Weicher is a brilliant and popular soloist. Mme. Claussen's nobility of voice and singing manner makes her a distinctive figure in the world of music.

Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal court, was expected to be present, but had been suddenly called out of town. His place was taken by Justus Mozart, president of the Swedish National society, who spoke briefly but found occasion to say several agreeable and true things about Ravinia.

The day was almost a continuous performance for Mme. Claussen, for in the evening she appeared as Ulrica in Verdi's opera, "A Masked Ball," her associates being Elisabeth Rethberg, Florence Macbeth, Giovanni Martinelli, Giuseppe Danise; in other words, the striking cast that sang it before.

A number of foreign notables of the legal profession who have been attending the American Bar association in Chicago got their first view of Ravinia on this occasion. Viscount Dunedin, lord of appeals and lord keeper the great seal of Scotland, and Lady Dunedin were box guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eckstein. Another party consisted of Sir William Jowitt, attorney general of England, and Lady Jowitt; Sir John and Lady Simon and their son, Gilbert Simon, who were the guests of Noble Brandon Judah.

Chicago Poles Recall How They Defeated Russian Reds' Army

Polish-Americans of Chicago and vicinity yesterday celebrated the 10th anniversary of their repulse of the Russian Reds. The main celebration recalling the defeat of the Russian army in late August, 1920, was held at Humboldt park. The program for the anniversery was developed by a committee under the leadership of John Olejniczak of the Polish Roman Catholic union.

The program pointed out the importance to Poland as well as to the rest of the world in the Polish victory, when Marshal Pilsudski, cooperating with leaders of various political groups, organized a council of defense in spite of foreign advice to yield to soviet demands. An Aug. 13, 1920, the Red army was within a dozen miles of Warsaw, and on Aug. 15 of that year the victorious battle of Vistula bgan. Three days later the Poles had captured 70,000 Red soldiers and vast quantities of military supplies.

At the celebration yesterday the speakers included Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area; David E. Shanahan, speaker of the Illinois house of representatives; Alexander Szczepanski, consul general of the Polish republic, and others.

Catholic Alumnae Meet in Annual Convention

Emmitsburg, Md., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Carrying lighted tapers, delegates here to attend the annual convention of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae tonight visited the tomb of Mother Seton, organizer of one of the branches of the Sisters of Charity. A eulogy of her life was read by the Rev. Joseph B. Code of Davenport, Ia., and benedection pronounced by the Rt. Rev. John N. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of the diocese of Baltimore.

During the afternoon a wreath was placed on the national monument in Gettysburg cemetery by Mrs. Mary Blake Finan of Chicago, international president. The ceremonies were attended by nearly 200 graduates of Catholic colleges and high schools from all parts of the United States and Canada, who were welcomed to Maryland last night by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

MAE WEST spoke the prologue for the new theatrical season at the Garrick last night with her lurid charade called "Sex." Perhaps this actress-playwright, who has undertaken to hold the mirror up to the red light districts, may be a symbol of modern tendencies in the drama, and, if so, she must be viewed with considerable alarm.

I prefer, however, to regard Miss West as an accident, a psychological freak, a throwback to the crude sensationalism, in carnal matters, of our grandfathers. Her plays are old fashioned Bowery melodramas with more freedom of speech than the code of 1900 allowed, and she herself is a curiosity conjured up out of the back numbers of the Police Gazette.

You remember "Diamond Lil," of course? Well, this latest offering of Miss West's is something like that—only not so good, in its carnal quaintness, because it is not as rich in the quality of unconscious burlesque. In "Diamond Lil," by that stroke of fortune which sometimes blesses the work of clumsy amateurs in letters, Miss West was a caricaturist; but in "Sex" she is merely an eager and tasteless sob sister, trying like many another to make a thumping, portentous opus out of the crazy career of a harlot. She seeks to be tough and heart rending; she only succeeds in being cheap and silly.

This dream of a drab's progress begins in the segregated district of Montreal, where its dizzy heroine is undertaking to entertain the British fleet on shore leave; progresses to Trinidad in the tropics, where true love interferes with her endeavors to be true to the West Indies squadron, and ends in Westchester, New York, where she learns, with much bosom-heaving, that blondes who follow fleets cannot hope to marry into the aristocracy without having their purple pasts rise up to smite them. That's all of the story of "Sex" that can be told without use of asterisks. Its representation is accomplished by much bad acting and inferior stage direction.

Miss West seems to have shed a few of the pillows which gave her such an undulatory effect in "Diamond Lil." She teeters about the stage, however, with the same curious, mincing walk; she uses the same hissing, hard boiled method of diction; she is, in a way, the same character. Some of the sentimental dialogue she has written for herself has the florid falseness of 1840, and some of the hard boiled lines of argot are atrociously blunt. The Sunday nighters whooped it up for Mae, however, no matter how hard she stepped on the gas.

"The House of Fear," a mystery melodrama, or farce, began an engagement at the Playhouse last night. It will be reviewed tomorrow.

BUSINESS WOMEN OF 19 NATIONS MEET FOR WORLD PEACE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Aug. 24.—Business and professional women of 19 countries, including 100 from the United States, today began a three days' session here to organize an international group to promote their interests and the cause of world peace.

There are Belgian and Rumanian women lawyers, French hotel keepers, Italian and Hungarian journalists. Among the Americans are Miss Helen Livingston, principal of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls of New York City; Miss Marjory Lacey-Baker, publicity and financial secretary of a New York nursery and children's hospital; Mrs. Pearl Warwick of Champaign, Ill., who has advised 250,000 women on small loans; Mrs. Grace Roberts of Omaha, vice president of a dairy; Miss Lydia Turke, part owner of a Fort Dodge, Ia., department store; Miss Grace Higgins of Pampa, Tex., an oil operator, and Dr. Mildred Rogers, obstetrician, of Newcastle, Pa.

The meeting will discuss legislative and other handicaps of business and professional women, the problems of married and older business women, and what women can do to further world peace.

The international relations committee of the American Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, of which Miss Lena M. Phillips, New York attorney, is chairman, convoked the meeting.

Preacher Calls Dry Law Test of Old Method

Cites Puritan Theocracy and Its Decline.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Prohibition, as it functions in the United States today, represents a final test of whether man's moral habits may effectively be governed by civil law.

The Rev. John Crippen Evans, associate rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, so stated yesterday in his sermon during a special service arranged in connection with the convention of the American Bar association, just concluded. A distinguished congregation, including many leaders of the American and European bars, heard the sermon.

Without specifically condemning legislative attempts to protect society, the Rev. Mr. Evans declared that morality does not issue from civil law. Rather, he said, good laws are derived from the moral insight of the people subject to them. He cited the case of Palestine at the time of Christ.

"Despite the great legal system developed by the Jews of that period, it was a day when racketeering gangsters pandered to priestly magistrates," Dr. Evans said. "They had succeeded even in planting themselves and their trades within the very courts of the temple.

"The Scribes, who were the lawyers of that day, were concerned almost entirely with seeking evasions and loopholes in the law instead of trying to correct such abuses."

"We turn to observe our own day with the realization that our present experience is not unique," he continued. "For the most part, our standards rest on early New England ideals which sprang from Puritanism. For a time, Puritan theocracy was dominant in our land. Today we find it dying hard. A moral collapse has followed. The old New England idea, following the Hebrew principle, declared that if men were not good by choice, they could be made good by law. The final test of that idea now rests on the future of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution."

The moral collapse through which America is passing, said Dr. Evans, has resulted in a spiritual and moral anarchy and society has "glutted itself with a new personal liberty." This liberty, he held, is the basis on which criminal gangs and unprincipled politicians are working.

"The sense of sin," he declared, "seems to have vanished in the wide discrepancy of opinions as to what sorts of conduct constitute sins. A sin in Chicago seems to be no sin at all in Canada. A sin in Wisconsin seems no sin in Louisiana. A sin by a Methodist is no sin by an Episcopalian. From Scotland came the game of golf and the whole moral program of Sunday walking, sinful in old New England, has been reversed. It is almost a sin not to play golf on Sunday nowadays.

"In facing the facts which confront us today, we discover that the barriers of former sanctions have been razed and we are now overrun with a spiritual and moral anarchy. The sins of New England ancestors are visited upon their Chicago children in the form of luscious excesses of harmless pleasures."

"Love is the ultimate test of law," Dr. Evans concluded. "Christ is the answer to our baffling problem. In the end mankind will be driven to Him as the only solution of its moral difficulties."

Special services for bar convention delegates also were held at the University of Chicago chapel and at Holy Name cathedral. Following the chapel service the visiting barristers inspected the University of Chicago campus and were luncheon guests at Hutchinson hall.

Pre-Railroad Mail Rates Are Told in Old Letter

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—A letter written ninety-two years ago by Gouverneur Kemble, then a representative in congress, which has just been made public in Brewster by his descendants, showed that before railroads were built mail was hauled by stage from Sing Singville, now Ossining, to Somers at a rate of 6 cents a mile by contractors.

This rate was charged, regardless of the weight or amount of a single shipment of mail There was one mail a week over the route. In the letter Kemble urged that the Sing Sing-Somers route be extended nineteen miles from Somers, by way of Doane's and Patterson to Pawling. In those days the mails between Sing Sing and New York were handled by vessels on the Hudson when the river was open and in cold weather by stage coaches.

Lowly Chinese Is Smart in His Own Quiet Way

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—The Chinese coolie can become a man of affairs, with less "evolution" than a stranger would consider likely. Here are several instances:

Experiments have been made in road improvement and the operation of buses. It is rare that the Chinese official who promotes the road and purchases the buses knows anything whatever about the operation of the cars. When the cars are purchased in Shanghai, the selling agent is instructed to send along a sufficient number of chauffeurs to operate the cars.

The chauffers arrive on the scene and quickly sense the situation. They start their own garage, import their own mechanics from Shanghai and actually dominate the entire situation. An agent told me of several instances where the chauffers had squeezed the bus lines so energetically that the officials finally became disgusted and sold the buses to the chauffers.

Another place where the genius of the Chinese coolie is demonstrating itself is in the business of war-making, in which industry China is and has been receiving first class experience for several years. Once there was a time when the Chinese generals met for battle, counted noses and weighed money-bags and the general with the largest army and the longest purse was awarded the victory, without the discomfort and mess of fighting. But no longer is this true.

Human Question Mark Makes Her Friends Peeved

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How would you go about curing an inquisitive person? The one in question happens to be my husband. He embarrasses me and aggravates me to death with the personal things he asks of people, such as: 'How old are you?' 'What did you pay for your car?' 'What is your business worth?'

"He can't be made to see that it is not nice. He is 30 and considered intellectual and should know better, but we have many arguments on this score.—Mrs. B. X."

On every list of acquaintances there is one individual who might be called the Inquiring Nuisance. And how we resent their interest in our private affairs! In the course of my own acquaintances I recall one woman with the offensive habit of prying into your savings account and other business about which one justly feels the right to maintain silence, unless personally disposed to confidence giving. The pest used to preface her query with: "Not meaning to be personal—but how much money have you in the bank?" Or, following her not-meaning-to-be-personal introduction, she would ask the most impudent question about your family affairs, the cost of your clothes, whether your mother and father got on all right, and so on.

She was partially cured in the group in which she was circulating at the time by an agreement among the sufferers to put her through a course of like queries, prefacing them with her own introduction. She was subjected to pretty crude attacks, as they are looked back on now. She was bitterly resentful of one attack on a particular family secret of her own, and when she called the querier down for his impudence he disclosed that he wasn't interested in her father, but he wanted her to get a taste of what she had subjected others to.

Some of the inquisitive ones can be cured and some have so abnormal an interest in the private affairs of others that their cases seem hopeless. They live, thrive, and fatten on the news they can extract by hook or crook, or direct questioning. However, when the habit is a recognized one, people are put on guard and cut off the queriers from the simpler confidences of friendships.

It's bad taste in any event to put questions of a personal nature to any one unless the audience reveals a desire to be put on the witness stand. The cure, then, is to try to make the offender see he is committing a social breach; also one that does not endear him to people.

Small Manicuring Sets Work Magic for the Busy Woman

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Vanity is at a low ebb, indeed, if a girl's dressing table has not one of those complete little manicuring sets on it. They're inexpensive, neat, compact and can work magic on nails for those emergency moments when one may not be able to work in a professional appointment.

Even with the professional service, the manicure kit is still an imperative need. For nails are expected to look all dressed up with some place to go every moment.

I do think a beautiful nail consciousness has developed among us of recent years. One sees more good looking finger nails and hands than badly kept ones. Economic pressure is not without influence here. There are employment centers in which the employés' finger nails are observed in estimating fitness for service, as with department store clerks. The influence has extended to every vocation. In fact, working women are as prone to go to their posts with nails off color as they are to go with dirty faces, which is just something they do not appear with.

The older woman I think is the worst nail offender. Often she is the woman who is busily engaged with affairs of her family and household and believes she has not the time to tend her nails. For her the small manicuring packs are a blessing.

And if there is anything that lends to an individual the feeling that everything is all right with the world it is the knowledge that you can stretch a hand out gracefully and be sure there will be no censure about the condition of the nails. In fact, neglect on this score is coming to be as unforgivable as unbrushed, decayed and neglected looking teeth.

At any rate, those finger ends must be kept up. You know what is needed for the manicure and you know the outlay is insignificant.

If there is a tendency to hangnails you can grease the tips and cuticle with a bit of cold cream or olive oil until improvement is marked. You can remove cigarette stains with peroxide or with a mixture of pumice stone and peroxide, scrubbing with a nail brush. There are good stain removers on the market, too.

Martin Lindsay and Family Going to Europe

BY THALIA

Circumstances, business, and other-wise, have quite suddenly made it necessary for the Martin Lindsay family of Winnetka to change all their winter plans and depart for a whole year, and perhaps longer, in Europe. They have recalled the invitations for the debut tea they were to give for their daughter, Beatrice, on Saturday, Sept. 12, have leased their house, and expect to leave about the middle of next month.

The three oldest children, Miss Beatrice, David, and John, are to go to school in Switzerland for the year, and the youngsters, Marjorie and Isabel, are to remain with their parents who are to divide their time between London and Paris.

The Lindsays play an active part in Winnetka's affairs, and they will be missed during their absence from the hunting and riding activities at Indian Hill and various other north shore community projects.

The opening of the racing season at Lincoln Fields today will no doubt attract a number of the regular turf fans who have frequented Arlington and Washington park so much this summer. The Stuyvesant Peabodys have come from their lodge at Lac du Flambeau, where they have been since early July, to be present at the meet. They plan to have guests for lunch on in the clubhouse before the races almost every day of the season.

Preliminary organization work for the 10th session of the Circuit Theater association of the north shore, formerly known as the North Shore Theater guild, is under way, and the annual campaign for members is to begin Sept. 15. Chairmen of local committees have been chosen and they will meet at the residence of Mrs. Laird Bell of Winnetka on Sept. 15. Mrs. Harold Ambler is chairman of the Lake Forest committee. Samuel Otis is president of the association this year and Mrs. Bell is a member of the play reading committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wedelstaedt of 1411 North State parkway are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter at the Grant hospital on Thursday last. Mrs. Wedelstaedt was Miss Katharine DeF. Wakeman before her marriage. The Wedelstaedts are former residents of Minneapolis.

The Wolcott Blairs are now at Oyster Bay, Long Island, for a fortnight's visit with Mrs. Blair's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Yuille. They had previously been visiting Mr. Blair's mother, Mrs. Watson F. Blair, at York Harbor, Me. They plan to be back in Chicago shortly after Labor day.

The three members of the William R. Clow Jr. household have departed in separate directions for individual trips. Mrs. Clow accompanied Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson and Mrs. Frank Hibbard to Murray Bay and Montreal, Canada. Mr. Clow is in Southampton, L. I., for a week, and Miss Francis is visiting the Albert De Witt Erskines at their camp at Desbarats, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. John Payne Kelly of Lake Forest are returning today from a fishing trip in Canada.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine gave a dinner one night last week for her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Armour, and for Philip Armour, who are visiting her at Valmay, Southampton, L. I., for several weeks. She had 20 guests for the affair.

Miss Katherine Trowbridge, daughter of the Cornelius Trowbridges, returned from a visit with Jean Ryan say at the summer place of Miss Ryan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rumsey at Michigamme, Mich.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Mrs. Byrd have been guests of Admiral Byrd's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Faulkner Jr. of the Belden-Stratford hotel. They are remaining for the 10 day period of the races, and as their program will be largely filled with attendance at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport only a few small dinners are being arranged for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lloyd Bishop Josephine Munroe], and Mr. and Mrs. Burton Jackson, left New York to be over the week-end with Mrs. Lloyd's father, Charles A. Munroe, to cruise to Newport, R. I., on Mr. Munroe's yacht the Rhea III. Later, the Lloyds are going to Saratoga Springs, where they have taken a cottage for the remainder of the season.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

An unusual wrapped treatment of the skirt distinguishes this dress of navy blue silk crêpe. The hips are snugly fitted, and the belting of the dress at the normal waistline is generally becoming. The surplice bodice is rolled into revers that show a smart facing of white silk crêpe, and the dress is one that is suitable for all day occasions.

The pattern, 2551, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Sally's Little Guests' Show Given by the Jack, Jill Players

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

High above near north side roof tops and overlooking the sparkling lake my hundred young friends and I gathered Saturday afternoon in that delightful theater which houses the Jack and Jill players for another of our summer parties. Miss Marie Agnes Foley, director and founder of this interesting group, had planned for our entertainment a program which consisted of three one-act plays and certainly she must have been proud of the young performers as they enacted them.

There was "Li'l Black Heliotrope," the play by Frances Cavanah which took us back to the days before the civil war and to the time of slavery. The principal character was played by Dolores Anderson who became a real Topsy before our eyes. We wept with her at the thought of being sold and separated from her little mistress and we were almost hysterical at her tricks and antics to escape such a fate.

This was followed by "Wee Willie Winkie," that delightful thing of Kipling's. British soldiers and big, bad natives paraded across the stage of the Jack and Jill theater, which had been temporarily transformed to an Indian hut. In the last play, "The Pot of Broth," we saw an Irish beggarman concoct for himself a delicious meal out of a stone and we were just as spellbound as the housewife and her husband whom he was trying to fool.

After the performance our pictures were taken and refreshments were served to us on the lovely roof garden that surrounds the theater. From this vantage point we had a glimpse of towers and spires of downtown office buildings and a lake flecked with white sails. We felt fortunate, indeed, to be having our party with the Jack and Jill players in their aerial playhouse, for next month they will move to the Princess theater in order to accommodate larger audiences.

So charmed were we that most of us forgot that the city stretched below and that the elevators were waiting to bring us "back to earth." But now the afternoon was on its last legs and partying time was over.

Food Talk.

It is a well known fact that such diseases as gout, dyspepsia, and diabetes are caused by eating too much of one or more foods. When too much of a load is put on the digestive and absorptive organs they rebel. If the load is attempted for too long the result is that the mechanisms for handling food become so impaired that they are eventually unable to take care of the average amounts of food. Manifestation of this impairment is disease. Many diseases are also caused by a lack of certain foods.

Every year nutrition workers in different scientific laboratories are collecting data which prove that cure and prevention of many diseases can be effected through the use of certain foods. One of the most recent discoveries is the prevention of hay fever through the diet. In this case it is a matter of limiting the protein. Dr. Siegfried Maurer of Sprague institute, in a recent conference of the Hay Fever Society of Chicago stated that at least 90 per cent of hay fever victims are benefited through proper diet. Mild sufferers are often completely relieved, while severe sufferers are partly relieved. As a rule those afflicted are heavy consumers of protein food. Their body mechanism for carrying protein is already doing all it can.

When the pollen of the ragweed, which contains proteins, is absorbed the load is too much and the result is hay fever. Individuals who live on a low protein diet and are not carrying such a heavy load can take care of the additional pollen protein without undergoing the shock which shows up as hay fever.

The diet recommended by specialists in the treatment of hay fever is that those who are susceptible to the malady consume a smaller amount of protein in order that the additional pollen protein be absorbed without discomfort. Fifty grams of protein a day they consider adequate, and no harm can come to any individual who lives on this amount of protein during the short ragweed season. This covers a period of about three weeks, beginning about Aug. 20th and extending to around Sept. 7.

The menus given furnish a diet low in protein, but adequate in all other essentials—carbohydrates, fats, minerals, and vitamins. The protein is found primarily in meat, fish, milk, cheese, eggs, and legumes.

The protein value of the diet suggested for today is as follows:

½ cup orange juice contains	no protein
1 scant cup uncooked cereal	3 grams
1 serving coffee cake contains	5 grams
Jam contains	no protein
4 tablespoons cream contains	1 gram
1 serving potato salad	4 grams
1 1-3 slices rye bread	2 grams
1 serving sliced tomatoes	3 grams
1 serving cherry tapioca	no protein
1 serving green beans and cheese sauce	14 grams
2-3 cup chocolate	6 grams
2 ears corn on cob	3 grams
1 serving summer squash	no protein
1 serving salad	no protein
2 wafers	1 gram
½ cup ice cream	3 grams
Total	45 grams

Avoid Element of Secrecy with Your Children

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A play booklet and a toy list will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There is one point left over from yesterday's [Sunday's] article on answering a child's first questions on reproduction.

Usually, a certain admonition goes hand in hand with the first information a mother gives her little child, or with her answers to the first really searching questions. This is the usual admonition: "Now, don't ever talk about this with any one. This is a beautiful secret between you and me." Or in some other way she gives a strong feeling of secrecy about the subject, even to little children.

Some writers on sex education believe in this, too. But I think it is a great mistake. And please remember that my opinion is not based on mere theory.

One reason why we parents are so unnatural on the subject of sex is for this very reason—because it has been so shrouded in secrecy, mystery, etc. If we link the idea of secrecy immediately with the discussion of what some people call "intimate subjects," then we are continuing the mystery system—we are doing the first thing to set it apart from the whole of life, from the whole body, from the whole scheme of existence. Instead, our aim should be to let this information slip into place with other information they gather about life and material things.

I know that in many people's minds this opinion will arouse a clamor of protest, voicing all sorts of objections. I can understand it, too. But most of those objections are based on fear—such as the fear that the child will discuss such matters with another child.

If you feel you must say something to prevent general outside discussion of the subject, do avoid the word "secret. Perhaps, say casually, "If you want to ask any more questions about babies [or whatever you've been discussing] ask them of mother or daddy—because lots of grown people don't know how to explain such things" [which is quite true], "and a great many children don't know anything at all about it, or have it all mixed up." This is enough to say and has no sense of hiding something in it. At the same time it is casual sounding and so does not unduly emphasize the subject.

Another fear people have which makes them caution secrecy is the thought that they will be embarrassed by some remark of the child's in public. Well, my hard-hearted answer to that is, "Take a chance rather than shroud such natural things in a harmful fog of mystery." Besides, children rarely seem to get on the subject in public—they're usually diverted by other things then. And it's experience, not book learning that lies back of that statement.

Of course, there are exceptions and if you do see some question or remark in the offing, there's always our old friend tact to fall back on in some form or other. You can change the subject, for instance, if you're at all quick witted.

Dinner Jackets for Daylight Saving

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Dinner jackets used to be considered a purely masculine accoutrement, but daylight saving has converted them to feminism. Almost every one has experienced that undressed feeling when dining, low necked and sleeveless, in the broad daylight that persists in summer until it's time for dancing.

Paris couturiers came to the rescue with little dinner jackets of lace, braided and embroidered net, or mousseline that throw a veil over the decolleté and the upper arms, until such time as the shades of night make it unnecessary.

Sketched above are three versions of these brief wraps I've seen dining at Deauville recently. The one shown at the top of the page is a cape scarf of ruby mousseline. It was thrown over the shoulders and simply knotted. Worn with a midnight blue crêpe frock, long ruby suede gloves, and a necklace of sapphires and rubies, it was most effective.

The short sleeved bolero in the center is of white net, embroidered all over with crystal beads. It added a pretty finishing touch to a simple white satin frock. The necklace and bracelet were all in diamonds.

The long sleeved fitted basque shown at the bottom of our sketch is in bright green lace. It has a round, draped shoulder yoke that ties in a bow in the center and a tiny circular peplum that flares quaintly, a little below the natural waistline. It contrasted amusingly with a frock of dark brown chiffon. The necklace was of square cut and cabochon emeralds.

German War Veteran Will Discuss Commercial Crisis

Prof. Kurt Marx, former member of the German parliament and an officer in the German army during the war, will address the Kiwanis club Tuesday noon in the Sherman Plaza hotel. Dr. Marx will discuss the commercial crisis from an international standpoint.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

A five year test has proven conclusively that second mortgage loans can be made at a cost which is not out of proportion to the rates charged on first mortgage loans and other types of recognized and regulated financial transactions.

And these rates which we have introduced in this community and all of the conditions attached to our way of loaning have stood the test of prosperious times, and are standing the test of a period of depression in real estate.

We are making second mortgage loans and invite the home owner who may be looking for new funds or who may be interested in securing a part or all of maturing mortgage financing to make use of the facilities which we offer.

We charge 7% accruing interest and a commission of 3½% for 1 year, 6½% for 2 years, and 9% for 3 years.

Elkhorn, Wis., Aug. 25 [Tuesday]. (AP)—[Special.]—A man hunt th spread over three states ended he last night when Claude Dillner, 27 ye old farm hand, was captured with year old Betty Ann Foster whom had kidnaped last Saturday eveni from her father's farm near Valp raiso, Ind. The girl was tearful b apparently unharmed.

After hours of hard driving Sher
Burney Maxwell of Valparaiso arriv here early this morning with a depu and a neighbor of the Fosters, Charl Sims. Within an hour the party sta ed back to Indiana with the prison and Betty Ann.

Tells Why He Took Child.

"I took her because I loved her said the farm hand, a navy desert and former employé of Betty Ann's f ther, Ernest Foster. "I thought w could go away and be happy togethe
I soon realized what a mistake I mad because Betty cried most of the tim
I never meant what I said about ki ing her if they chased me."

"Lucky you didn't," Sheriff Maxwe interjected. Hundreds of Foster's neig bors, armed with shotguns, scythe and pitchforks, had been searching t swamps around the Foster farm f forty-eight hours in belief that Dill had carried out his threat, expressed in a note, to slay his captive if pu sued.

Chicagoans Cause Capture.

Alertness of two Chicagoans, Jam
N. Mulhearn, 937 North Ogden avenu cars as Dillner started his car.

Claims Girl Is Niece.

Asked about the child, he said s was his niece, and explained the Illinois license plates by saying he h recently moved from that state to C cago. He was permitted to go on.
Cheever telephoned Police Chief Jam
H. Cronin at Lake Geneva.

Patrolman Albert Exner, who is a a Walworth county deputy, was s to investigate. The suspect, he fou had taken Highway 50 west, althou it was barricaded for bridge constr tion. Trailing, he found that Dill had circumvented the bridge constr tion by driving through a farm field.

Exner followed the tracks in the miles south of Elkhorn.

Denies His Identity.

"You're the kidnaper," the dep accused him. Dillner protested, g his name as Johnson, and said child was his cousin.

"What's your name, little gir asked Exner. Betty Ann gave name in a piping voice and quave that she wanted to go back to her dad's farm in Indiana.

Dillner told how, after spend Saturday afternoon visiting the cars and accepting their invitation supper, he had driven Betty Ann mother, Kenneth, 11 years old and sister Annabelle, 8, to the n village of Malden and bought t candy.
